

Air Transportation Crisis May Worsen

By JOHN M. PEARCE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization has warned it will not tolerate further government investigation of last week's slowdown, raising the possibility of a new—and possibly worse—air transportation crisis.

But the director of the Federal Aviation Administration's Air Traffic Service, William J. Flenner, said the probe would continue.

The renewed dispute had no immediate effect on air traffic, however, and major airports throughout the eastern United States report normal operations.

Between 250-300 controllers called in sick last Wednesday and Thursday, while those who reported enforced FAA safety rules to the letter, forcing airlines to cancel hundreds of flights and delay others for hours.

The controllers complained of being understaffed and overworked.

When the slowdown ended Friday morning, FAA investigators began quizzing every controller who reported sick, asking each to furnish a physician's statement. Flenner said the interviewing was stopped Sunday but was to be resumed today.

"If this is continued today, we think the whole thing will blow up and aviation will come to a stop," the organization's vice chairman, James R. Egan, said in New York. He said he feared an "emotional and spontaneous" reaction by controllers in key cities, even though organization officials were urging members to "cool it."

Talk to Lawyers

In Boston F. Lee Bailey, counsel for the controllers, echoed the prediction. "If it happens again Monday these men will walk out," he said. "They all have lawyers and if the investigators want to talk with them, we are available."

Bailey said he protested to the Department of Transportation over the weekend it was "harassment" when investigators called controllers from their radar sets to be questioned.

Flenner said the goal of the investigation is "to find out the nature of the so-called spontaneous illness." The next step, he said, will be up to Secretary of Transportation John A. Volpe and FAA Administrator John H. Shaffer.

Shaffer, he said, ordered the investigation.

Discipline Threatened

The controllers are forbidden by law to strike, and the FAA threatened disciplinary action if they conducted what amounted to one.

Last Thursday Jack Maher, national coordinator of the organization, said controllers were enforcing air safety rules. In addition, he said, "we are telling our people if there is any indication that physically or mentally they are not able to do top-notch jobs, they should not go to work, call in sick, have everything they need taken care of. And if they are working, to try not to overextend themselves."

Friday, Maher said the membership was cautioned "to be aware of overstressing the safety committee recommendation which refers to getting incapacitated through illness and fatigue to the point where mental alertness is diminished."

Demands on

On the same day, Shaffer said there "is recognized need for additional air traffic control staffing to meet the demands on the system."

Sunday the controllers sent a telegram of protest to Volpe, Shaffer, the airlines, the Airline Pilots Association, the Flight Safety Foundation and the National Transportation Safety Board.

"Reports continue that controllers are being removed from already critically understaffed positions, subjected to crude, unethical and exhausting harassment, then ordered back to controlling aircraft."

Burger Sworn in As Chief Justice

Nixon Lauds Warren for Years of Service

WASHINGTON (AP) — Warren Earl Burger was sworn in at 10:42 a.m. today to be the 15th chief justice of the United States.

The simple and sedate ceremony marked the retirement of Earl Warren after 16 years as chief justice and 52 years in public service.

President Nixon, in an unprecedented action, spoke to the high court, and said of Warren: "The nation is grateful for that service."

At the conclusion of the ceremony, Burger stood behind the bench and in a firm, clear voice swore to defend the Constitution and to administer justice faithfully and impartially, to do equal right to the poor and rich.

The 61-year-old veteran federal judge rested his hand on a Bible held by the outgoing chief justice.

They were flanked on both sides by the seven sitting associate justices.

Nixon is believed to be the first President in office to address the court. A lawyer, he spoke as a member of the court's bar. He stood behind the lawyer's lectern, but used no notes.

The President said of Warren what Will Rogers once said of William Howard Taft, onetime president and later chief justice: "It is great to be great; it is greater to be human."

Warren's Service

Nixon said Warren's service as chief justice was especially characterized by three things—fairness, integrity and dignity.

Speaking of the court itself, the President said: "No institution of our government has been more responsible for continuity with change."

While the President spoke and before that, as three decisions closing out the term were announced, Burger sat at the clerk's desk, to the extreme right of the chief justice.

Warren, replying to Nixon's remarks, thanked the President for what he said but spoke mostly for the court itself. His voice at the breaking point on occasion, the chief justice said of the court: "We serve only the public interest as we see it, guided by the Constitution and our own conscience."

He said the justices don't always agree and if they do the court's virility will have been sapped."

Warren described the justices as "nine independent men who have no one to be responsible to except their own consciences."

Nixon's role in the transition ceremony, a brief speech, helps underline the contrast between the old and new chief justices.

Warren, an old political enemy of Nixon's, spent his 16 years as chief justice leading the court through its most activist and liberal periods. The 61-year-old Burger, on the other hand, spent the last 13 years as a little-known federal appeals judge building a legal reputation as a strict constitutional constructionist who advocated a hard approach to criminal law. Although Nixon's political differences with Warren apparently were put behind them earlier this year, when the President appointed Burger he stressed that the Minnesota native was his kind of "law and order" judge who would take a more traditional approach as chief justice.

Eager to Rehire

Warren, at 78, was eager to step down from the bench. Actually he announced his intention to retire nearly a year ago, but stayed when the Senate refused to confirm his originally appointed successor, Abe Fortas.

His public life began 50 years ago when he was first elected to office in California. He moved up to become the state's attorney general and then governor. He ran for vice president on the 1948 Republican ticket and once had his eye on the White House itself. Although a lawyer, he became chief justice in 1953 with limited experience in constitutional law.

At the start, observers expected he would follow the same, middle-of-the-road approach set by the man who appointed him, President Eisenhower.

But the Warren Court moved sharply into the most controversial of legal and political areas.

School Segregations

In 1954 the court ruled that segregated schools, no matter how equally maintained and operated, were illegal. With the chief justice leading the way,

Draft Calling 29,500 Men During August

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon announced today plans to draft 29,500 men in August as well as a decision to allow Army strength to drop by 13,000, partly in connection with the Nixon administration's plans for withdrawal of troops from Vietnam.

The August draft call compares with this year's monthly high of 33,700 in February and the low of 22,300 announced for July. All the August inductees will go into the Army.

In announcing the new call, the Pentagon said about 8,000 soldiers who are among the 15,000 Army men about to come out of Vietnam will not be replaced when they leave service. In addition, the Army does not plan to replace another 5,000 men "whose terms of service expire due to reduced support requirements associated with the lower Army strength."

The manpower reduction will leave Army strength around the world at just above 1.5 million men.

Homes Destroyed

OLD MINES, Mo. (AP) —

Tornadoes left six persons dead and more than 30 injured in the Missouri lead mining belt southwest of St. Louis Sunday night, the highway patrol said.

One of the victims was identified by Southern Illinois University security police as William F. Betterton, 41. They said he was a music professor there.

Officers said he and his wife were driving in a camper bus. The police said Betterton was found strapped to the seat of the car, but the rest of the car was not immediately found. The tornado had lifted his car from U.S. 67 near Farmington, Mo., and slammed it into a rock bluff.

Betterton's 38-year-old wife, Kathryn, was found dead about 30 yards from the wreckage.

Homes Wrecked

At Old Mines, one twister destroyed nearly a dozen homes. Roy Pratt, a 45-year-old strip mine employee, and his 8-year-old son Francis were killed.

Seven other members of the Pratt family were injured when they were trapped in their frame dwelling, which collapsed.

Two elderly brothers, Jacob and Herman Herbst, died when another twister tore into their home near Farmington about 22 miles southeast of Old Mines.

"We heard this awful roar, just like a railroad train," said a neighbor of Pratt, Clyde Boyer. "It took the doors right off the storm cellar and my wife and my boy and I crouched down on the floor until it passed."

Most roads in the area were blocked by fallen trees.

The twisters downed power lines and telephone wires and an electrical storm made two-way radio contact nearly impossible in the stricken area for hours, leaving a virtual communications blackout.

Minor Injuries

Hospitals at Farmington, Ironton and Potosi, reported treating about 35 persons, most of them for minor injuries.

A spokesman for the weather bureau in St. Louis said the tornadoes were spawned by "typical summer storms."

Late Saturday night and early Sunday another batch of tornadoes struck in central Kansas, injuring about 100 persons and causing damage estimated at more than $10 million.

Hardest hit was Salina, a city of 40,000, where 37 of 43 planes were battered at the airport, 26 houses, 17 business buildings and 12 mobile homes were destroyed, and heavy damage was done to 110 houses, 21 business buildings, three churches and three schools.

Opposing Factions of SDS Split at National Convention

CHICAGO (AP) — Students meeting in a church on the West Side.

The PLs called a news conference for the University of Illinois, Chicago, to introduce their slate. The regulars called a conference in the organization's regional headquarters.

Expelled by Regulars

Early Sunday, the PLs had been expelled from SDS by the regulars, backed by their allies, the Black Panther party.

Fist-clenching Panthers had warned that SDS would be judged by action it took against PL. Delegates from PL, strong-est at Harvard and the University of California, responded with hisses and catcalls.

"You had best not forget you're in Chicago, PL," one Panther shouted. "Any more of that and we'll take care of you."

At that point some 500 SDS members began the caucus that ended in the PL expulsion.

PL spokesmen said they advocated world revolution by all

Security Tight

Convention security was tight. Delegates and observers were searched from hair to shoes. Wallets and purses were ransacked for any evidence the bearers might be newsmen or

SDS security forces said the procedure had stopped two sheriff's deputies and numerous newsmen. Searchers were also directed to confiscate weapons and narcotics.

In spite of the security measures, some reporters and undercover investigators managed to get in. One large insurance company placed two observers inside to learn how revolutionaries planned to infiltrate business.

One was a miniskirted girl with a degree in psychology.

Although the convention was run according to parliamentary procedure, the hostile factions frequently shouted down opposition speakers and chanted obscenities.

When Black Panther leaders called on co-eds to use "sex-power" to stir revolution, they were drowned out by screaming feminists who stood on chairs shouting "male chauvinists!"

The walls of the rundown old convention hall were plastered with colorful posters proclaiming the superiority of Chinese and North Vietnamese communism.

Thieu Cannot Move Date Of Election

SAIGON (AP) — The South Vietnamese foreign ministry announced today all elections

"must be held in strict observance of the current laws and regulations," damping speculation that President Nguyen Van Thieu might seek a special election with Viet Cong participation to decide on a new Saigon government.

The statement seemed to rule out any special elections before those scheduled by the South Vietnamese constitution—partial Senate elections in late 1970 and lower house and presidential elections in late 1971.

The ministry specifically denied a published report that Thieu might seek a constitutional amendment from Parliament to permit earlier elections.

After his Midway summit with President Nixon, Thieu said in a June 9 news conference the South Vietnamese people have the right to decide on elections and "when the other side shows good will at the negotiating table, then we will discuss that question. . . . Everything can be solved at the negotiating table if the two sides sit down and have sincere talks."

Seminoles Waging Final Battle in Bitter Indian War

BY DILLON GRAHAM
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The final battle in what is the longest and often bitterest Indian dispute in the nation's history is being fought in an obscure government agency with nearly $35 million at stake.

Seminole Indians have asked the Indian Claims Commission, which opens hearings today, to approve a $40 million claim for 32 million acres of Florida the tribe owned in the 18th and early 19th centuries.

The government has offered the Indians $5.8 million.

The Seminoles owned most of Florida when Spain gave up the territory to the United States in 1819. They claim the American white man robbed the tribe of the land at arms point and through false treaties, a point not contended by the government.

Land Value

Attorneys for the Seminoles figure the land was worth an average of at least $1.25 an acre when the government took it in the 1820s. Government lawyers estimate its value at about 18 cents per acre.

Some of the Florida land was quite valuable—containing forests of live oak trees, in demand then by shipbuilders and particularly for naval vessels. Much of the land was the Indians' hunting grounds. Crops were raised on portions of the land.

The long Seminole dispute started in 1816 when Gen. Andrew Jackson invaded Florida to punish the tribe for hiding fugitive American slaves and didn't end officially until a peace treaty was signed in 1934. The first Seminole war, waged by Jackson, ended in 1818, a year before the United States had legal rights in the territory.

Move to Oklahoma

Through armed force and a series of forcibly imposed treaties, the Seminoles gradually lost their Florida land until 1832 when some tribe leaders agreed to give up all claims and move their people to what is now Oklahoma.

However, many Seminoles refused to leave and in 1835 the second Seminole war broke out. Before it was over, the Seminoles under chief Osceola, had killed more than 1,500 federal troops and cost the government $20 million.

Osceola, tricked into surrendering, died in a federal prison in 1838, but many Seminoles retreated into Florida's swamps and fighting continued off and on until the 1934 peace treaty.

Treaty Claimed

The tribe made its first claim for compensation 19 years ago. The Claims Commission ruled five years ago that the Seminoles now living in Florida and Oklahoma owned most of Florida in 1832, when the United States claimed treaty rights.

The U.S. Court of Claims upheld the decision.

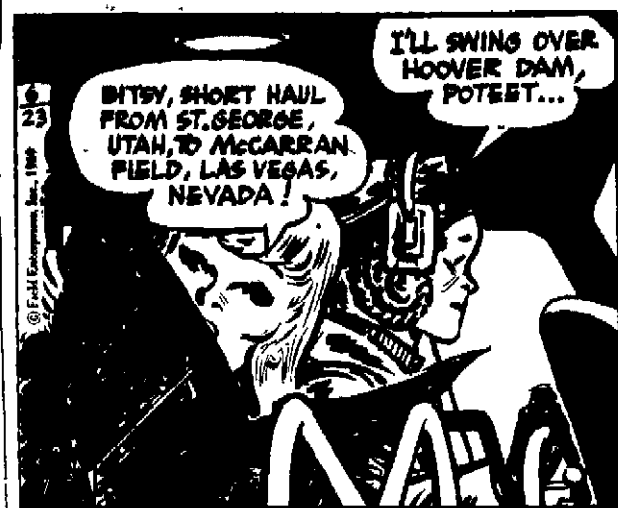

Just a year ago the Indian Claims Commission settled, largely in favor of the Indians' contentions, the route of the old Spanish road, an early trail across North Florida from St. Augustine to Pensacola. This was the northern boundary of the land claimed by the Indians.

Attorneys for the tribe estimate about 1,500 Seminoles still live in Florida and 3,500 more reside in Oklahoma, which would mean about $7,500 for each if the entire $40 million is awarded.

However, Congress will determine how the money will be allocated when and if it appropriates the funds.

Today in History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Monday, June 23, the 174th day of 1968. There are 191 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1683, William Penn made his famous peace and friendship treaty with the Indians. The agreement was faithfully kept by both parties for more than 60 years.

On this date:

In 1722, Charleston, S. C. was incorporated.

In 1780, the Battle of Springfield, N.J. was fought during the Revolutionary War.

In 1836, there was a surplus in the U. S. Treasury, and more than $28 million was divided among 26 states.

In 1845, the Congress of Texas agreed to annexation by the United States.

In 1967, President Lyndon B. Johnson met in Glassboro, N.J., with Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin.

Ten years ago--Ireland's deputy Prime Minister Sean Lemass was named prime minister, succeeding Eamon DeValera.

Five years ago--The burned, empty station wagon of three civil rights workers, missing for two days, was found near Philadelphia, Miss.

Kiwanis to Learn of County Jail Problem

LITTLE CHUTE -- Jerome Hiler, county board member, will discuss the county jail problem at a Kiwanis Club dinner meeting at 6:20 p.m. Tuesday at Werner's Supper Club.

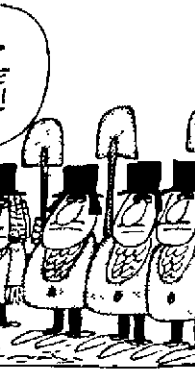

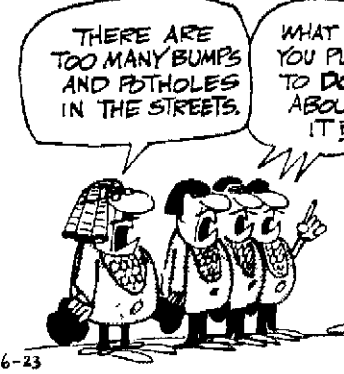

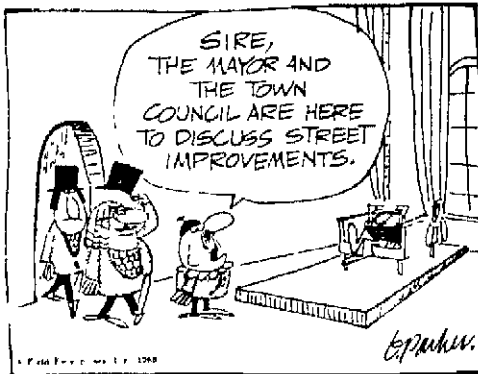

Taking part in the discussion will be Edward Spierings and Paul Kostka, local members also on the county board. William Winus will set up work details for the chicken barbecue to be held July 20.

Bill Cosby Chats With Young Fry

BY TV BOOBY
7-4 Channel 5 - The NBC Children's Theater has an enchanting program that really holds more appeal for adults than it does for children. "As I See It" focuses on films shot by children from 8 through 13. Bill Cosby is the host, and in a completely beguiling segment, he chats with 17 youngsters (from all parts of the country and all backgrounds).

6:30-7:30 Channels 11-9 - The Avengers goes to the birds - or vice versa - in another Diana Rigg-ed episode. After a publisher gives the top job in his company to his son, the latter is murdered. So is a factory owner who fires people freely. (R)

6:30-7:30 Channels 2-7 - Gun-smoke has one of those action-packed stories it does so well.
Jim Davis is a railroad boss who finds his right of way blocked by a homesteader who refuses to sell his land. (R)

7:30-8:30 Channels 2-7 - Howard Keel stars as a great white hunter on Here's Lucy. He has been hired to organize a safari to search for a rare garbana (half gorilla, half baboon) which has escaped from the city zoo.
His basic method is a mating call which makes Lucy think that she should try her own mating call on this handsome hunk of man. (R)

8-9 Channels 11-9 - Otis
Young becomes a temporary sheriff on The Outcasts and has a head-on clash with Don Murray over the guilt or innocence of a man Young has arrested for murder. The man hates blacks, and Murray feels this may be influencing Young's judgment of the evidence. (R)

8-8:30 Channels 2-7 - The good cast of regulars on Mayberry R.F.D. is joined by another fine pair of pros, Richard Erdman and Ennmaeline Henry.
They play a writer and his wife seeking peace, solitude and inspiration in Mayberry. That's not how things work out at first, anyway. (R)

9-10 Channels 11-9 - The very genial star of The Dick Cavett Show is joined in conversation by Natalie Wood, Pat McCormick, Drew Pearson and Beverly Sills, an outspoken former soap opera actress turned opera star.

9-10 Channels 2-7 - Carol
Burnett Presents the Jimmie
Rodgers Show welcomes guests
Shari Lewis and Stu Gilliam.
There's an "overground movie" to highlight the proceedings, with the cast fishing from the Long Beach Pier and catching everything but fish. In a computer skit, Nancy Austin (tall, chubby and white) is matched with Stu Gilliam (short, thin and black) and they get lots of laughs while trying to be very polite to each other.

Two-Car Accident Results in One Injury

A two-car accident Saturday afternoon on Outagamie County Trunk KK, a mile west of Darboy, resulted in minor injuries to an Appleton resident.
County police said that Mike Gunter, 1601 S. Walden Ave., suffered a bump on the head and minor leg cuts.

He was in a car driven by Lloyd W. Gunther, 40, 334 S.
Main St., Kimberly, who was eastbound on KK when the auto was struck in the left front door by another eastbound car driven by Roger W. Vanevenhoven, 30, 209-Black St., Kaukauna.

Police said Gunther was turning onto Pinecrest Drive just as the Vanevenhoven car was passing. Damage totaled about $250.

Two Young Men Hurt In One-Car Accident

KAUKAUNA - David Lauer,
19, 1512 Glenview Ave., suffered the loss of several teeth and a cut jaw and his passenger,
Thomas Zornow, 20, 312 E.
Seventh St., a cut on the head in an accident about 6:30 a.m.
Saturday.

According to police, the car
Lauer was driving struck a safety island at Elm Street and Thilmany Road which caused a tie rod to snap. He then crossed the road and hit a pillar on the Elm Street bridge. The two were taken to Kaukauna Community Hospital in the city ambulance for treatment.

Spotlight Hollywood

Mickey Rooney's Really Movie Star-Struck

Lady Hollywood! See that guy over there. His name is Rooney
- Mickey Rooney. And in case you have any doubts - that guy's in love with you.
Sure, he's 46 and partially bald. But underneath that thinning blond hair is a reservoir of love.

The romance started in the early 1920s when his mom and dad, the late Nell Carter and Joe Yule, carried the infant on stage as the grand finale to their vaudeville act. It was his first baptism into show business
- at an age when most kids are getting baptized.

Movie Debut at 7
Then when he was 7, you let him make his movie debut in "Information Kid." The film wasn't memorable but Mickey was, and he landed a long-term contract to MGM.

That's where you really nailed him. He was young, impressionable and completely dazzled by your illusive charm and creative ways. A true disciple, he tried hard to please you in movies like "Boys Town," "Ah!
Wilderness," "The Human Comedy," and those funny
"Andy Hardy" pictures.

And WOW, was he excited when your Motion Picture Academy gave him a special Oscar in 1939 and the next year made him the first juvenile to reap a best actor nomination.

"King of Movies"
He was flying high when, in the same year, a nation-wide newspaper poll hailed the small fry as "king" of the movies, with Bette Davis as his "queen."

You were good to little
Mickey - and he adored you.
And when he grew into manhood, there were many women in his life. He married five times and produced five children. But you were always "numero uno."

That's why he was flaming mad last month when he heard Zoro Mostel at Broadway's Tony Awards laugh in your face by saying "in giving these awards tonight, we are honoring next year's best picture."

Films Creative Art
"What a slap!" yelled Mickey. "Hollywood is a business and a creative art. It's an art that has guts."

Mickey knows all about
"guts." He's spent the last 48 years playing "gutsy" guys, and the southwest corner of Appleton City Park.

became famous doing it. But he doesn't think he's famous.
"Fame doesn't apply to me," he says nostalgically. "The word is prostituted today. I was exposed to it when it was a lasting thing. Now fame is a circus side show - a freak act.
Fame is bad taste. Fame is Sirhan Sirhan."

Easy Schedule
He mastered the trick. After completing "A Woman For Charlie," a two-hour feature film for NBC starring Dan Blocker and Wally Cox, Mickey heads for a four-week engagement at the Fremont Hotel in Las Vegas, followed by a 10-week national tour starring in the hit musical "George M," followed by starring roles in two motion pictures, followed by an eight week engagement of "Three Men on a Horse," in Chicago.

A hard act to follow? You bet.
It's 1939 all over again.
Really In Love
Mention your name, Lady Hollywood, and he's Andy Hardy - boyish, impish, bursting with bubble-eyed enthusiasm.

Four Hearings on Smut
Charges for Book Nook
Operator Set on July 1
Thomas A. Hamm, 27, 1192
Adams Beach Road, Clintonville, appeared in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 Friday on a fourth charge of possession and sale of obscene or indecent magazines and pictures.

Judge Nick F. Schaefer set a preliminary hearing for July 1, the same date that had earlier been set for the other three smut charges brought following investigation by Appleton authorities.

Hamm, operator of the Book Nook, 902 W. Wisconsin Ave., is free on signature bonds totaling $3,000.

The latest charge alleges Hamm possessed and sold two obscene or indecent magazines,
June 10.

Also charged as a result of the same alleged sale to an Appleton detective was Errol J.
Simpson, 32, 317 1/2 W. College Ave., who is free on a $1,000 signature bond. He also will have a preliminary hearing July 1.

You made him love you - and that's why he can enthusiastically step out of his "Mickey Rooney image" and pay you a sentimental, poetic tribute.

"Show business is like a beautiful woman. It's a romance. I've been in love with her all my life. I found her cheating on me. I found her her arms. No matter what she fickle. She's held me tenderly in does to me, I adore her and will always love her."

Driver Avoids Rabbit, Receives Multiple Injuries, Wrecks Car
Roger A. Hammond, 19, 715 1/2
W. Lawrence St., was taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Hospital after his car was demolished in an accident in the 1900 block of W. Spencer Street about 4:50 p.m. Sunday.

Outagamie County police said Hammond, who was alone in his car, suffered cuts to his head and arms and a bruised right shoulder.

He told police he was westbound on Spencer when he saw a rabbit running across the road. He swerved to avoid striking it, but his car went out of control and traveled more than 225 feet off the roadway, breaking off a railroad signal and a utility pole.

"Where will we get our pins?" was the most frequent comment in letters from alumnae as one by one nurses heard about the closing of the 75-year-old St. Mary's School of Nursing, Milwaukee.

This pertinent question will be answered Saturday and Sunday. St. Mary graduates now in the Fox Valley will join with other alumnae from all over the country who are determined the school shall not merely fade away like the old soldier, but go out in a blaze of its diamond years.

First public word of the phasing out came in December 1966, when the administration announced that the class which was admitted the previous September would be the last to graduate.

Association Gets Busy
The alumnae association immediately got busy. First step was a questionnaire that was sent to graduates in an attempt to gather up-to-date information for the roster of a Memorial Book.

Registration for the reunion will begin at 9 a.m. Saturday at the Pfister Hotel in downtown Milwaukee. At noon Reunion Time '69 will officially open with a luncheon and style show in the grand ballroom at which models will present the various uniforms worn by the 1,913 graduates of the school.

At 2:30 p.m. there will be tours of St. Mary's Hospital and Seton Hall (School of Nursing). At 5:30 p.m. a cocktail hour will precede the grand banquet for alumnae and husbands; past and present directors of the school, chaplains, instructors and hospital administrators; medical staff of the hospital, wives and other special guests. Dancing to Jerry Blake's orchestra will follow the banquet.

Sunday's program begins with a 9 a.m. mass at St. John Cathedral and ends with

91-year-old Present

A letter from Mrs. Diane Rutkowski, public relations chairman for the reunion, confirms that 91-year-old Mrs. Genevieve Longfield Larson, the school's oldest living alumna will drive from California with relatives. Mrs. Larson, a member of the class of 1896, has provided the reunion committee with a memory description of her first uniform (there are pictorial records of all others.)

She writes, "The uniform was made of white outing flannel with a blue band trim on the high collar. A plain 'waist' (blouse) and gathered skirt of floor length made up the dress. A bib apron was attached to the waist with straight pins and tied around the waist with long ties. Black stockings and black high button shoes completed the uniform. The cap was a bouffant crinoline style with a blue ribbon and bow."

Some of the nurses in the Valley remember the high button shoes and the bibs. These women met recently for their own miniature reunion at the invitation of Mrs. Dolores Jolie (class of '46) and now executive director of the Visiting Nurse Association.

Nurses Reminisce

Over coffee and rolls, the R.N.s told how, short of cash, they cut off the top of their shoes when the directive allowing low black oxfords came through in 1932.

There were other memories of 13 hour days (5 hours of classes and 8 hours of duty); broken thermometers that had to be paid for by the students; cat naps at night behind the statue at the end of the hall while another student nurse covered; bread snuck out in the scissors' dividers of the big, old skirts.

Nurses of the '30s remembered how proud they were when after a four-month probationary period they were allowed to wear their bibs and caps.

Younger nurses from the '50's remember shorter hours, but tough schedules which many girls were not able to finish.

This also happened earlier. Of the 50 young women who started with the class of '46, only 22 graduated. The '51 beginning class of 43 ended up with 28 graduates. Not all of the nursing dropouts were because of low grades. Some girls found they did not like nursing. Others left to be married. It wasn't until 1960 that the school permitted its students to marry, and permission, even then, was given only during the last six months of the nursing program. It was this year, too, that students were allowed to reside outside of the dormitory.

Rules Changing

Not only have the rules of the nursing schools been changing over the years; so have the standards, and some of the old-time, nurses who "learned self-discipline that students don't know today," wonder if all the changes are for the better.

However, St. Mary's is not the only diploma nursing school to "go out of business" as such. Three-year schools have been closing all over the state and country and are being replaced by four-year schools. Licensed practical nurses are taking more responsibilities on hospital floors, as are nurses assistants.

At St. Mary's the trend toward more education for nurses has been a continuing one. The school began with a two-year course in 1894. In 1901 it was lengthened to three years to allow "for a greater variety in the schedule of services and instruction."

To meet the September 1917 requirement of the State Board of Medical Examiners, all applicants to St. Mary's had to present evidence of having two years of high school or educational equivalent. In September 1924, the school became affiliated with the Marquette Central School of Nursing, which was an integral part of Marquette University.

This connection was dissolved in 1927, but in 1928 the school became affiliated with DePaul University, Chicago. The graduate had a total of 18 major credits with DePaul at the completion of the three years and if she acquired 18 additional units she was awarded a bachelor of science degree. This affiliation lasted until 1932.

After that time various other cooperative institutions were used. Members of the class of '46, for instance, received their psychiatric nursing study at St. Vincent Sanatorium in St. Louis.

During the time of 1941-44, the school library was enlarged and in December, 1944, a ward class room was renovated and equipped for ward teaching on the second floor of the hospital.

With the emphasis on "education and not service" coming to the fore in the school program, there was an increase in the cost of the nursing program and a "room and board fee" became a reality in 1959. Two years later there was another collegiate association, this time with Mount Mary College. By 1962, the entire freshman academic year was received at Mount Mary, with six credit hours in the first and second semesters of the second year.

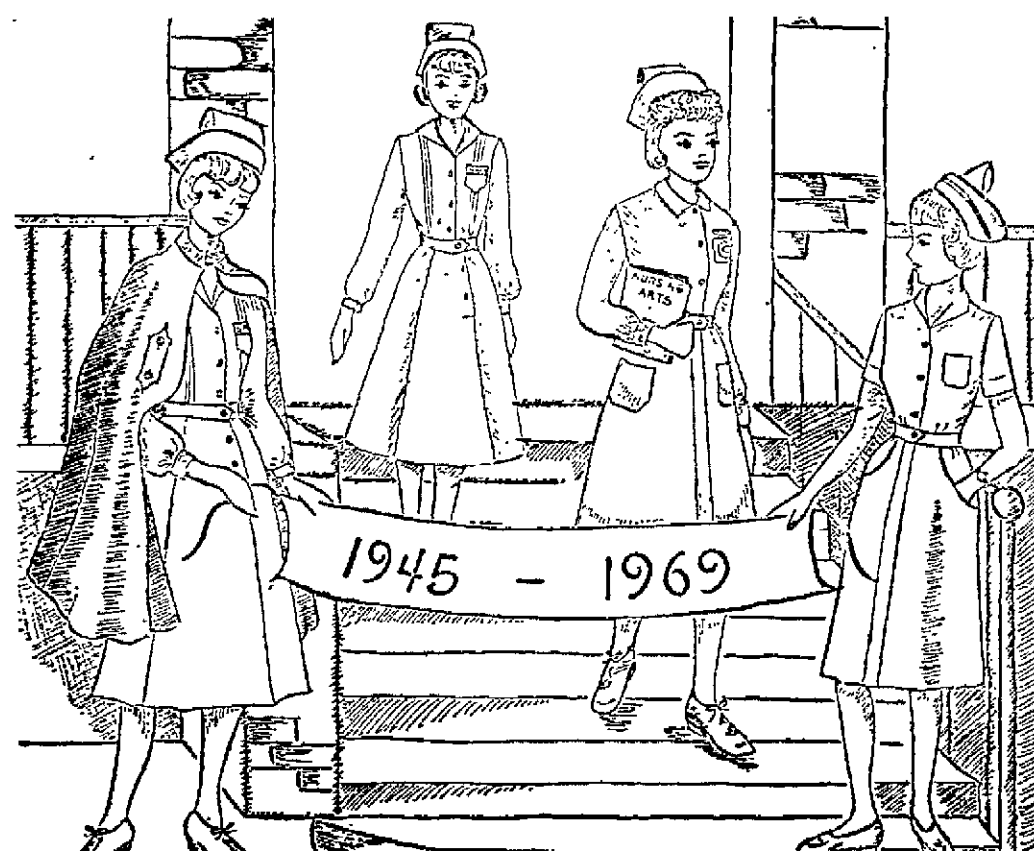

Reduce Term

Oddly enough, the length of the school term was reduced with the class of 1963 to three academic years and one summer session, rather than the traditional three calendar years.

Although St. Mary's School of Nursing has officially closed, there still will be nurses trained at the hospital. Sister Lucille, head of the department of nursing, reports that the second floor of the old school will be turned over to nursing students from the University of Wisconsin—Milwaukee (UWM). All of the planning for the phasing out of the school and of the new nurses' training program has been done by cooperative committees from the school, the Department of Nursing, UWM and Sacred Heart School of Practical Nursing.

Sister Lucille proudly stated that St. Mary R.N.s have never even "had to provide a reference to get a job." The training standards have always preceded them.

And to reassure its graduates who do not get to the reunion this weekend, an arrangement is being made to see that lost pins may be replaced.

Mrs. Leonard Atwater and Mrs. Harvey Doro, both St. Mary Nursing School graduates reminisce at the "little alumnae" coffee at the Visiting Nurse Association office. (Post-Crescent Photos)

REGULATIONS FOR NURSES

ATTACHED TO

ST. MARY'S HOSPITAL.

A Training School for Nurses being opened in connection with St. Mary's Hospital, women wishing to engage in the more earnest work of life, with a taste for this essentially woman's work, may enter the school for the course of two years instruction on the following conditions:

They should apply in person or by letter, to the Sister in charge, upon whose approval they will be received into the school for one or two months on probation.

It is indispensable that an applicant should have a fair English education—should be able to write legibly, to take notes of lectures, and to keep accurately, simple accounts.

To secure success in prosecuting this course of training for the vocation of a nurse, there is needed in addition to a healthy body, an alert mind, and a capacity for punctuality and strict obedience to orders. Personal comfort should be sacrificed and selfishness obliterated while the nurse is fulfilling her duties. "The gentler born the maiden, the more bound to be amiable and forbearing." Great tact and discretion must be her inheritance.

During the months of probation pupils are boarded and lodged at the expense of the school, but receive no other compensation. After probation nurses will receive eight ($8) dollars per month for their personal expenses, their education being considered a full equivalent for their services.

The Sister in charge has full power to decide as to the fitness of the pupil for the work and the propriety of retaining or dismissing her.

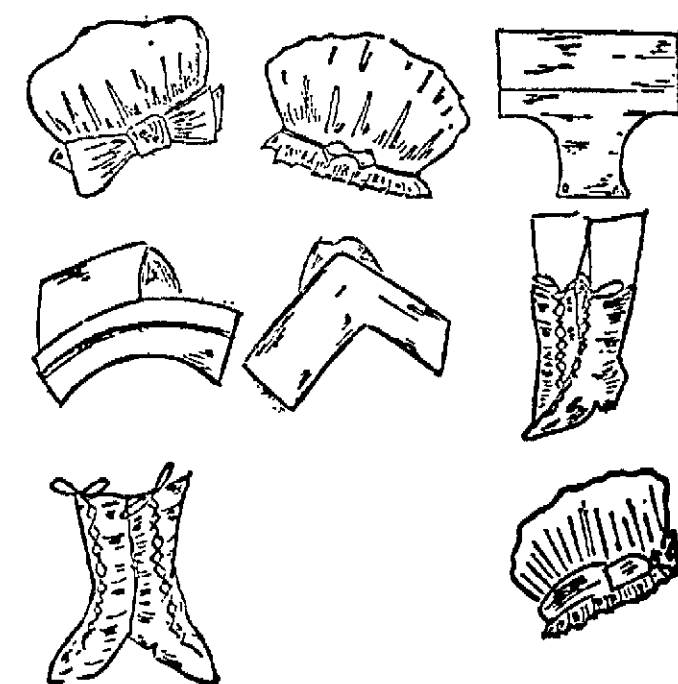

Mrs. Edward Wagner and Mrs. Harry Jollie talk a little bit about what the Visiting Nurse Association, a United Fund agency, does in Appleton. Mrs. Jollie and Mrs. Wagner and their husbands will be travelling to the reunion together.

Sheinwold Top Play Has Three Elements

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Every expert depends on the throw-in for much of his success at the bridge table. He is familiar with three elements of the throw-in: stripping, giving up the lead and getting a favor in return. All three elements are present in today's hand, part of a week-long series on the throw-in play.

West opens the jack of hearts, you hopefully play dummy's queen, and East covers with the king. You take the ace of hearts, draw trumps in one round and then carefully cash your two diamond tricks.

With the ground thus prepared you give up a trick by leading a heart. You'd be delighted if West won the trick because any return from the West hand would assure your slam, but East is able to win the trick with the seven of hearts.

East cannot afford to return a heart or a diamond because you would ruff in your own hand and discard a club from dummy.

This is much better than taking the club finesse on your own. That succeeds only if East has the queen of clubs. As the cards lie, you would lose the slam by taking an ordinary club finesse; but you would make your slam if you executed the simple throw-in play.

(Copyright 1968)

my Then dummy would be good. You stripped the diamonds out of your hand and of the dummy to make it impossible for the defense to get out safely by returning a diamond.

The Favor

East must return a club, and this does you a favor because you have the nine in the dummy and the jack in your own hand.

You play low from your hand, and West's queen is trapped. If West had the ten of clubs he would use it to force out dummy's ace, but you would then try a finesse with the jack. You would thus make your slam if East has either the ten or the queen of clubs.

Your Problems

Never Thought Less of Man Who Cried

BY ANN LANDERS
DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a sergeant home on leave and am now reading the Landers column which my family has cut out and saved for me. I just this minute came across the letter from a woman whose husband spanked their three-year-old son whenever he cried because he believed tears were a sign of unmanliness.

I had the privilege of serving with a Green Beret. He was about 25, over six feet tall, handsome, rugged, and he had made dozens of parachute jumps. I saw him perform many acts of bravery which he considered part of his job. This man was generous and tender beyond description. He did favors for strangers that most people wouldn't have done for a close friend.

During the 11 months we served together I saw him cry at least five times. I never thought less of him because of it. I admired and respected him more than anyone I have ever known. The fact that he was capable of tears showed he was a warm hearted human who responded to other humans. That Green Beret will always serve as my model of what a real man ought to be. — Sgt. J.V.J.

Dear Sergeant: Your choice of heroes says a great deal about you. Sir. Thanks for writing a poignant and impressive letter.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My frigid wife and I have been arguing for several years about a subject which you discussed in your column recently. We have decided to let you be the judge. My wife says she is frigid on account of me. I say frigidity in women is caused not by the husband, but by the girl's mother. I might add in passing that my wife is very much like her old lady. May we have your verdict? — Rejected in Spokane

Dear Re: I'm no judge and I don't hand down verdicts. I do have opinions however, and I also consult with wiser heads than mine. Here's your answer:

Since your wife is a chip off the old glacier it is more than likely that her mother taught her to fear, hate and feel guilty about sex. But — a warm, loving, tender, mature, considerate husband can melt away the icicles and teach his wife to be a rewarding bed partner. In the words of a French philosopher: "There are no frigid women. Only clumsy, inconsiderate men."

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband had some dirty pictures tattooed on his arms during a drunken spree when he served in the Merchant Marine several years ago. He is so ashamed of the pictures he refuses to be seen in public wearing a short-sleeved sport shirt.

Recently he brought home a magazine that carried this ad: "Tattoo removing in your own home. No needles. A do-it-yourself kit for $14. Satisfaction guaranteed or your money back."

He wants to send away for it but I think it's a racket. Is it? Please answer. — Montgomery, Ala.

Dear Mont: It's probably a racket. Clip the ad and send it to the Better Business Bureau. And send Tattoo Boy to a dermatologist who can do the job, properly.

LEEMAN — Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Leeman will observe their 50th wedding anniversary with an Open House from 2 to 5 p.m. Saturday at United Church of Christ and a dance from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. that evening at Diemel's Resort.

Mr. Leeman has been engaged in farming and was employed by Central Bituminous Co., Neenah.

They have six children: Mrs. Glen Ethington, Pembine; Mrs. Walter Bisterseldt, Royal, Shiocton; Henry, Kenneth, Pulaski, and Keith Leeman, Appleton. They also have 22 grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl W. Bates, 1120 N. Durkee St., will observe their 50th wedding anniversary Tuesday with an Open House from 2 to 5 p.m. at their home. The couple was married June 24, 1919.

They have lived in Appleton for all but four years of their married life. Mr. Bates was a salesman for Illinois Engineering Co., Chicago, and has run a popcorn concession.

They have two children, Mrs. Lucille Lewis and Duane Bates, both of Appleton. They also have 10 grandchildren.

NEENAH — Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wessenberg, 1115 Hewitt St., will observe their 50th wedding anniversary Saturday with a 4:45 p.m. mass at St. Patrick Catholic Church, a family dinner and an Open House at 6 p.m. at the Eagles Hall, Menasha.

The couple was married June 26, 1919. Mr. Wessenberg was employed at International Wire Works, Menasha, and is presently a consultant to the firm.

The couple has one son, Robert, Neenah, and four grandchildren.

Y to Sponsor Adventure Trips For Youths

Adventure trips for young travelers will be sponsored by the YMCA this summer. The first will be a visit to Aqualand on Tuesday. The group will see the deer farm, aquarium, fish pond and nature animal display. On the return trip a stop will be made for a tour of Camp Nan-A-Bo-Sho, Lakewood, and a swim in Lake Waubesa.

The second trip will be to the Circus Museum, Baraboo, on July 22. The visitors will learn about the history of American circuses and see a performance. In the afternoon they will go to North Freedom for a ride on the steam train.

These trips will depart at 8 a.m. from the Y. Further information may be obtained at the Y Youth Department.

Major Strike in Valley Averted

Contractors, Teamsters Reach Terms

BY WILLIAM C. CAREY

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

A strike against general construction contractors from Fond du Lac north to Marinette has been averted.

Peace between the Fox Valley General Contractors Association and four major Teamsters Union locals was assured today with disclosure that agreement was reached over the weekend on a new three-year pact.

The contract calls for a $1.80 per hour wage and fringe benefit package through June 1, 1971.

It was negotiated by representatives of the association and Appleton, Green Bay, Fond du Lac-Oshkosh and Manitowish Teamsters locals during a mediation session at Oshkosh Friday, conducted by Philip Simon of the U.S. Mediation and Conciliation Service district office at Green Bay.

Confirm Details

Merle Phelan, Fond du Lac, chief negotiator for the association, which is comprised of 50 major contractors throughout the Fox Valley and Northern Wisconsin, along with about 100 sub-contractors, confirmed details of the new contract.

They were concurred in by Robert Schlieve, Appleton, secretary-treasurer of Local 563, and the chief negotiator for Teamsters Joint Council 39.

The association contractors and union locals have bargained jointly in recent years on new wage agreements.

Life of the contract runs from June 1, 1968 through June 1, 1971. When the former contract expiration date came up a year ago, the terms were extended by mutual consent.

Agreement Inevitable

Agreement was inevitable in recent weeks when both sides met and reported progress was being made on a new agreement, which the association and union spokesmen said, were in line with the industry pattern.

The $1.70 cash settlement in the three-year contract was spread out as follows: 40 cents the first year, 70 cents the second and 60 cents the third.

As of June 1 this year the employer pension contribution was boosted from $8 to $9 a week, and under terms of the

Far North Side

City Makes Final Purchase Offer for New School Site

The City of Appleton has made its final offer to purchase slightly less than five acres of unplatted land on the far north side for a new school site, it learned today.

"I don't think we are very far apart on the basis of the regular land contract I've drawn up," commented City Atty. David Geenen.

The city is offering to buy the property from Percy Menning, a Town of Grand Chute resident, for $21,450. It is located next to Einstein Junior High School.

Three Years

For more than three years the board of education has recommended purchase of the Menning property, claiming it was the only suitable site.

Recently, Menning gave the city until July 1 to meet his terms.

Geenen said when it came to cash outlay, the $21,450 met Menning's asking price.

However, Menning also wants the city to vacate a part of the proposed Park Ridge Avenue, along with having the city commit itself to eventually extending sanitary and storm sewer through the school site to other property he owns in the area.

It would be done at no cost to Menning, under his proposal.

Eventually, the city would have to vacate Park Ridge, but it would benefit from the utilities, which have been estimated to cost more than $13,000.

Not Legal

"I can't put language like that in a land contract. I don't think it is legal," Geenen says, referring to the street vacation and utility installations.

Because of the standoff on the school site, a request for rezoning of property in that area from single family to apartment residential, was held up last week by the city council and referred back to the plan commission.

The council took the action when it learned the sponsored school site was included in

Resolution to Appoint Critic Given Council

Kalata Would Have Schwarzbauer on Industrial Committee

A periodic critic of the Appleton City Council's commerce-industrial development committee may wind up being a member of the group.

He is Ald. George Schwarzbauer (10th), a realtor.

Schwarzbauer in the past has posed the question as to whether the city is in competition with the real estate profession in acquiring and selling land for commercial and industrial development purposes.

And each time he has made the inquiry, committee spokesmen have repeated the explanation that the city sells land at cost — not making or losing any money on the Northeast and Southeast Industrial Parks.

Ald. Walter Kalata (2nd), committee vice chairman, has in the past inferred that Schwarzbauer's repetitious questioning is nothing more than sniping at the committee and city's policy with regard to encouraging developments that enhance the tax base.

At the last council meeting, Kalata submitted a resolution calling for Schwarzbauer to be seated as a member of the committee, "existing rules of the council not withstanding."

It will be considered by the committee this week and then referred back to the council with a favorable or unfavorable recommendation.

The $6 Million Fox Valley Technical Institute will have six separate buildings for a campus-style effect, as shown in an architect's drawing here. Included are: 1. trades and industry building 2. science section 3. administration and business education department 4. academic section and temporary facilities for police science and health occupations 5. student center 6. resource center. Building and open spaces encompass 41 acres. Parking facilities and landscaping covers an additional 10 acres. Completion date for the 251,000 square foot Institute is September, 1970.

Completion Set for September, 1970

Design Approved for Campus-Style FVTI

With the board's approval of the initial design of the campus-style Fox Valley Technical Institute (FVTI), the architect has started work on the detailed drawings of each of the six buildings in the complex.

Included in the 251,000 square foot area are the trades and industry, academic, resource center, science technology, student center and business education buildings.

The $6 million complex, located along U.S. 41 and State 10, encompasses 41 acres. The parking facilities and landscaping covers an additional 10 acres. It is being built for about 2,500 students and has a September, 1970 completion date.

In a breakdown, the largest building is the trades and industry section, with 56,100 square feet. It includes shops, labs, machinery rooms and classrooms. Taught in this area, which is a little larger than a football field in size, will be machine and apprenticeship trades, welding, metallurgy, printing, auto mechanics and farm mechanics.

Culinary Arts

The student center, with nearly 30,100 square feet, is the second largest area. In it will be located a lecture hall for 325; a day care area, art rooms, student services and culinary arts. There also are several other laboratories, plus a cafeteria, boiler room, and receiving room planned here.

A resource center of 31,220 square feet, occupies the center, which houses the library complex and TV workshop facilities. This is the only two-story building in the plans and will house 100 teachers plus several conference rooms, plus general offices.

The academic building will be about 25,100 square feet and include 27 classrooms, a health occupations section and police science area. At present, plans are to have the latter two programs there on a temporary basis only.

A 19,190 square foot science technology building will have facilities for science, chemistry, physics and biology courses, and will also have room for drafting, electronics and instrumentation. This total does not include non-business education department. With both using data processing equipment, administrators and students will be able to share the building with convenience.

Use of Land Settled

Property Back in City Again, Annexed for Second Time

The 95 acres of municipally-owned property north of the city, formerly known as the Landedyke farm, is once again back in the city of Appleton.

It was annexed for the second time when the city council last week gave final approval to a direct annexation resolution, which became effective with its publication Saturday.

The next step will be for the council to designate the future use of the property, which has been up in the air pending settlement of the annexation problem.

Voided in Court

Once before, the city annexed the 95 acres only to have the Town of Grand Chute take the matter to circuit court and have it voided on the basis that "an island" was created.

In addition to the board of education, the park-recreation commission and the city's commerce-industrial development committee are interested in the property — all for different reasons.

It has been suggested the unplatted land be used for park and recreation purposes, new senior and elementary school sites and commercial and industrial development.

City Atty. David Geenen said the latest annexation of the Landedyke property would be final, adding the town had no legal recourse in this instance because the boundaries were drawn differently. "We practically accomplished the same purpose as in the original annexation which was struck down by the court," Geenen said.

Two other tracts of land in Grand Chute, also included in the first annexation package, are again in the process of being annexed.

They include properties owned by the Appleton Labor Temple and Marcus Enterprises, Inc., the latter constructing a new bowling alley and recreation center northeast of the city.

The annexation of the properties is being done on petition of the owners and should be concluded by early July, according to Geenen.

Services for Major Jobe Wednesday

Funeral services for Major Robert E. Jobe, 31, who died when his F111A jet crashed in Nevada mountains last February, will be held here Wednesday morning.

His body and that of another crewman on the jet fighter were found last week on a 9,000-foot mountain 50 miles east of Elko, Nev. The plane had disappeared on a training mission out of Nellis Air Force Base, Las Vegas.

Funeral services will be at 11 a.m. at St. Therese Catholic Church. Burial will be in St. Joseph Cemetery where military graveside services will be held. The cortege will form at 10:30 a.m. at the Brettschneider-Trettin Funeral Home. There will be no visitation. A memorial fund has been established.

Jobe, a native of Chicago, graduated from Appleton High School in 1955 and from Drake University in 1959. He received a bachelor of arts degree from Drake.

He served 10 years in the Air Force, during which time he saw service in France and Vietnam.

Jobe is survived by his wife, the former Barbara O'Brian of Appleton; a son, a daughter, his mother, Mrs. T. J. Sherry, and his step-father, T. J. Sherry, Appleton.

Kaukauna Man Dies While at Church

KAUKAUNA — George Gerrits, 68, 114 W. Division St., collapsed and died while attending services at Holy Cross Catholic Church here about 8:30 a.m. Sunday.

C. J. Schink, Outagamie County deputy coroner, said Gerrits died of a heart attack. He had a history of heart trouble. Gerrits reportedly collapsed in the church restroom.

He retired in 1966 from the Thilmany Pulp and Paper Co., where he had worked for 49 years.

The Fargo Funeral Home is in charge of arrangements.

Button Up Your Overcoat in The Good Old Summertime

If the cold, drizzly weather that has had the Fox Valley under its spell seems to be worse than normal — it is.

We're on the way to a record low temperature for the month of June, according to John Kurtyka of the Wisconsin-Michigan Power Company. The record low for June was set in 1928, when temperatures averaged 60.6 degrees. The average so far this month is a chilly 59.7, more than seven notches below the normal 67 degree temperature.

Temperatures have been below normal every day this month, with the exception of June 11. The lowest point came Sunday, when the mercury was 14 degrees off its normal mark.

The month has been chilly and wet, but the amount of rainfall is below normal, Kurtyka said. With only six clear days out of 23, there's been a lot of drizzle, but no heavy rainfalls.

Valley residents can only look back to the warm June days of the past couple of years: in June, 1966, it averaged 66.2; in 1967, up to 67.4, and in 1968, 66.6 degrees.

The Main Floor of the Appleton Police Station had a spanking new look this morning. A group of 25 high school boys put it there. Members of the Xavier and Appleton — West high school Key Clubs worked through the day Sunday with brushes and rollers. By the end of the day they had put 50 gallons of paint on the walls of the former auto parts warehouse, which had been coated with grease and grime. At top left, Steve Hamous gets a new brushful of paint. Working on a wall at top are, from left, Steve Watts, president of the Appleton-

West Key Club, and Jim Gitter, president of the Xavier club. Larry Frye and Dwight Mueller, Mike Baisden crouches with his brush at left. Purpose of the project, the Key Club presidents said, was to improve the general appearance and working conditions in the public building, and to show support for the police. The Policemen's Portective Association, an organization of Appleton policemen, bought lunch for the boys, who plan to return in July to paint the second floor.

Clergyman Gets Education As Steiger's Secretary

OSHKOSH — Some clergymen experience basic to the ministry. Fred Seefeldt, former assistant pastor at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Neenah, chose instead the job of home secretary to a congressman.

For the past three weeks, he has served as home secretary to Congressman William A. Steiger, Republican from Oshkosh.

"I don't rank government service higher than the church, but this position, like that of the ministry, offers the opportunity to be of aid and assistance to my fellow man," he said of the similarities between the two jobs.

Seefeldt views participation in government as the responsibility of every citizen, as well as the right of every American. From the pulpit, he has encouraged everyone to be involved in the party of his choice, he said, terming Young Democrats and the YGOP "excellent training experience for young people" and a "tremendous educational experience and opportunity for contribution" to the nation.

Seefeldt absorbed the concept of citizen government service at his father's knee and has participated in Sixth District Republican politics since high school. His father is clerk of the Town of Kewaskum, Washington County, and chairman of the Washington County park commission and has a long history of service. A brother is assistant district attorney in Washington County. A sister teaches at Fond du Lac. "I guess the whole family is public service oriented," Seefeldt said.

In discussing the transition from the ministry to politics, Seefeldt makes it clear he views the home secretary's work as an opportunity to gain experience in working with people, an experience basic to the ministry. It is an opportunity, he said, "to look at the world with the eyes of the man in the pew. I'll be better equipped to relate the Christian gospel to everyday life in the world of business, government, industry, home," he said. "People tend to be more candid with a home secretary than with a clergyman."

Seefeldt said that as a clergyman "We are often told we don't know how it is" in the world.

Concern of Church

"I'm not a member of the club calling the church irrelevant today," the home secretary continued. There is a lot of concern for social action in the church, Seefeldt said, concern for government policy and legislation. Those most concerned, however, have little or no experience in government and in the legislative process.

The home secretary position is a good place to learn this. Shorthand and typing aren't necessary tools for the home secretary of a congressman any more than they are for the ministry, Seefeldt described his new job as "constituent service," helping people in the Sixth District with problems related to federal agencies and programs.

"We don't guarantee results," he explained, "but we try to resolve a given situation, to channel information to the right places."

In three weeks, with time out for four days in Washington, questions to Seefeldt are running heavily to military service, the post office, Medicare, appointments to the military academies, and summer work in the nation's capital, among others. People ask the congressman's view about specific is-

OSU Considers Offering Afro-American Program

The feasibility of an Afro-American studies program at Oshkosh State University will be investigated by a committee now being appointed by the school's Dean of Letters and Science.

"I feel it would be desirable to have a program in Afro-American studies," Dean Arthur Darken says. But whether it would be feasible at OSU, and how it would be set up, will have to be investigated by the committee, he says.

Darken says the committee will include 10-15 members, including students, some of them black, and faculty members from a variety of disciplines within the school of letters and science.

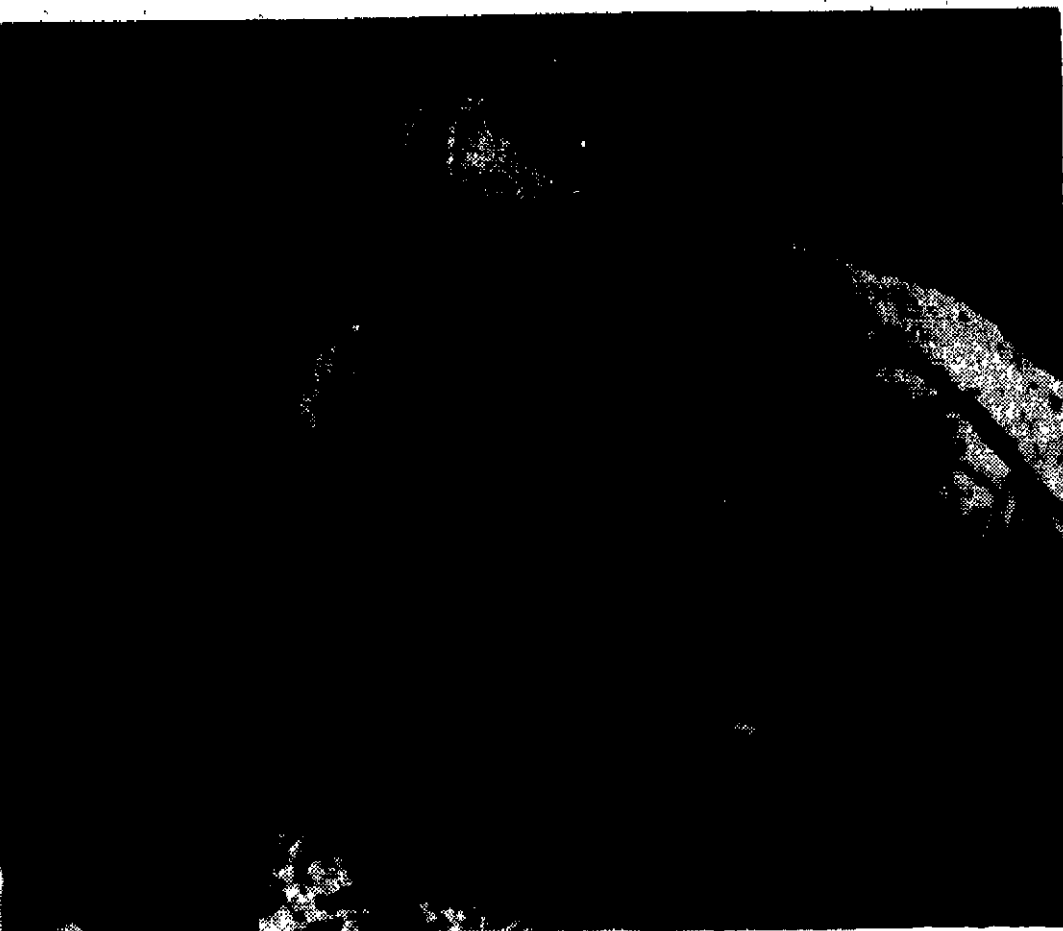

He said he expects to have the full committee appointed within two weeks, and that they will meet this summer, if possible. Otherwise, they will begin meeting in the fall.

Program By 1970?

"I would like to see some kind of a program started by the fall of 1970," Darken says. He said it would take that long for the program to receive university and Board of Regents approval.

Darken says that to his knowledge, an Afro-American studies program is not offered at any other university in the state.

PSC Approves $283,000 Larsen Project

MADISON — Wisconsin Public Service Corp., has been given permission to embark on a four-year, $283,000 project to extend natural gas service to Larsen and Winchester and surrounding rural territory of the towns of Clayton and Winchester.

The power company received authorization from the Wisconsin Public Service Commission Friday.

The company plans to spend $283,424 during the first year of the project, chiefly for new gas mains, regulators services and meters, but also including $25,000 toward the cost of building a new gate station west of Neenah.

The gate station, to be located at the intersection of County Trunk AG and Woodenshoe Road, will supply gas from the main line of Michigan Wisconsin Pipeline Company.

The station also will provide an additional source of gas for the Wisconsin-Michigan Power Co. system serving Neenah-Menasha. Permission has been granted by the Federal Power Commission allowing Michigan Wisconsin Pipeline to build the station.

The new Public Service Corp. lines will follow a route of more than 13 miles from the gate station west along County Trunk AG to County Trunk T, then north and west along that highway through Larsen to State 150, continuing west along 150 to Winchester.

Soldiers Square Critic Good and Bad News to Parking Commission

Good and bad news awaits officials, the press, parking members of the Appleton Parking Commission when they meet a week from now.

Collections from municipal parking facilities totaled $18,000 during May; but, a frequent critic of the city's parking program is asking for more changes to the Soldiers Square ramp.

In his monthly report, Treasurer Ray Feuerstein says revenue from metered streets was $8,916. Other money sources were: parking lots, $3,146; East Ramp, $3,388; West Ramp, $2,216; Soldiers Square Ramp, $1,577; Conway Hotel parking rentals, $210; and parking decals, $15.

Revenue from the Soldiers Square facility, constructed more than a year ago at a cost exceeding $1 million, is increasing. However, use of the facility has been disappointing to city officials and interested downtown businessmen.

As a result, W. A. Close, a College Avenue merchant and former parking commission member, wrote the last week that the blame for state of the ramp could be attributed to city officials, the press, parking commission and downtown merchants.

Close recommended some physical changes to the Soldiers Square facility, which has had cashier parking on a trial basis for several months. The period for trying out cashier parking will expire the end of the month.

It will then be up to the parking commission and city council to make a decision whether to retain cashier parking or install meters for which the ramp was originally designed.

The critical letter from Close prompted Mayor George Buckley to grin and comment, "City hall is not responsible for the Soldiers Square ramp situation."

Buckley claimed the problems could be traced to a group of businessmen, including Close, who insisted on changes being made to the ramp during the time it was under construction.

"Perhaps this is starting to haunt some people," Buckley added. He is chairman of the parking commission.

Association, Engineers Still Bargaining

Meeting in Madison Tuesday on Strike Now 11 Months Old

Another attempt will be made at Madison Tuesday to settle the long strike of Operating Engineers Local 139 against the Valley Contractor Material Suppliers Association.

The walkout, which started July 26, 1968 will be 11 months old this week.

Bargainers for the union, which represents about 75 operating engineers in the Fox Cities region, and the seven-member association, will meet with a mediator from the Wisconsin Employment Commission (WERC).

Recently, the association arrived at terms with Teamsters Local 563 of Appleton, which struck last July.

The Teamsters are back at work on area construction projects and the U.S. 41-W. College Avenue project is no longer being picketed.

However, in recent days the weather has slowed overpass construction being done by Courtney and Plummer, Inc. Neenah, the general contractor for the state project.

Operating Engineers are no longer picketing the jobsite after a National Labor Relations Board decision held both unions had engaged in illegal secondary picketing against Kremer Brothers, a sub-contractor on the job.

Little Chute Man Admits Taking Money From H. C. Prange Co.

Russell M. Schinke, 28, 104 North St., Little Chute, this morning was ordered held in jail without bond after he pleaded guilty to a charge of stealing money from the H. C. Prange Co., where he worked.

Outagamie County Judge Raymond P. Dohr ordered a presentence investigation. He did not set a date for sentencing.

Appleton police said Schinke was taken into custody Friday evening. He admitted taking about $10 while working part-time as a cashier at Prange's ramp, Thursday.

9,759 Use Erb, Mead Pools in Week Span

Attendance at Appleton's Erb Park and Mead Park swimming pools totaled 9,759 from June 9 to 15 with 4,996 recorded at Erb and 4,763 at Mead.

The heaviest day at both pools was Monday, June 9, when a total of 2,959 swimmers used the facilities.

Season tickets have been sold to 1,427 people at the Erb pool and to 1,925 at Mead.

Whether they are near agreement on a new three-year pact.

The Operating Engineers and Association have some problems that were not connected with the Teamsters' walkout.

"We want the same contract provisions that other Operating Engineers contracts in the state have," a union spokesman said this morning.

Marijuana Case Nets LU Student 3 Years Probation

Three years probation was ordered this morning for Gordon W. Tawse, 19, Baltimore, Md., who on June 5 was found guilty on two counts of marijuana possession.

Circuit Court Judge Andrew W. Parnell first sentenced Tawse, to two two-year terms in the state reformatory, but then stayed sentence and imposed probation to the State Department of Health and Social Services.

Parnell ordered Tawse to "stay away from drugs," and pay court costs.

A Circuit Court jury deliberated only a half hour June 5 before finding Tawse guilty of having marijuana in his possession Feb. 22 and Feb. 28. Appleton police, working through a narcotics informant, brought both felony counts.

Tawse, formerly of London, England, a former Lawrence University student, was free on $1,500 bond pending sentencing.

Two-Car Crash in City Injures Two Persons; One Taken to Hospital

Two persons were hurt in a crash at S. Story and W. Spencer streets about 3:30 p.m. Sunday.

Appleton police said cars involved were driven by Bruce A. Watson, 22, 3125 W. Fourth St., and Virginia M. Anheier, 924 W. 11th St.

Mrs. Watson was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital by ambulance for treatment of a head injury. Eugene J. Kurowski, 136 W. 11th St., Oshkosh, suffered right side injuries but was not hospitalized.

Police said the Watson auto was westbound on Spencer and the Anheier auto had stopped for a stop sign then pulled onto Spencer while northbound on Story.

Infant Stops Breathing; Is Rushed to Hospital

Ricky Fulcer, one-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Fulcer, 1303 S. Jefferson St., was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital by the fire department rescue squad about 1 p.m. Sunday.

The boy reportedly stopped breathing. His aunt applied artificial resuscitation before the fire department arrived.

A Youthful Governor congratulates his new state director of the Department of Public Welfare. John Jungbauer, Oshkosh, left, elected to the top position at Badger Boys State, selected Robert Karrow, Appleton, to head the welfare department. No politics was involved, however, according to Karrow, who had to take a competitive civil service examination and go before a board of investigators before the governor's decision was made. Both boys were among more than 1,000 youths from throughout the state to attend the State at Ripon, which ended Saturday. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Major Strike Averted With New 3-Year Pact

new pact it will be increased from $9 to $10 June 1, 1970.

Effective June 1 this year the association members agreed to a $6 monthly contribution per employee to the Teamsters employee health-welfare fund.

Language Changes
There were also some language changes over the previous contract, meeting industry-wide revisions, according to Phelen and Schlieve.

No ratification vote on the new contract was required of the union membership as the bargaining committee had been given authority to reject or approve a new agreement.

Both sides said they were happy to reach a settlement on a new contract without having a work stoppage. Three years ago the association was plagued by strikes of various building trades unions during the summer.

With the settlements that have now been reached—capped by the Association and Teamsters entering into a three-year contract—and major construction is expected to proceed without any labor-management problems until 1972.

No Threat

While there reportedly had been some hard bargaining by both sides, the direct threat of a strike was not raised in recent weeks as negotiators for the association and unions made progress as they headed into the home stretch.

The Teamsters had indicated after arriving at a settlement of the long strike against the seven-member Fox Valley Construction Material Suppliers Association recently, that the general contractors' group would be given top priority when it came to new contract discussions.

It was also reported the Fox Valley Utility Contractors Association had a representative sitting in with the management team, and said his group would also honor the terms of the new contract.

Assemblyman Gervase Hephner, D-Chilton, spoke favorably of the ordinance, saying he was not against good planning, and thought some of the proposed changes were good. However, he suggested to the committee that they visit the lands under petitions for rezoning or replanning to get a better look at conditions.

He also urged the committee to consolidate its method of processing these plots within a period of six months or less instead of delaying from one committee to the other. "Go out to the people and make it convenient for them, if necessary hold a special meeting," he said.

"If you have trouble going through state channels ask your assemblyman for help. That is what he is there for."

Two Appleton Foxes Players Attacked During Stay in Iowa

Special to The Post-Crescent
BURLINGTON, IOWA — A 23-year-old Ottuma, Iowa, man was in court here this morning on a felony charge brought following an alleged attack on two Appleton baseball players early Saturday.

Vincent L. Duncan was charged with assault with intent to do great bodily harm, for which there is a maximum sentence in Iowa of five years in prison.

His court case this morning was continued to 9 a.m. Tuesday, at which time he is expected to have a court-appointed attorney. He is in the Des Moines County Jail here under $1,500 bond.

A 19-year-old Burlington youth, who was taken into custody early Saturday, is still in jail here but has not yet been charged. He was ordered held at the request of an Iowa state parole agent.

Minor Injuries
Edito Arteaga and Antonio Correa, both 21 and both members of the Appleton Foxes baseball team, allegedly were attacked by the two Iowa men in an alley behind the Burlington Hotel about 12:30 a.m.

Cause of Woman's Death to be Sought By Laboratory Tests

Subdivision Regulations

Calumet County Land Ordinance Discussed

CHILTON — A second hearing of the county zoning and planning committee on the proposed land subdivision ordinance for Calumet County again met with opposition, Friday evening, but not by the same group who strongly opposed ordinance at the first hearing.

Wilford Elliot, Chilton attorney, and a principal in the High Cliff Development area, changed his opinion on the proposed ordinance when changes regarding improvements were outlined by Roland Tonn, county planner, at the opening of the meeting.

Elliot approved the ordinance as benefiting the county as a whole.

Primary Concern
Attorney William Engler Jr. of the High Cliff Development concurred with Elliot and was glad to see some control given back to the towns. He also suggested that "navigable waters" be defined a little clearer. Engler stated that "the ordinance sets forth new rules and with new rules comes hardships."

Of primary concern to the High Cliff developers at the first hearing was improvements. Under the first ordinance, all street grading, surface drainage, and where applicable, public water and sewer facilities, had to be installed by the subdivider for each lot.

Under the changed requirements, water and sewer facilities will be provided where immediately available, and any area within town sanitary districts providing public sewer and water facilities will be exempt from those facilities requirements under the ordinance.

High Cliff Development is in the Town of Harrison, which has a sanitary district. The proposed ordinance also gives the subdivider, under improvements, a choice of installing utilities either underground or on the surface.

Favored Ordinance
Assemblyman Gervase Hephner, D-Chilton, spoke favorably of the ordinance, saying he was not against good planning, and thought some of the proposed changes were good. However, he suggested to the committee that they visit the lands under petitions for rezoning or replanning to get a better look at conditions.

He also urged the committee to consolidate its method of processing these plots within a period of six months or less instead of delaying from one committee to the other. "Go out to the people and make it convenient for them, if necessary hold a special meeting," he said.

Donald Steege, who owns a farm bounding the city limits, spoke of his own experience trying to get a subdivision okayed. Although not opposed to planning, he was surprised at the change of opinion of people attending the hearing. He said all should have "one set of rules to play the game by," and go along with the state statute for county work, instead of preparing a new ordinance.

Opposed Measure
Albert Ludwig, Town of Stockbridge president, opposed the measure, stating that it was still taking too much authority from the towns.

Appleton Developer, Mike Jolin, who strongly opposed the ordinance in parts at the first hearing, said that the ordinance, if adopted, would hurt farm owners and persons earning about $12,000 a year.

Jolin felt the rights of the landowner would be taken away by set criteria determining the general safety and welfare of the people or county.

He offered a printed subdivision regulation ordinance prepared by him and his staff, to the persons at the hearing to study, and felt that it would meet the needs of the county.

Brillion Mayor Clarence Wolf urged the committee to consider all the recommendations made at the hearings, even if the passage of the ordinance was delayed. Once the ordinance was passed, he said, it must be enforced.

Appearing in behalf of the Calumet County Civic Association (COSA), William Hertel also urged the committee not to move too fast in its adoption. The COSA felt that the board could not act on the ordinance at their June 24 meeting.

In closing, Tonn said the committee would again take all suggestions into consideration before making a recommendation to the county board of supervisors.

The hearing for the sanitary code ordinance was rescheduled for 8 p.m., July 10.

Market Down On Broad Front

Monetary Restraint Continues to Weigh Heavily on Traders

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market retreated sharply over a broad front in fairly active trading early this afternoon, with concern over tight money and monetary restraint reported continuing to weigh on it.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 8.20 or 0.93 per cent, at 867.96. The Dow fell 6.21 Friday to close at 876.16, a new 1969 low.

Losses led gains by a bit better than 700 issues.

Market Analysis
"Continued concern over tight money and monetary restraint again weighs on the market," an analyst said, noting that this has been cited as contributing in large part to the market's very sharp decline in recent weeks.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off 2.5, with industrials down 3.7 rails off .8, and utilities off 1.8.

All of the 20 most-active issues on the New York Stock Exchange were lower.

Occidental Petroleum, most-active on 126,900 shares, slipped 1 1/4 to 35.

Fourteen of the 20 most-active issues on the American Stock Exchange were lower, 4 were higher, and 2 were unchanged.

Squad Aids Woman

The Appleton Fire Department rescue squad went to 224 S. Christine Street about 5:20 p.m. Sunday to assist Mrs. Carl Wenzlaff, 1106 W. Spring St., who was choking on a piece of food. She was not hospitalized.

Pope Says Lack Of Confidence Imperils Church

Pontiff Defends Himself, Curia, Bishops of World Against Critics

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI declared today there is confidence toward the exercise of his administration of the Roman Catholic Church. He said Christ, unites and guides the church, which masks great dangers for the church.

The 71-year-old pontiff, in a Pope Paul's frequent previous wide-ranging speech covering appeals to Roman Catholics for Church affairs, war and the search for peace, defended himself, the Roman Curia and Catholic bishops throughout the world against critics of their policies.

In a 5,400-word address to mark the sixth anniversary of his election to head the half-billion member Church, Pope Paul also repeated his sorrow at continuing bloodshed in Vietnam, Nigeria and the Middle East. He voiced again his hopes for true world peace.

The Pope devoted several pages to Spain. He struck out against "certain situations that sometimes do not leave our sons (in Spain) indifferent and cause certain intemperances." This was seen as a reference to the revolt of Basque priests against the regime of Gen. Francisco Franco.

The Pope spoke in reply to a congratulatory speech by Eugene Cardinal Tisserant, French-born dean of the College of Cardinals. Cardinal Tisserant suggested the Catholic Church faced certain problems today.

Referring to these problems, Pope Paul said "Some of these difficulties, it seems to us, mask grave dangers for the church of God and constitute a heavy responsibility for all who are the cause of them."

He cited two of the problems as "A lessened sense of doctrinal orthodoxy" toward the basic teachings of the Church;

"The Wizard of Oz" was a movie classic which led to fame for actress Judy Garland, discovered dead Sunday by her husband in her London home. She was 47. Appearing in the movie were, from left, Miss Garland, Bert Lahr, Jack Haley and Ray Bolger. (AP Wirephoto)

Singer Dies at 47 Judy Garland Goes 'Over the Rainbow'

LONDON (AP) — "Audiences have kept me alive," Judy Garland once said. But a London surgeon says the star was "living on borrowed time," and time ran out Sunday for the 47-year-old singing star.

Miss Garland, who made more than 35 films but was best known for her role as a little girl named Dorothy in "The Wizard of Oz," was found dead by her fifth husband, Mickey Deans, in the bathroom of her London home.

British newspapers labeled the death "sudden and mysterious" but Scotland Yard ruled out suicide and police said there was no suspicion of foul play. An autopsy was scheduled today.

Dr. Philip Lebon, a prominent London surgeon who had treated Miss Garland for several years, said she had cirrhosis of the liver and that death could have come any time. "How she lived this long I don't know," he said.

A Scotland Yard spokesman commented: "It was a simple, plain case of sudden death." "Simple Plain Case" Miss Garland had been married to Deans, a 35-year-old former New York discotheque manager, for 100 days. A friend, singer Gina Dangerfields, said: "Judy was feeling on top of the world. They were very much in love and it seemed that she had found happiness at last."

The singer, who brought tears and joy to millions of fans by singing of a dream world "Over the Rainbow," often suffered the depths of personal despair. The Judy Garland story was one of pills, divorces, on-stage collapses, illnesses, audiences that booed her and finished by yelling: "We love you Judy!" She reportedly attempted suicide several times. In the most publicized attempt, she slashed her throat at the age of 28.

But just when Miss Garland appeared washed up, she bounced back again. After she married Deans March 15, she told newsmen: "Finally, finally I am loved."

Born Frances Gumm on June 10, 1922, in Grand Rapids, Minn., she was the youngest of three daughters in a vaudeville team. It is said she made her first stage appearance in the Grand Rapids theater at the age of 30 months, singing "Jingle Bells," and that she was so thrilled by performing that her father had to pull her off the stage after she'd sung the number seven times.

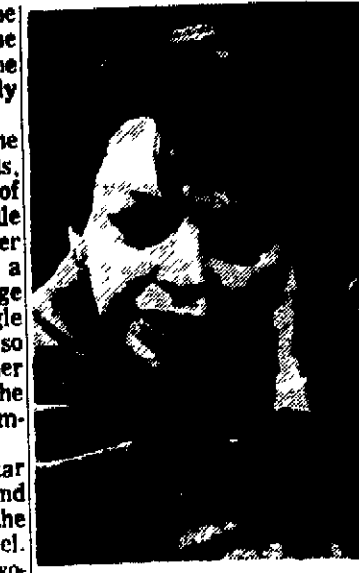

A widely travelled child star from the age of 3, Miss Garland changed her name at the suggestion of George Jessel. Her first film in 1935 was a two-reel short called "Every Sunday Afternoon," but her first well-known movie was "Pigskin Parade." Her 1939 role in the "Wizard of Oz" catapulted her into the hearts of millions.

In 1940, 1941 and 1945 she was named one of the 10 highest-paid stars in Hollywood, earning $150,000 a film. Her series with Mickey Rooney in the Andy Hardy stories was a national hit, still revived occasionally on the late-late show.

Her movies are estimated to have earned $100 million, but tragedy dogged her. At 18 she was under psychiatric care and consuming many kinds of pills.

Divorced Four Times She was divorced four times — in 1944 after a three-year marriage to director Vincent Minnelli; in 1951, after a six-year marriage to Sid Luft, her manager; in 1956, after a 13-year marriage to Mickey Rooney; and finally from actor Mark Herron, after a marriage of 19 months.

She has three children: Liza Minnelli, an entertainer, and Lorna and Joey Luft. All three were in the United States when they learned of their mother's death.

Judy Garland

Miss Garland, who often showed up late for stage appearances in recent years, was booed off the stage in Australia in 1964. Once when she turned up late for a night club appearance, the audience started booing. "I've been through a lot," she explained. Then she sang, and they loved her.

Despite her troubles, Judy complained in a 1962 interview that she was "always being painted a more tragic figure than I am, and I get awfully bored with myself as a tragic figure."

"Painful Product" Others weren't bored. "She was a unique entertainer, a wonderful singer," said actor Eli Wallach. "It's tragic. She is somehow the painful product of the worst part of Hollywood."

Dancer Fred Astaire said: "She was unlimited in her talents and learned everything very quickly... one of the most talented women who ever lived."

The Rev. Peter Delaney, who conducted a service of dedication after Miss Garland's latest marriage and became a close friend, said: "I hope now that people will start to speak kindly of Judy. I shall never forget her tremendous strength through her frailty and her wonderful sense of humor even at the darkest times."

"She was — I'm sure — at peace, and has found that rainbow. At least I hope she has," said Mickey Rooney.

Big State Banks Join Surge To Higher Rates on Interest

BY ROBERT O'MEARA Associated Press Writer

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Wisconsin banks, especially the larger ones, have joined the nationwide surge to higher interest rates in the past two weeks.

In some cases, the rates are so high there are apparently no takers on home mortgage loans, especially among persons with small down payments. One large bank in downtown Milwaukee said it was doing no business at all in home loans.

When the Wisconsin Bankers Association met in Milwaukee last week, Roger L. Heironimus, state commissioner of banking, said some banks had to go along with the one per cent increase in the prime rate to stay competitive. He defended those who had raised their prime rate to 8½ per cent but said he wasn't condoning high interest rates.

Many Wisconsin banks went to the 8½ per cent level after the big banks in the East imposed the boost.

Large Go Up A spot check showed that many of the larger banks had gone to the 8½ rate and that smaller banks had stayed at 7½. Many others were undecided.

An officer of the First Wisconsin National Bank in Milwaukee, Wisconsin's largest, was questioned about current home mortgage loan interest rates.

The spokesman said the bank was "temporarily out of the market" on 10 per cent down payment loans but that the rate book showed 8½ per cent for a 10 per cent down payment. The buyer also would have to pay "insurance" of one-quarter of one per cent.

The same bank said that for a 20 per cent down payment the rate is 8 per cent and for 25 per cent down or more, the rate is 7½. Last summer the First Wisconsin was imposing rates of 7½ for 10 per cent down, 7½ for 20 per cent down and 7¼ for 25 per cent or better.

No Home Loans An officer of the American City Bank and Trust Co. in Milwaukee, said the institution "is not making any home loans at present," but that if a "real good customer" wanted a loan with only a 10 per cent down payment, and had the right mortgage insurance, the bank would want 9 or 9½ per cent interest. The cost of a 50 per cent down loan would be 8½. A year ago, he said, the bank wasn't making loans for any down payment under 30 per cent and above that the rate was "around 7 per cent."

The Mutual Federal Savings and Loan Association of Milwaukee said its rate for financing is now 8½ per cent, compared with 8¼ a year ago. If the buyer had a 20 per cent down payment, he would pay 8 per cent, compared with 7¾ last summer, and if he had 30 per cent or more to pay down, he could have his loan for 7¾ per cent, compared with 7½ at this time in 1968.

Heironimus said the 8½ per cent prime rate charged by bankers did not represent greed, but an exorbitant interest. He said the 486 state chartered banks in the last year had an average return on their investments of 8.86 per cent.

Arabs Cross Canal, Israelis Cross Jordan Middle East Skirmishes Continue

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Dozens of Egyptian troops crossed the Suez Canal Sunday night but Israeli forces repulsed them, killing at least three, an Israeli army spokesman said today.

An Egyptian communiqué in Cairo today said their forces killed 18 Israelis in the raid. The attack came at about the same time as Israeli commandos crossed into Jordan south of the sea of Galilee and attacked Jordanian artillery positions.

They blew up a section of the East Ghor irrigation canal which was largely financed by American money. Sources said the raid was intended to serve "as still another warning" to the Jordanian army to "cool off" military activity.

A spokesman said the rupture of the Ghor Canal was meant "to show them what we can do if they keep it up."

The Israelis said that the canal battle with the Egyptians was the biggest in many months. The Egyptian force crossed five miles south of Quantara on the northern shore of the canal after a heavy artillery and mortar bombardment, spokesmen reported.

They said the Israeli troops returned the fire, engaged the commandos and pushed them back across the canal.

The Egyptians left three dead on the Israeli side. The army spokesman said one Israeli soldier was wounded.

The Israeli Sunday raid in Jordan came after warplanes made three attacks in the same area.

It was one of the few commando attacks directed at a regular Jordanian army unit. Most other attacks have been aimed at Arab guerrilla bases.

44 Rescued, 106 Die in Mozambique Disaster LOURENCO MARQUES, Mozambique (AP) — Workers rescued 44 men from the crocodile-infested waters of the Zambezi River after a Portuguese military barge sank and 106 soldiers were drowned Sunday, authorities said.

Four Africans fishing from dugout canoes heard the cries of survivors struggling in the fast current and rescued 22 of them. The barge was carrying 150 troops and 30 vehicles on their way to reinforce a garrison in the north of this Portuguese African colony. The accident happened about 150 miles north of the east coast port of Beira.

Authorities suspected overloading and lack of engine power caused the barge to sink. The South African Press Association reported the barge master had assured the troop commander the vessel could support the load.

GOP Representative Stomach Cancer Kills Massachusetts Solon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. William Henry Bates of Massachusetts, top Republican on the House Armed Services Committee and an advocate of a nuclear Navy, has died of stomach cancer.

Bates, 52, died Sunday at Bethesda Naval Hospital where he had been receiving X-ray treatment from March 19 until about two weeks ago. His wife was with him when he died, an aide said.

Bates' death left the House political lineup at 241 Democrats and 188 Republicans, with three vacancies.

Succeeded Father Bates was elected in 1950 to succeed his father, Rep. George Bates, who had been killed along with 54 other persons when their airliner, coming in to land at National Airport, collided with a military plane piloted by a young Bolivian.

The younger Bates had been a Navy lieutenant commander prior to running for Congress. He was a captain in the Navy reserves when he died. Bates had participated in naval assaults on Iwo Jima and the Japanese mainland near the end of World War II.

In Congress, he pressed for development of nuclear naval ships. Bates was the second-ranking GOP House member of the House-Senate Atomic Energy Committee.

Survivors include the widow, a daughter Susan, who is a Boston commercial artist; his mother Mrs. Nora Bates of Salem, Mass., and three brothers and three sisters, all residents of Massachusetts.

President Nixon sent the widow a message of condolence.

Down Cards Twice; Chicago Splits

Mets Move Closer to Cubs

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

New Mets never die... well, hardly ever... and a couple of old ones aren't exactly fading away.

Gary Gentry, New York's current pitching prodigy, and Jerry Koosman, its 1968 rookie sensation, hurled the torrid Mets to a 5-1, 1-0 doubleheader sweep over the struggling St. Louis Cardinals Sunday.

Tommie Agee, a second-year Met, and rookie Rod Gaspar also played key roles as the former expansion misfits delighted a Shea Stadium crowd of 55,862—largest in the National League this season—and climbed within 4½ games of Chicago's stumbling East Division leaders.

New York has won 18 of its last 23 starts—including three of four against the defending NL champs.

Four-run Rally

The Cubs, who had lost six of seven previous starts, beat Montreal 7-6 in the opener of a doubleheader with a four-run ninth inning rally capped by ex-Met Jim Hickman's two-run homer. The winning pitcher? Met castoff Dick Selma.

Montreal bounced back for a 5-4 victory the nightcap, which was called after six innings because of darkness at lightless Wrigley Field.

Los Angeles blanked Cincinnati 5-0 (the second game of their scheduled twin bill was rained out) and took a one-half game lead in the West over Atlanta, which divided a pair with San Francisco, winning 7-5 after a 5-1 loss, Pittsburgh trimmed Philadelphia 6-0 before bowing to the Phillies 3-2, and Houston downed San Diego 2-0.

Gentry, 7-5, spotted the Cardinals a run and two hits in the first inning, then stopped them cold until the ninth, when reliever Cal Koonce came on to get the last two outs, leaving two runners stranded.

Agee drove in a pair of runs as the Mets raked loser Steve Carlton and two successors for 13 singles—three each by Bud Harrelson, Cleon Jones and Jerry Grote.

Koosman scattered seven St. Louis hits and struck out nine in the nightcap on the way to his third shutout. The Mets clipped Mike Torrez for the game's only run in the seventh, when Harrelson tripled and Agee bounced a double over the head of third baseman Mike Shannon.

Shoulder Trouble

Left fielder Gaspar saved Koosman in the eighth with a bullet throw to the plate that nailed Lou Brock trying to score from second on Joe Torre's two-out single.

Koosman, 5-4, has a club record string of 23 consecutive scoreless innings and has yielded just four runs in 60 innings since coming off the disabled list May 24.

"We have the feeling now that nobody can beat us when we take the field; nobody can stand in our way," said the 25-year-old left-hander, a 17-game winner as a rookie but plagued by shoulder trouble early this year.

Koosman left nine St. Louis runners on base in the nightcap. The Mets' Ron Swoboda had stranded as many teammates on the bases in the first game by striking out five straight times... to tie a major league record.

Hickman, an original 1962 Met who went into the opener at Chicago batting .187, drilled his second homer of the season in the ninth after Ernie Banks' two-run single brought the Cubs within 6-5.

The victim of Hickman's winning blast was reliever Don Shaw... another former Met.

Bob Bailey drove in four of the Expos' runs with his first and second homers and a pair of singles.

Montreal's Ron Fairly broke a 3-3 tie with a run-scoring triple in the fourth inning of the nightcap and tallied on Rusty Staub's single. The Cubs closed the gap on Paul Popovich's RBI single in the bottom of the inning, but ran out of sunshine after batting in the sixth.

Bill Singer, 8-8, stopped the Reds on five hits and fanned seven, boosting his major league leading strikeout total to 123, as Los Angeles rolled to its sixth successive victory. Tom Haller stroked four hits and Wes Parker homered for the Dodgers.

Rain washed out the second game with the Reds batting in the first inning.

Juan Marichal pitched a five-hitter for his ninth victory in 11 decisions as the Giants won their opener at Atlanta on home

By BOB GREENE
MILWAUKEE (AP) — Coach Larry Costello was on the losing side Sunday night, but didn't mind it very much.

"Of course, you always hate to lose," the Milwaukee Bucks coach said. "But, this one was different."

Costello coached the Green team, which lost 125-118 to the Lew Alcindor-led White team in the Bucks' intrasquad game before 10,482 fans. It marked the professional debut of the 7-foot-1 former UCLA three-time All-American.

Alcindor, who received a standing ovation when he was introduced before the game, promptly tallied 21 points in the first period and finished the game with 35. The enthusiastic applause, which lasted for nearly one minute, drew a smile from the smooth-performing rookie.

Pleasant Surprise

"Everybody told me this is a good basketball town," Alcindor said, "but it was still a pleasant surprise."

Alcindor's first two points as a pro came after he grabbed the first of his 23 rebounds and stuffed the ball through the hoop. It was the first time in three years that the "dunk" was legal for the National Basketball Association's No. 1 draft choice.

On defense, Alcindor was also devastating as he blocked nine shots, although he was called for defensive goal tending twice.

Costello was lavish in his praise of Alcindor, but also noted several other good performances.

"I was impressed by Charlie (Paulk, last year's No. 1 draft choice). He really shot much better than he did last year," Costello said.

"John Arthurs (6-foot-4) forward from Tulane) played very well, especially when you realize he's changing from forward to a guard. He really hustled and he can shoot."

From Carthage

Other rookies that scored with the coach were Bob Dandridge, a 6-6 forward from Norfolk, Va.; State; Bob Greenan, the Bucks' second-round draft choice from

Expect 15,000 at Madison Square Garden

Frazier, Jerry Quarry Clash Tonight

By MURRAY ROSE
NEW YORK (AP) — Fistic fireworks are expected to explode early tonight when jolting Joe Frazier risks his six-state piece of the world heavyweight title against optimistic Jerry Quarry at Madison Square Garden.

Both are on record as predicting a quick finish of the 15-rounder which will be telecast on closed circuit coast-to-coast with New York blacked out. Starting time is 9:30 p.m., CDT.

Frazier, winner of all 23 of his pro fights including 20 by knockouts, is an 11-5 favorite to repel the challenge of the fast-firing, 24-year-old blond bomber from Bellflower, Calif. Quarry has a 31-2-4 record including 18 knockouts.

Punches Faster

"I expect to get him in five rounds," said Quarry, who boasts he can punch faster and harder than the 25-year-old champion. "If I lose, they're going to have to carry me out."

"There ain't no way he's gonna go five," said Frazier, a 25-year-old, non-stop puncher of the Hammerin' Henry Armstrong school. "He's gonna get burned earlier than that if he comes after me like he says he will."

The oak-thighed Philadelphia promoter said he'll "come out smokin'" like he always has.

Frazier has no other way of fighting. He comes right after an opponent in a straight line, blasting away with both hands to head, body and arms at better than 100 punches round rate.

Neither has been stopped so far.

Expect 15,000

But with both talking knockouts, a crowd of upwards of 15,000 is expected to pay more than $500,000 at prices ranging from $10 to $100.

With the ancillary receipts, including closed circuit television, thrown in, Frazier can earn from $350,000 to $500,000 and Quarry from $250,000 to $350,000. A princely sum even in these inflationary days for a couple of youngsters who have been fighting pro about four years each.

It will be the fourth title defense within a year for Frazier, now recognized as world champion in Argentina and Mexico as well as New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Maine, Massachusetts and Texas.

Jimmy Ellis of Louisville, Ky., is recognized as champion by the World Boxing Association while Cassius Clay still is hailed as king of them all in some parts of the world.

Partial Title

Frazier, the 1964 Olympic heavyweight king, won partial title recognition by stopping Buster Mathis in the 11th round at Madison Square Garden, March 4, 1968. It was the first fight show in the new Garden and drew a record indoor fight gate of $658,503, paid by 18,096.

Quarry has won five straight since he lost a 15-rounder to Ellis for the WBA title at Oakland, Calif., on April 27, 1968.

"It was a stinker—the worst fight of my career," said Quarry of his loss to Ellis. It turned out that he had fought with three chipped bones in his back and had to be placed in a cast.

He earned the shot at Frazier by hammering out an impressive victory in 12 rounds over Mathis at the Garden three months ago.

"Frazier will win and I think he will knock Quarry out," said Mathis, the victim of both.

George Foreman, the 1968 Olympic heavyweight champion, and Mike Quarry, Jerry's 18-year-old brother, will fight on the card.

Foreman of Pleasanton, Calif., will make his pro debut against Don Waldheim of New York in a six-rounder. Mike Quarry, a light heavyweight with a 5-0 pro record, will take on Ruben Figueroa.

John Regains World Pole Vault Record

18-Foot Height Next Barrier for Pennel

BY BRUCE F. LOWITT
SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—John Pennel stopped in the middle of signing an autograph. The lanky pole vaulter glared at the crowd of spectators who had gathered around him. "Now I want Striders. I took a longer time than usual between jumps, trying to pull myself together. But minutes before, Pennel had gotten something else he'd been full after."

"I just wanted that record back — it's been two years," he shouted above the commotion after soaring 17-10½ to smash the world record by one and one-quarter inches.

Now, after stunning the thin crowd late in Saturday's Sacramento Invitational track and field meet, he joked about his performance — acting nevertheless as if the record and that 18-foot mark were his by divine right.

"That record was all that counted. That's what I came here for. I knew I could do it!" after all, he mentioned pointedly, hadn't he been the first one to clear 17 feet?

That was five years ago, before a series of injuries placed him in the shadow of former record holder Bob Seagren of the University of Southern California and others.

Not Even Close

If he had shattered that old barrier, why not the next one? He tried Saturday. Three times he sped down the runway and rocketed toward the sky. It wasn't even close. Twice he went under the 18-foot bar,

John Pennel is a happy man as he signs the record sheet after breaking the night, with a jump of 17 feet, 10½ inches during the Sacramento Invitational world's pole vault record, Saturday track meet in Sacramento, Cal.

Remain One-Half Game Out of Lead

Foxes Slate Doubleheader

The Appleton Foxes are scheduled to open their final home stand of the first round belatedly tonight. They meet Cedar Rapids in a doubleheader at Goodland Field, starting at 6:30 p.m.

Sunday night, the Foxes - Cardinals game was postponed because of rain. The Foxes, who fell out of first place Saturday night, for the first time this season, remain one-half game out of the Midwest League lead.

The Foxes have five games left — three at home and two at Wisconsin Rapids — in the first round race, which ends Saturday. Appleton has achieved a 17-3 record at home but has posted a 13-16 mark on the road.

A reshuffling of the Foxes' roster occurred over the weekend as seven players were shipped to the Duluth-Superior club, of the Northern League six college returnees and draftees were added to the roster.

Sent to Duluth were pitchers Steve O'Neil, Bill Cooper, and Willie Garrison; infielders Rod Pommers and Hugh Yancy; plus outfielders Ron Williams and Ross Sapp.

Joining Appleton are pitchers Neil Weber, John Hankammer, and Denny O'Toole; outfielder Ken Hottman; and infielders Mark Marquess and Glenn Redmon.

Weber, Hankammer and Hottman played with the Foxes previously. Weber, an Appleton native, recently returned from a school at the University of Minnesota.

Voted MVP

Marquess, the White Sox' 25th draft choice, just graduated from Stanford University. He is a first baseman. At Stanford, Marquess also played quarterback on the football team and was a guard on the basketball squad.

Redmon, no relation to the Foxes' Jim Redmon, was the 19th draft pick of the White Sox. He was voted the most valuable player on the University of Michigan team this spring. Redmon can play third, short or second.

O'Toole is the brother of former Cincinnati Reds star, Jim O'Toole. Denny is a right-hander. He returns from classes at Xavier University.

Pitcher Pete Lentine has returned from California after being treated for a rash. Lentine was never officially off the Appleton roster, contrary to a prior report.

Southpaw Mickey Abarbanel, who helped lead Appleton to a pennant in 1966, is currently working out with the Foxes in hopes of curing a sore arm.

And the White Sox' No. 1 draft choice, Ted Nicholson, has been sent to the Sarasota farm club. Nicholson had originally been slated to play for Appleton.

Palmer Gives Charge

Douglass Shoots 67, Wins Kemper Easily

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — The galleries were roaring, the noise from the vast army sweeping in waves over the course, as Arnold Palmer made his charge.

"Everybody was excited," Dale Douglass said. "I could hear them."

"I got pretty excited, too. But for a different reason."

But the excitement wasn't enough to shake his game and the placid, articulate Douglass cruised in with a final 67 and a four-stroke victory in the Kemper Open Golf Tournament Sunday.

He had a 274 total, 14 under par for the 7,205-yard, par-72 Quail Hollow Country Club course, and claimed the biggest check of his nine-year-old pro career, $30,000.

Charles Coody, who had a course record matching 65 and was one of several to challenge Douglass in the sweltering heat, finished second at 278.

South African Gary Player, with a 69, and Australian Bruce Crampton, with a 70, tied at 279.

Made a Run

Palmer, the defending champion, made a run at it with a final 66 but finished at 280. He was tied with Joel Goldstrand, 69, Masters champion George Archer, 72, and England's Tony Jacklin, 71.

Lee Trevino had a 74 for 284. U.S. Open champion Orville Moody had a 70 for 286 and PGA champ Julius Boros, 76 for 286.

Douglass, a 6-foot-2, 155-pound stringbean from Denver, started the day with a one stroke lead and had to face the challenges of Palmer, Archer and Coody in that order.

Palmer made a move in a hurry, taking birds on three of the first five holes, turning in 32

Lauds Other Backs West Unit Will Win, With or Without O. J., Says Bobby Douglass

ATLANTA (AP) — The way Bobby Douglass sees it, O.J. Simpson is a great running back.

But, according to Douglass, a former Kansas quarterback, the West squad still will win the ninth annual Coaches All-American football game Saturday— with or without Simpson.

"I'd like to have him Simpson," Douglass said Saturday, "because he'd give us an extra outside threat. But as for O.J. hurting our team or the game, that's all wrong."

"Take a look at our backfield," Douglass continued. "Paul Gibson's the hardest running back I've ever seen. Put him, Eugene 'Mercury' Morris and Bill 'Earthquake' Enyart behind me and I'm gonna feel pretty good."

Gipson is the former Houston bulldozer who was drafted by the Atlanta Falcons. Morris is a former West Texas State star who was picked by the Miami Dolphins, and Enyart was selected by the Buffalo Bills after an all-star career at Oregon State.

Special Insurance
"Now let me put it this way," Douglass offered. "I hear they're talking about obtaining a special insurance policy to get O.J. to play."

"I might even put up some money myself on the chance that he wouldn't get hurt because he certainly wouldn't."

Online Among 23 Yachts in 'Transatlantic'

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Yachts owned by the Navies of the United States, Argentina, Italy and the Canadian Armed Forces are among the 23 contestants in the transatlantic race to Cork, Ireland, which starts today.

Online, an aluminum, 73-foot ketch owned by Summer "Huey" Long, which placed first in a transoceanic race to Germany last year, will attempt to average his second-place finish to Ted Turner's American Eagle in a race from Annapolis, Md., to Newport this week.

Turner, 30, from Atlanta, is not optimistic about the chances for his converted 12-meter racer which is 20-feet shorter at the water line than the 73-foot maxi-mum permitted.

"I don't think we are a good boat downwind in heavy weather," Turner said, despite having beaten Online in a squall with 40 mile-an-hour gusts which climaxed the Annapolis to Newport race.

Bobby Unser Wins Restart Of 150-Miler

Averages 112 mph; Art Pollard Takes Runnerup Position

LANGHORNE, Pa. (AP) — The winner's purse of about $15,000 went to Bobby Unser in the Sunday restart of the Langhorne 150-mile auto race halted a week ago because of rain.

Unser's time was an average 112.424 miles per hour in a rear engine turbo Offenhauser. The record is 113.183 miles per hour.

When the race picked up at the 26th lap, Unser was in front with Mario Andretti second and Gordon Johncock third.

Andretti took the lead on the 39th lap, then lost it on the 41st lap to Unser. Andretti moved ahead again on the 42nd lap and stayed in front until Bobby Unser claimed the lead for good in the 88th lap.

Only Unser and Art Pollard were running in the same lap at the finish. Unser finished 10 seconds ahead of Pollard's STP-Gerhardt-turbo-Offy.

Dallenbach Third
Wally Dallenbach finished third ahead of Bill Vukovich Jr. and Andretti, who took fifth place despite a slow leak in his right rear tire that started about the 60th lap.

The total purse was a record $50,000 including $12,500 in speedway money, $2,020 in lap prizes and accessory awards. Sunday's competition included 22 of the 24 starters a week ago. Thirteen drivers finished the race.

The top 10: 1. Bobby Unser, Albuquerque, N.M.; 2. Art Pollard, Fresno, Calif.; 3. Wally Dallenbach, East Brunswick, N.J.; 4. Bill Vukovich Jr., Fresno, Calif.; 5. Mario Andretti, Nazareth, Pa.; 6. Gary Bettenhausen, Tinley Park, Ill.; 7. Jim Malloy, Denver, Colo.; 8. Bob Harkey, Indianapolis; 9. George Snider, Bakerville, Calif.; and 10. Sam Sessions, Nashville, Mich.

Also Has Movie Bit Namath Hints About Pact With Mantle

OCEAN SHORES, Wash. (AP) — Without giving the key word on his professional football future, Broadway Joe Namath steadily improved his golf game here, then headed south.

He did drop a hint about a pending pact with Mickey Mantle, however.

Namath, formally retired from the New York Jets but reportedly due to reach some kind of reconciliation with pro football Commissioner Pete Rozelle, also said he has contracted for "a small part" in a movie.

"I think what Mickey and I are going to do in New York could be the biggest business I have been with or will be associated with," Namath said Saturday. He didn't elaborate.

Then, improving his scoring by seven strokes for a third day in a row, he shot a 78 to finish with a gross of 253 in the Pat Boone Celebrity Golf Classic here Sunday.

He then took a commercial flight via Seattle to San Francisco, reportedly headed for Alabama.

Role in Movie
Namath said he has signed for a role in a movie with singer Glen Campbell. He said he would be in Los Angeles about June 30 for the shooting but "when we'll be finished I don't know."

Don Klosterman, general manager of the Houston Oilers, has been quoted as saying Namath and Rozelle should be meeting June 24 "or thereabouts" to settle their differences.

Rozelle ordered Namath to sell his interest in Bachelors III, a New York restaurant which the commissioner says is frequented by gamblers and persons whose bad reputations could hurt football.

Namath refused, then retired.

Ex-Champs Pick on Cue For Title Bout

It is the custom on the eve of championship prizefights to consult the great oracles of the game, past champions or near-champions who are expected to bring their expert observations to bear.

The trouble with this is, they usually pick on cue from the fight press agent. To maintain a neat balance—and sell tickets—if one guy picks the champ, the next guy picks the challenger. The result is a compendium of banalities.

Fighter A says he likes the champ because "his blood clots better." Fighter B likes the challenger because "his mental approach is better." (By that, he usually means he had the foresight to fix the fight.)

Pre-Cooked Quotes

But, we scorn these pre-cooked quotes, these TV dinners of journalism and go direct to our favorite analyst, "Studs" Conway, who learned the fight game at the feet of the masters (because that's where they had just knocked him). Studs had the fight game's longest streak of one-round knockouts but he broke it one night by lasting to the second round. Studs was the wartime champion of PT-Boat 409 and you will remember the great night he and "Comma" Cohen (so-called because his manager complained he was always getting knocked into a comma) fought each other to a standstill. In fact, it was such a standstill, the referee threw them both out of the ring in the sixth round because neither one of them had made a move forward by that time.

Think of Styles

Interviews: "Studs, you've seen the contenders here, Jerry Quarry and Joe Frazier, what do you think of the styles of the two fighters?"

Studs: "Frazier's got a definite edge. Quarry doesn't even wear a tie. And where does he get his suits—off of corpses?"

Interview: "No, I mean their fighting styles."

Studs: "Well, one guy fights

2 Foxes Will Be Asked to Identify Attackers

The Appleton Foxes' Max Correa and Edito Arteaga have some unfinished business the next time they visit Burlington, Ia.

The two players will be asked to make identification of two men who jumped them outside of a hotel Friday night. One of the attackers, an escaped convict, was brandishing a knife.

Neither Correa nor Arteaga was hurt. They broke away and ran to the nearest police station, and the knife-wielder was taken into custody minutes after the incident. The other man was also captured later.

runs by Willie McCovey, Jack Hiatt and Ken Henderson.

The Braves rallied for four runs in the eighth inning of the nightcap, breaking a 3-3 tie, and hung on to salvage a split. Reliever Frank Lirio wild pitched the go-ahead run across and pinch hitter Tito Francona knocked in two runs with a single keying the burst.

Larry Hise rapped a run-scoring single in the eighth; lifting the Phillies past Pittsburgh after the Pirates took the first game behind Dock Ellis' six-hit pitching and a 16-hit attack.

The Astros extended their winning streak to six games and San Diego's losing skein to eight as left-hander Denny Lemaster checked the Padres on five hits. Houston ended Joe Niekro's no-hit bid and broke a scoreless tie in the seventh on singles by Denis Menke and John Edwards and a pair of errors by third baseman Ed Spiezio.

Douglass Wins Golf Crown and going eight under par for the tournament with a birdie on the 10th.

"He was just two shots back of me at that time," Douglass said, "but I could have bogeyed a couple and come back to him."

He didn't, however, and Palmer's charge fell short.

Archer moved into a share of the lead, and Douglas broke that tie with a 15-foot birdie putt on the sixth.

Then came the charging Coody, who took a share of the top spot just as Douglass' bird turned. But the crew-cut Douglass broke that with another 15 foot bird on 10. From then on, it was downhill.

The victory was only the second of the 33-year-old Douglass' career. And the second this season. He won the Azalea Open earlier this year.

Rutgers, and Jack Lutz, a 6-4 guard from Carthage College of Kenosha, Wis.

The veteran standouts included Flynn Robinson, who finished with 22 points; Sam Williams, who had 20, and Dick Cunningham, who split his time at forward and at center against Alcindor.

Alcindor said Cunningham was the toughest opponent he had ever faced, from the standpoint of contact.

"It's against the rules," Lew said, "but that's how they play the game. Some people play to hurt you, but Dick's clean."

With Alcindor dominating the play, the Whites moved out to a 15-8 lead before Paulk, who's on a weekend pass from the army, found the range with his left-handed jumpers. At the end of the first period, the Green squad was ahead, 35-33.

The two teams battled evenly throughout the game before three points by Williams and Robinson broke a 112-deadlock and started the White squad to victory.

Dandridge scored 22 points to lead the Greens, while Arthurs had 18 and Paulk added 17.

Worst Call, Says Santo

Cubs Riled Over Early Halt of Game by Umps

BY JOE MOOREHEAD

CHICAGO (AP) — Has marriage changed Leo Durocher? Ever since returning to the managerial scene with the Chicago Cubs four years ago following an absence of 10 years from the game, Durocher has insisted he has not mellowed with time.

And anybody who has followed the Durocher story can attest to that. But it was a different story Sunday for Durocher, who only last Thursday was married to Lynne Walker Goldblatt.

The Cubs had rallied for four runs in the ninth inning of the first game to carve a 7-6 decision over Montreal on Jim Hickman's climactic two-run homer.

They were trailing 5-4 after six innings of the nightcap when the umpires decided to call the game because of darkness.

Most of the players were grumbling in the locker room with statements like, "The ump's must have had to catch an early plane," or "It wasn't any darker than when the game started."

One Lousy Run

Capt. Ron Santo said, "That was the worst call in the world. They used to do that to us when we were in eighth or ninth place and it didn't mean anything. But now we're the No. 1 club and you just don't call an important game like that with us trailing by one lousy run."

Confronted with the question pos, belted two homers and four singles in six at-bats and drove in four runs as Montreal split a doubleheader with the Chicago Cubs, losing 7-6 and winning 5-4.

if he thought the umpires were too hasty in calling the game, Durocher astounded reporters by saying, "That's up to the umpires, not me."

Trying to get Durocher to explode with other questions proved fruitless. He simply refused to be drawn into any controversy and ended the discussion by saying, "I can't do anything about it."

The halt by darkness cost the Cubs a chance of snapping their doubleheader jinx and dwindled their lead additionally in the National League East.

The Cubs have lost three doubleheaders this season and have split four and their lead of 8 1/2 games a little more than a week ago has been cut to 4 1/2 games over the New York Mets, who took a pair from St. Louis Sunday.

Dropped Fly Ball

In addition to the game being called, it was a tough loss for the Cubs. With two out and the bases full in the first, center-fielder Don Young dropped Kevin Collins' fly ball for a two-base error and three runs scored.

The Cubs tied it in the bottom of the first but Ron Fairly's run-scoring triple broke it up in the fourth on a ball which evaded rookie Rick Bladt who had replaced Young and Fairly scored what proved to be the winning run on a single by Rusty Staub.

Weekend Fights

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico—Jose "King" Roman, 202, Puerto Rico, outpointed Chuck Warner, 215, Bayonne, N.J., 10.

QUITO, Ecuador—Eugenio Espinoza, 137, Ecuador, stopped Antonio "Mochila" Herrera, 136, Colombia, 9.

Air Transportation Crisis May Worsen

By JOHN M. PEARCE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization has warned it will not tolerate further government investigation of last week's slowdown, raising the possibility of a new—and possibly worse—air transportation crisis.

But the director of the Federal Aviation Administration's Air Traffic Service, William J. Flerer, said the probe would continue.

The renewed dispute had no immediate effect on air traffic, however, and major airports throughout the eastern United States report normal operations.

Between 250-300 controllers called in sick last Wednesday and Thursday, while those who reported enforced FAA safety rules to the letter, forcing airlines to cancel hundreds of flights and delay others for hours.

The controllers complained of being understaffed and overworked.

When the slowdown ended Friday morning, FAA investigators began quizzing every controller who reported sick, asking each to furnish a physician's statement. Flerer said the interviewing was stopped Sunday but was to be resumed today.

"If this is continued today, we think the whole thing will blow up and aviation will come to a stop," the organization's vice chairman, James R. Egan, said in New York. He said he feared an "emotional and spontaneous" reaction by controllers in key cities, even though organization officials were urging members to "cool it."

Talk to Lawyers
In Boston, F. Lee Bailey, counsel for the controllers, echoed the prediction. "If it happens again Monday these men will walk out," he said. "They all have lawyers and if the investigators want to talk with them, we are available."

Bailey said he protested to the Department of Transportation over the weekend it was "harassment" when investigators called controllers from their radar sets to be questioned.

Flerer said the goal of the investigation is "to find out the nature of the so-called spontaneous illness." The next step, he said, will be up to Secretary of Transportation John A. Volpe and FAA Administrator John H. Shaffer.

Shaffer, he said, ordered the investigation.

Discipline Threatened
The controllers are forbidden by law to strike, and the FAA threatened disciplinary action if they conducted what amounted to one.

Last Thursday Jack Maher, national coordinator of the organization said controllers were enforcing air safety rules. In addition, he said, "we are telling our people if there is any indication that physically or mentally they are not able to do top-notch jobs, they should not go to work, call in sick, have everything they need taken care of. And if they are working, to

Friday, Maher said the membership was cautioned "to be aware of oversteering the safety committee recommendation which refers to getting incapacitated through illness and fatigue to the point where mental alertness is diminished."

Demands on
On the same day, Shaffer said there "is recognized need for additional air traffic control staffing to meet the demands on the system."

Sunday the controllers sent a telegram of protest to Volpe, Shaffer, the airlines, the Airline Pilots Association, the Flight Safety Foundation and the National Transportation Safety Board.

"Reports continue that controllers are being removed from already critically understaffed positions, subjected to crude, unethical and exhausting harassment, then ordered back to controlling aircraft."

Burger Sworn in As Chief Justice

Nixon Lauds Warren for Years of Service

WASHINGTON (AP) — Warren Earl Burger was sworn in at 10:42 a.m. today to be the 15th chief justice of the United States.

The simple and sedate ceremony marked the retirement of Earl Warren after 18 years as chief justice and 52 years in public service.

President Nixon, in an unprecedented action, spoke to the high court, and said of Warren: "The nation is grateful for that service."

At the conclusion of the ceremony, Burger stood behind the bench and in a firm, clear voice swore to defend the Constitution and to administer justice faithfully and impartially, to do equal right to the poor and rich.

The 61-year-old veteran federal judge rested his hand on a Bible held by the outgoing chief justice.

They were flanked on both sides by the seven sitting associate justices.

Nixon is believed to be the first President in office to address the court. A lawyer, he spoke as a member of the court's bar. He stood behind the lawyer's lectern, but used no notes.

The President said of Warren what Will Rogers once said of William Howard Taft, onetime president and later chief justice: "It is great to be great; it is greater to be human."

Warren's Service
Nixon said Warren's service as chief justice was especially characterized by three things—fairness, integrity and dignity.

Speaking of the court itself, the President said: "No institution of our government has been more responsible for continuity with change."

While the President spoke and before that, as three decisions closing out the term were announced, Burger sat at the clerk's desk, to the extreme right of the chief justice.

Warren, replying to Nixon's remarks, thanked the President for what he said but spoke mostly for the court itself. His voice at the breaking point on occasion, the chief justice said of the court: "We serve only the public interest as we see it, guided by the Constitution and our own conscience."

He said the justices don't always agree and if they do the court's virility will have been sapped."

Warren described the justices as "nine independent men who have no one to be responsible to except their own consciences."

Nixon's role in the transition ceremony, a brief speech, helps underline the contrast between the old and new chief justices.

Warren, an old political enemy of Nixon's, spent his 16 years as chief justice leading the court through its most activist and liberal periods. The 61-year-old Burger, on the other hand, spent the last 13 years as a little-known federal appeals judge building a legal reputation as a strict constitutional constructionist who advocated a hard approach to criminal law. Although Nixon's political differences with Warren apparently were put behind them earlier this year, when the President appointed Burger he stressed that the Minnesota native was his kind of "law and order" judge who would take a more traditional approach as chief justice.

Eager to Rehire
Warren, at 78, was eager to step down from the bench. Actually he announced his intention to retire nearly a year ago, but stayed when the Senate refused to confirm his originally-appointed successor, Abe Fortas.

His public life began 50 years ago when he was first elected to office in California. He moved up to become the state's attorney general and then governor. He ran for vice president on the 1948 Republican ticket and once had his eye on the White House itself. Although a lawyer, he became chief justice in 1953 with limited experience in constitutional law.

At the start, observers expected he would follow the same, middle-of-the-road approach set by the man who appointed him, President Eisenhower.

But the Warren Court moved sharply into the most controversial of legal and political areas.

School Segregations
In 1954 the court ruled that segregated schools, no matter how equally maintained and operated, were illegal. With the chief justice leading the way,

Draft Calling 29,500 Men During August

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon announced today plans to draft 29,500 men in August as well as a decision to allow Army strength to drop by 13,000, partly in connection with the Nixon administration's plans for withdrawal of troops from Vietnam.

The August draft call compares with this year's monthly high of 33,700 in February and the low of 22,300 announced for July. All the August inductees will go into the Army.

In announcing the new call, the Pentagon said about 8,000 soldiers who are among the 15,000 Army men about to come out of Vietnam will not be replaced when they leave service.

In addition, the Army does not plan to replace another 5,000 men "whose terms of service expire due to reduced support requirements associated with the lower Army strength."

The manpower reduction will leave Army strength around the world at just above 1.5 million men.

Homes Destroyed

Missouri Tornado Leaves Six Dead

OLD MINES, Mo. (AP) — Tornadoes left six persons dead and more than 30 injured in the Missouri lead mining belt southwest of St. Louis Sunday night, the highway patrol said.

One of the victims was identified by Southern Illinois University security police as William F. Betterton, 41. They said he was a music professor there.

Officers said he and his wife were driving in a camper bus. The police said Betterton was found strapped to the seat of the car, but the rest of the car was not immediately found. The tornado had lifted his car from U.S. 67 near Farmington, Mo., and slammed it into a rock bluff.

Betterton's 38-year-old wife, Kathryn, was found dead about 30 yards from the wreckage.

Homes Wrecked

At Old Mines, one-twister destroyed nearly a dozen homes. Roy Pratt, a 45-year-old strip mine employee, and his 8-year-old son Francis were killed.

Seven other members of the Pratt family were injured when they were trapped in their frame dwelling, which collapsed.

Two elderly brothers, Jacob and Herman Herbst, died when another twister tore into their home near Farmington about 22 miles southeast of Old Mines.

"We heard this awful roar, just like a railroad train," said a neighbor of Pratt, Clyde Boyer. "It took the doors right off the storm cellar and my wife and my boy and I crouched down on the floor until it passed."

Most roads in the area were blocked by fallen trees. The twisters downed power lines and telephone wires and an electrical storm made two-way radio contact nearly impossible in the stricken area for hours, leaving a virtual communications blackout.

Minor Injuries
Hospitals at Farmington, Ironton and Potosi, reported treating about 35 persons, most of them for minor injuries.

A spokesman for the weather bureau in St. Louis said the tornadoes were spawned by "typical summer storms."

Late Saturday night and early Sunday another batch of tornadoes struck in central Kansas, injuring about 100 persons and causing damage estimated at more than $10 million.

Hardest hit was Salina, a city of 40,000, where 37 of 43 planes were battered at the airport, 26 houses, 17 business buildings and 12 mobile homes were destroyed, and heavy damage was done to 110 houses, 21 business buildings, three churches and three schools.

Opposing Factions of SDS Split at National Convention

CHICAGO (AP) — Students for a Democratic Society, the radical group prominent in recent campus uprisings, ended its national convention today sharply split, with its so-called regulars called a regular faction electing Mark Rudd, leader of 1968 Columbia University disorders, national secretary.

The other faction of SDS, headed by the Progressive Labor party, elected an entirely different slate of officers.

Both groups ended their conventions at different locations, both claimed to be "the real SDS."

The PL faction ended its meeting in the Coliseum convention hall on the South Side, where SDS started its convention as a single group Wednesday.

PL Officers

Elected officers by the PL were John Pennington, national secretary; Alan Spector, educational secretary, and Mrs. Pat Forman, interorganizational secretary.

Fred Gordon, educational secretary for the last year, gave the PL faction's convention to a close in the Coliseum.

Besides Rudd, the SDS regulars elected as officers Jeffrey Jones of San Francisco, interorganizational secretary and William Ayres of the University of Michigan, educational secretary.

The "regulars" ended their meeting in a church on the West Side.

The PLs called a news conference for the University of Illinois, Chicago, to introduce their slate. The regulars called a conference in the organization's regional headquarters.

Expelled by Regulars

Early Sunday, the PLs had been expelled from SDS by the regulars, backed by their allies, the Black Panther party.

Fist-clenching Panthers had warned that SDS would be judged by action it took against PL Delegates from PL, strong-est at Harvard and the University of California, responded with hisses and catcalls.

"You had best not forget you're in Chicago, PL," one Panther shouted. "Any more of that and we'll take care of you."

At that point some 500 SDS members began the caucus that ended in the PL expulsion.

PL spokesmen said they advocate world revolution by all workers rather than movements such as the Panther party, which they attacked as "black Forman, interorganizational nationalist."

Security Tight

Convention security was tight. Delegates and observers were searched from hair to shoes. Wallets and purses were ransacked for any evidence the bearers might be newsmen or police.

SDS security forces said the procedure had stopped two sheriff's deputies and numerous newsmen. Searchers were also directed to confiscate weapons and narcotics.

In spite of the security measures, some reporters and undercover investigators managed to get in. One large insurance company placed two observers inside to learn how revolutionaries planned to infiltrate business.

One was a miniskirted girl with a degree in psychology.

Although the convention was run according to parliamentary procedure, the hostile factions frequently shouted down opposition speakers and chanted obscenities.

When Black Panther leaders called on co-eds to use "sex-power" to stir revolution, they were drowned out by screaming feminists who stood on chairs shouting "male chauvinists!"

The walls of the rundown old convention hall were plastered with colorful posters proclaiming the superiority of Chinese and North Vietnamese communism.

Thieu Cannot Move Date Of Election

SAIGON (AP) — The South Vietnamese foreign ministry announced today all elections "must be held in strict observance of the current laws and regulations," damping speculation that President Nguyen Van Thieu might seek a special election with Viet Cong participation to decide on a new Saigon government.

The statement seemed to rule out any special elections before those scheduled by the South Vietnamese constitution—partial Senate elections in late 1970 and lower house and presidential elections in late 1971.

The ministry specifically denied a published report that Thieu might seek a constitutional amendment from Parliament to permit earlier elections.

After his Midway summit with President Nixon, Thieu said in a June 9 news conference the South Vietnamese people have the right to decide on elections and "when the other side shows good will at the negotiating table, then we will discuss that question . . . Everything can be solved at the negotiating table if the two sides sit down and have sincere talks."

These remarks were widely taken to mean that Thieu was prepared to move up the elections.

Seminoles Waging Final Battle in Bitter Indian War

BY DILLON GRAHAM
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The final battle in what is the longest and often bitterest Indian dispute in the nation's history is being fought in an obscure government agency with nearly $35 million at stake.

Seminole Indians have asked the Indian Claims Commission, which opens hearings today, to approve a $40 million claim for 32 million acres of Florida the tribe owned in the 18th and early 19th centuries.

The government has offered the Indians $8.8 million. The Seminoles owned most of Florida when Spain gave up the territory to the United States in 1819. They claim the American white man robbed the tribe of the land at arms point and through false treaties, a point not contended by the government.

Land Value

Attorneys for the Seminoles figure the land was worth an average of at least $1.25 an acre when the government took it in the 1820s. Government lawyers estimate its value at about 18 cents per acre.

Some of the Florida land was quite valuable—containing forests of live oak trees, in demand then by shipbuilders and particularly for naval vessels. Much of the land was the Indians' hunting grounds. Crops were raised on portions of the land.

The long Seminole dispute started in 1816 when Gen. Andrew Jackson invaded Florida to punish the tribe for hiding fugitive American slaves and didn't end officially until a peace treaty was signed in 1934. The first Seminole war, waged by Jackson, ended in 1818, a year before the United States had legal rights in the territory.

Move to Oklahoma

Through armed force and a series of forcibly imposed treaties, the Seminoles gradually lost their Florida land until 1832 when some tribe leaders agreed to give up all claims and move their people to what is now Oklahoma.

However, many Seminoles refused to leave and in 1835 the second Seminole war broke out. Before it was over, the Seminoles under chief Osceola, had killed more than 1,500 federal troops and cost the government $20 million.

Osceola, tricked into surrendering, died in a federal prison in 1838, but many Seminoles retreated into Florida's swamps and fighting continued off and on until the 1934 peace treaty.

Treaty Claimed

The tribe made its first claim for compensation 19 years ago. The Claims Commission ruled five years ago that the Seminoles now living in Florida and Oklahoma owned most of Florida in 1833, when the United States claimed treaty rights.

The U.S. Court of Claims upheld the decision.

Just a year ago the Indian Claims Commission settled, largely in favor of the Indians' contentions, the route of the old Spanish road, an early trail across North Florida from St. Augustine to Pensacola. This was the northern boundary of the land claimed by the Indians.

Attorneys for the tribe estimate about 1,500 Seminoles still live in Florida and 3,500 more reside in Oklahoma, which would mean about $7,500 for each if the entire $40 million is awarded.

However, Congress will determine how the money will be allocated when and if it appropriates the funds.

Land Subdivision Ordinance Opposed At Calumet Hearing

County Zoning and Planning Committee to Consider All Suggestions on New Proposal

Calumet to Fill County Post Supervisors to Hire Veterans Officer in Adjourned Session

CHILTON — A second hearing of the county zoning and planning committee on the proposed land subdivision ordinance for Calumet County again met with opposition, Friday evening, but not by the same group who strongly opposed ordinance at the first hearing.

Wilford Elliott, Chilton attorney, and a principal in the High Cliff Development area, changed his opinion on the proposed ordinance when changes regarding improvements were outlined by Roland Tonn, county planner, at the opening of the meeting.

Elliott approved the ordinance as benefiting the county as a whole.

Attorney William Engler Jr., of the High Cliff Development concurred with Elliott and was glad to see some control given back to the towns. He also suggested that "navigable waters" be defined a little clearer. Engler stated that "the ordinance sets forth new rules and with new rules comes hardships."

Primary Concern
Of primary concern to the High Cliff developers at the first hearing was improvements. Under the first ordinance, all street grading, surface drainage, and where applicable, public water and sewer facilities, had to be installed by the subdivider for each lot.

Under the changed requirements, water and sewer facilities will be provided where immediately available, and any area within town sanitary districts providing public sewer and water facilities will be exempt from those facilities requirements under the ordinance.

High Cliff Development is in the Town of Harrison, which has a sanitary district. The proposed ordinance also gives the subdivider, under improvements, a choice of installing utilities either underground or on the surface.

Favored Ordinance
Assemblyman Gervase Hephner, D-Chilton, spoke favorably of the ordinance, saying he was not against good planning, and thought some of the proposed changes were good. However, he suggested to the committee that they visit the lands under petitions for rezoning or replatting to get a better look at conditions.

He also urged the committee to consolidate its method of processing these plots within a period of six months or less instead of delaying from one committee to the other. "Go out to the people and make it convenient for them, if necessary hold a special meeting," he said. "If you have trouble going through state channels ask your assemblyman for help. That is what he is there for."

Donald Stege, who owns a farm bounding the city limits, spoke of his own experience trying to get a subdivision.

New London Lions To Install New Officers Tuesday

NEW LONDON — Lions Club officers will be installed at a 6:30 p.m. Tuesday meeting at the Rainbow Supper Club. James Wenzel, new state secretary, will be the installing officer.

A program on a city recreation director is to be sought for a July meeting.

Although not opposed to planning, he was surprised at the change of opinion of people attending the hearing. He said all should have "one set of rules to play the game by," and go along with the state statute for county work, instead of preparing a new ordinance.

Opposed Measure
Albert Ludwig, Town of Stockbridge president, opposed the measure, stating that it was still taking too much authority from the towns.

Appleton Developer, Mike Jolin, who strongly opposed the ordinance in parts at the first hearing, said that the ordinance, if adopted, would hurt farm owners and persons earning about $12,000 a year.

Jolin felt the rights of the landowner would be taken away by set criteria determining the general safety and welfare of the people or county.

He offered a printed subdivision regulation ordinance prepared by him and his staff, to the persons at the hearing to study, and felt that it would meet the needs of the county.

Brillion Mayor Clarence Wolf urged the committee to consider all the recommendations made at the hearings, even if the passage of the ordinance was delayed. Once the ordinance was passed, he said, it must be enforced.

Appearing in behalf of the Calumet County Civic Association (CCCCA), William Hertel also urged the committee not to move too fast in its adoption. The CCCC felt that the board could not act on the ordinance at their June 24 meeting.

In closing, Tonn said the committee would again take all suggestions into consideration before making a recommendation to the county board of supervisors.

The hearing for the sanitary code ordinance was rescheduled for 8 p.m., July 10.

CHILTON — The Calumet County board will elect a new county veterans service officer when they meet at 8 p.m. Tuesday in an adjourned session.

The personnel committee has considered several applicants and will make their recommendation to the board for final consideration.

The board also will consider a request from the Calumet County Civic Association for $1,000, for use in promoting the best interests and welfare of the county. The association was given $1,000 last year by the county.

Calumet County veterans organizations also will present a resolution requesting that a memorial plaque be placed in the courthouse for the late Alfred Hertel, veterans service officer for 25 years.

The board will also consider approval of contracts for teachers of retardates. The county provides funds for five classes.

The board also will make an appointment on the park commission to fill the term of Joseph Goesser which expires.

Clintonville Will Elect Three to School Board
CLINTONVILLE — Election of three school board members will be conducted July 28. Members whose terms expire are Margaret McCauley, Norman Crook, and Donna Williamson.

To be a candidate, a letter of declaration must be filed with the district clerk 20 days prior to the election.

Mrs. Williamson has filled the unexpired term of Dr. L. C. Bate who resigned.

New London Match Pistol Shoot Attracts State-Wide Entries

NEW LONDON — Law enforcement personnel from throughout the state are expected for the second annual New London Invitational "Police Combat" Pistol match July 8.

Police Chief Jack V. Algiers has received applications from several departments in the southeast section of the state in addition to surrounding areas.

Last year most competitors were from surrounding departments and the State Patrol.

Both individual and team competition will be conducted with trophies being awarded the overall match winners, the top three shooters in each of four classifications, and to the top two teams in three classes. The fourth and fifth place finishers in the marksman class also will receive medals.

Registrations and information on the meet may be obtained through the New London Police Department.

A Victorious Tim Nolan, Marion, who defeated his opponent in a race for attorney general of Badger Boys State, shows his pleasure over the election. Tim was one of more than 1,000 youths from throughout the state to participate in the week-long workshop on government at Ripon College. The program ended Saturday. (Post-Crescent Photo)

The $6 Million Fox Valley Technical Institute will have six separate buildings for a campus-style effect, as shown in an architect's drawing here. Included are: 1. trades and industry building 2. science section 3. administration and business education department 4. academic section and temporary facilities for police

Completion Set for September, 1970

Design Approved for Campus-Style FVTI

With the board's approval of the initial design of the campus-style Fox Valley Technical Institute (FVTI), the architect has started work on the detailed drawings of each of the six buildings in the complex.

Included in the 251,000 square foot area are the trades and industry, academic, resource center, science technology, student center and business education buildings.

The $6 million complex, located along U.S. 41 and State 10, encompasses 41 acres. The parking facilities and landscaping covers an additional 10 acres. It is being built for about 2,500 students and has a September, 1970 completion date.

In a breakdown, the largest building is the trades and industry section, with 56,100 square feet. It includes shops, labs, machinery rooms and classrooms. Taught in this area, which is a little larger than a football field in size, will be machine and apprenticeship trades, welding, metallurgy, printing, auto mechanics and farm mechanics.

Culinary Arts
The student center, with nearly 30,100 square feet, is the second largest area. In it will be located a lecture hall for 325; a day care area, art rooms, student services and culinary arts. There also are several other laboratories, plus a cafeteria, boiler room, and receiving room planned here.

A resource center of 31,220 square feet, occupies the center, which houses the library complex and TV workshop facilities. This is the only two-story building in the plans and will house

100 teachers plus several conference rooms, plus general offices.

The academic building will be about 25,100 square feet and include 27 classrooms, a health occupations section and police science area. At present, plans are to have the latter two programs there on a temporary basis only.

A 19,190 square foot science technology building will have facilities for science, chemistry, physics and biology courses, and will also have room for drafting, electronics and instrumentation.

Smallest Area

The second smallest area, 20,215 square feet, will house the administration and the business education department. With both using data processing equipment, administrators and students will be able to share the building with convenience.

This total does not include non-educational and administrative areas, such as corridors, which cover another 42,000 square feet.

These two areas show a great opportunity for expansion into their own facilities at a later date, a recent survey of both fields shows, according to Dominic Bordini, head of research-development-operations for the district.

Some land will be available and is part of the lot for dormitories if private developers show an interest in the future, Bordini said. Another survey of 1,000 students enrolled in the schools indicates about 70 per cent would desire housing in the immediate vicinity.

Seymour School Administrator to Attend Workshop

CEDAR CITY, Utah — Lyle C. Martens, district administrator, Seymour Community Schools, has been selected to participate in the fourth annual IDEA Fellows Program for School Administrators.

He will attend a one-week session, dealing with the mounting problem of student activism and curriculum relevancy, at College of Southern Utah, Cedar City.

Each year the Institute for Development of Educational Activities, Inc., selects 400 outstanding educators from throughout the United States to participate in these professional workshops, which are scheduled at four locations in the country. The participants are chosen from among thousands of applications submitted each year.

This professional development program for administrators is unique in the educational field in providing both the opportunity to hear recognized authorities speak and the opportunity for interaction with other professionals during this one-week period.

New London Program

Wolf River Festival Entries Needed

NEW LONDON — Entry forms for activities in conjunction with the Wolf City Festival are available at various city business places and the Chamber of Commerce office.

Forms for the Wolf River Regatta and the pie-eating contest may be obtained at any barbershop or at Bucky's Drive In Restaurant.

The regatta on July 19 will be a raft race with the homemade floating structures starting at the mouth of the Embarrass River and ending at Riverside Park.

There will be classes for boys and girls 12 to 15 years old, and men and women, 16 and older. Entries for the event close July 15. Prizes totaling $100 will be given.

Canoe Jousting
Other events July 19 are a casting contest for boys and girls, 8 to 12-years-old; canoe jousting featuring New London industrial leaders, and water fights pitting service and fraternal organizations against each other.

The fights will be between the Lions, Rotarians and Jaycees, and the Rotary Anns, Lionettes and Jayceettes.

Wolf City Festival buttons are on sale throughout the city and Fox Valley area. The buttons will permit adults to attend the July 19 stage show for 50 cents instead of the $1.25 gate price.

Scholarship Established In Honor of Anne Caldwell

An undergraduate scholarship in memorializing Anne Barman Caldwell has been established at Lawrence University by her husband, Dr. C. G. Caldwell, and their son Geoffrey.

The Anne Barman Caldwell Memorial Scholarship is to be awarded annually "to a woman in the Downer College of Lawrence University who is beginning or continuing her education in the sciences."

In establishing the scholarship, Dr. Caldwell said the selection will be based upon the candidate's academic record as well as by her scholarly, scientific and aesthetic interests. Other prerequisites include a "capacity for leadership, and a staunch character with a demonstrated curiosity about the natural world."

The awards from the scholarship fund will be made by a committee composed of trustees, administrative officers and faculty members.

A 1935 alumna of Milwaukee-Downer College, Mrs. Caldwell was the recipient of the Alumna of the Year award at Lawrence University's 1968 commencement exercises. She was killed six months later in an automobile accident.

Mrs. Caldwell was supervising nutritionist for the atherosclerosis research projects at St. Vincent Hospital in Montclair, N.J. She held both a M.A. in chemistry and a Ph.D. in nutrition from Columbia University.

Mrs. Caldwell also had been a researcher, college professor and special consultant in nutrition to the New Jersey State Department of Health. She also was active in several professional and honor societies and was listed in "American Men of Science," "Who's Who of American Women" and the "Dictionary of International Biography."

The awards from the scholarship fund will be made by a committee composed of trustees, administrative officers and faculty members.

U.S. 41 Overpass I-Beams Will Have To Be Replaced

Damage to the U.S. 41-N. Meade Street overpass could run as high as $20,000, Outagamie County Highway Commissioner Clarence Brownson said Friday.

The underside of the structure was damaged late Friday morning when it was struck by a backhoe being hauled on a flat bed trailer.

Driver of the truck, owned by an Oshkosh firm, was Lloyd K. Sowers, 46, 1245 Lincoln Ave., Omro, who was not hurt.

Strikes Beams
State police said Sowers was in the northbound lane of U.S. 41, passing under Meade Street, when the arm of the backhoe struck the first and fourth supporting beams on the overpass. Some concrete fell onto U.S. 41.

Brownson said the two pre-stressed concrete I-beams will have to be replaced, although probably not immediately. Officials of the bridge division of the Wisconsin Department of Transportation were to inspect the damage before plans are made to repair the structure.

Clearance under the Meade Street overpass is 15 feet, three inches. The arm of the backhoe, when on the low-bed reached only slightly higher, Brownson said.

Old Ordinances Strict

Law and Order in Early Waupaca

BY FERN SMITH
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

WAUPACA — "Hey, would you believe this?" laughed City Clerk Harriet Ward from the depths of the city vault.

"Here's an ordinance to regulate, restrain or prohibit the running at large of cattle, horses, mules, swine, sheep or other animals — the authority to impound or sell them, and also impose penalties on the owners of such animals?"

The laugh came with the beginning of digging out the old city ordinances — geared to the times and residents of Waupaca. The one she had in hand was dated 1901, three years after the village became a city.

No Shooting
Laws were needed to prohibit the shooting of firearms and crackers, "in cumbering the streets, sidewalks, lanes, alleys, public grounds, wharves and docks with carriages, carts, wagons, sleighs, sleds, wheelbarrows, bicycles, boxes, lumber, firewood timber, posts, signs, awnings or any other substance or materials.

It was also a bad time for

EDITOR'S Note: This is the first of three articles which will be appearing as Robert Sandby, Madison attorney, summarizes the rules men lived by 50, 60, 70 years ago. He is recodifying the City of Waupaca ordinances.

the "drag racers." The ordinance prohibits horse-racing and immoderate riding or driving in the streets. Bicycles were a problem and the police stepped in when they caught anyone coasting down Fulton Street or "any other incline."

You couldn't go swimming in the river or lakes when or wherever you wished. The time and place, as well as the raiment, were closely regulated.

Dog Tags
Dogs could not run at large and the family pooch had to have his dog tag hanging visibly around his neck. Each year had a different shaped tag.

Guess what? The rolling of hoops, flying of kites, playing of ball or other amusements or practices — which might annoy persons passing on the streets or sidewalks or to frighten teams and horses — prohibited.

The council also decided whether to restrain, prohibit or suppress all descriptions of gambling and fraudulent devices.

Law and Order
Within its power, too, was the prevention and suppression of riots, noise, disturbances or disorderly assemblages and disorderly houses and houses of ill-fame.

Public drunkenness was not allowed and called for a stint in the city jail of one day, up to 6 months.

Under the ordinances the city regulated the storing of gunpowder, the performance of plumbers, set the water and sewer tax, told a resident how far he could sprinkle out into the street, kept watch over everyone's health, decided where the streets and highways were to be located.

Not enough? They regulated the sale of bread within the city, prescribed the size and weight of the loaf as well as the quality.

They also had the right to license, regulate or restrain "hawkers," peddlers and runners or solicitors for steamboats, vessels, cars, railroads, stages and public houses.

Oshkosh Bank to Merge With Bancorporation

Plans for the merger of The New American Bank of Oshkosh with Valley Bancorporation were announced today by Boyd F. Jordan, president of the bank, and Gus A. Zuehlke, president of the registered bank holding company.

Bancorporation presently serves northeastern Wisconsin through twelve commercial banking offices. Affiliate banks are Appleton State Bank, with branches at Dale, Fremont, Hortonville and Shiocton; American State Bank, and a branch in Greenville; Northern State Bank; Bank of Black Creek; Reedsville State Bank; Seymour State Bank, and Sherwood State Bank.

Merger with The New American Bank of Oshkosh will be through an exchange of stock. The terms of the transaction were not disclosed.

Approvals from the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve system and shareholders are necessary before the affiliation can take effect, Zuehlke noted. He estimated that the approvals probably would take six months.

The proposal has been approved by the board of directors of New American Bank and Valley Bancorporation.

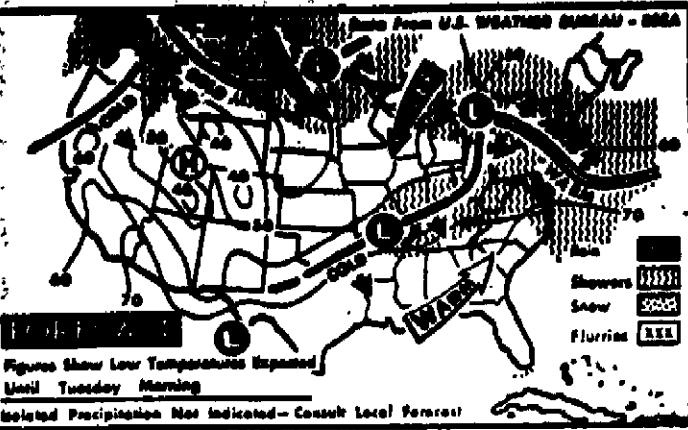

No changes in the present management or operations of New American Bank are contemplated. Zuehlke said, "The bank will continue to be managed by its present board of directors who are familiar with the people and the economy of their area." He said economic growth in the Oshkosh area was a major factor in the decision of the two boards. Jordan stated that his board mutually agreed that merger with Valley Bancorporation would provide customers and shareholders of the bank with a broader base of financial and managerial resources, including the services of Valley Bancorporation specialists. The move was taken to enable the bank to better serve the economic needs of its community.

Total assets of the bank on December 31, 1966 were $21,400,000. Valley Bancorporation total assets on the same date were $66,333,000.

None Seriously Four Calumet County Accidents Injure Nine

CHILTON — Nine persons were injured in four separate accidents on Calumet County roads over the weekend.

Michael A. Tedesco, 19, escaped with only minor injuries in a two-car crash about 11:15 a.m. Saturday five miles west of Chilton on U.S. 151. Tedesco, Williamsville, N.Y., was the driver of one car. A passenger in his car, 11-year-old Jamie M. Mitten, Palatine, Ill., escaped with a cut lip. Tedesco sustained cuts and scrapes to his face and ear.

Mrs. Apollonia Nett, 65, route 53, was shaken up and sustained bumps and bruises in the same accident. She was the driver of the other car.

According to Calumet County traffic police, Tedesco was traveling east on 151 when he fell asleep, crossed over the centerline and hit the Nett auto which was traveling west. Both autos went into the ditch. The Tedesco vehicle struck two trees and rolled over, coming to rest on its roof. Both autos were demolished.

The injured were taken to Calumet Memorial Hospital where they were treated and released.

One-Car Accident
Ronald Hofensberger, 21, route 2, Hilbert, sustained cuts, bumps and bruises to his face and arm in a one-car accident about 10:30 p.m. Saturday on County Trunk B, about a quarter mile east of Sherwood.

According to the Calumet County traffic reports, Hofensberger who is home on leave from the Army, was traveling west on County Trunk B, tried to avoid hitting a car that was backing out of a driveway. The Hofensberger auto ran into the ditch and came to rest in a stream known as the Manitowoc River headwaters.

The Hofensberger auto had front-end damage. Hofensberger was taken to Calumet Memorial Hospital for treatment.

Three Milwaukee residents were injured in a one-car accident Sunday afternoon two miles south of Chilton on County Trunk G in the Town of Brotherton when their car ran off the road.

Harold J. Carlson sustained lacerations to his head and complained of back pains. Carlson was the driver of the auto. Gerald Clasen, 46, a passenger in the Carlson auto, suffered lacerations to his head and Keith Belter, 16, another passenger, complained of back pains. The three were taken to Calumet Memorial Hospital. Details of the accident were incomplete.

Minor Injuries
Two persons sustained minor injuries and were taken to Kaukauna Community Hospital by ambulance after a two-car collision at 3 a.m. Sunday.

The accident occurred 2½ miles south of Kaukauna on U.S. 10 at State Park Road.

Mrs. Leonard Kasten, 44, of route 1, Menasha, driver of the one car, sustained a cut wrist. Her husband Leonard, 47, sustained cuts and bruises to his face. Both were treated at the hospital and released.

According to Calumet County traffic reports, the Kasten auto was traveling east on U.S. 10 when it was struck by an auto driven by Albert A. Kemp, Butte des Morts. Kemp fell asleep and crossed over into Kasten's lane of traffic.

Kemp, 21, on leave from the Army, was not injured. Both vehicles were extensively damaged.

Mental Health Program at King Recovery Method Exhibition

WAUPACA — A demonstration of the recovery method which is the systematic method by which people who are nervous or have been former mental patients help themselves and each other, will be given at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday. It is the subject of the monthly meeting of the Waupaca County Association for Mental Health (WCAMH). The meeting will be in the multipurpose room of the Nursing Care — I building at the Grand Army Home for Veterans, King.

A recovery group from Neenah-Menasha will give the public demonstration.

Therapy Works
"Recovery is an outstanding illustration of how purposeful group therapy works," Robert Jarettowski, president of the WCAMH, said. "Recovery comes straight to the point, without sham, and then something is done about the problem. It should be of interest to everyone who deals with and cares about people."

The introduction to Recovery, Incorporated's information sheet, explains it more succinctly. "Troubled souls mystify us. We can't see jumpy nerves nor feel the panicky fears of a nervous person. Most people sound off with platitudes and then get perturbed if the troubled person doesn't appreciate our fine advice. The tenseness, pain and upsets of the chronically nervous patient are real."

"What the person needs is not bluff 'ho-ho' advice. He needs guidance, handy tools and practical methods to improve his health." These are available through an organization called Recovery, Inc., a proven method of self help.

"It does not supplant the physician, does not offer advice, diagnosis, treatment or counseling."

Marshfield Tips Marion Legion, 3-1

MARSHFIELD — The Marshfield Legion team took advantage of two Marion errors to score twice in the bottom of the eighth inning and post a 3-1 victory Saturday night. The game was played in rain and cold.

Jon Heeg tossed a 2-hitter for the winners and struck out 19 Marion batters. He allowed just one walk, that coming with two outs in the ninth inning.

Marshfield took a 1-0 lead in the third frame on hits by Rick Bartsch and Heeg. Bob King then fouled out along the right-field line, and Bartsch tagged up and scored.

Marion's lone run came in the seventh, when Steve Kristof singled, stole second, was sacrificed to third by Mike Daley, and then came home on Randy Brown's roller to second. A throw home failed to get Kristof.

Single Starts 8th
Heeg singled to start the eighth and moved up on Arlyn Wiesman's sacrifice. King singled Heeg to third and later stole second.

Daley, who had taken over for Kristof in the eighth, fanned Paul Mandel for the second out, but then Bob Nowaczky sent a grounder to the Marion third baseman. The throw to first was low and the umpire ruled safe as Heeg scored the go-ahead run. King kept running, and the first baseman's throw home was wide for another error.

Marshfield is now 2-0 in league play to Marion's 1-3 mark.

Iola Man Freed On 1,000 Bond After Disturbance
WAUPACA — Lyle J. Cady, 33, route 2, Iola, was released on $1,000 bond after being arraigned Friday in Waupaca County Court on three charges stemming from a fight Wednesday in his home.

Cady was charged with disorderly conduct, resisting arrest and destruction of property.

Judge Wendell McHenry released Cady without a plea to allow him time to consult his attorney. A trial has been set for later this month.

Sportsman Club Being Organized By Chilton Group

CHILTON — A new local sportsman club was organized Thursday evening which is planned to replace the defunct East Shore Sportsman Club.

Heading the club is Michael Schemmer; with Jerry Palmer as its vice president; Henry Blair, secretary, and Glen Jandrey, treasurer. All are from Chilton.

According to Schemmer, it is hoped that the club can create an interest in the young people to take an active part in the community club.

The next meeting will be July 17, at which time a board of directors will be elected and policies, as well as activities and promotion of the group, will be formulated.

Membership dues were set at $5 a year per member. A junior membership, for those 12 years old and younger is $2.

City Makes Final Purchase Offer for New School Site

The City of Appleton has made its final offer to purchase slightly less than five acres of unplatted land on the far north side for a new school site, it learned today.

"I don't think we are very far apart on the basis of the regular land contract I've drawn up," commented City Atty. David Geenen.

The city is offering to buy the property from Percy Menning, a Town of Grand Chute resident, for $21,450. It is located next to Einstein Junior High School.

Three Years

For more than three years the board of education has recommended purchase of the Menning property, claiming it was the only suitable site.

Recently, Menning gave the city until July 1 to meet his terms.

Geenen said when it came to cash outlay, the $21,450 met Menning's asking price.

However, Menning also wants the city to vacate a part of the proposed Park Ridge Avenue, along with having the city commit itself to eventually extending sanitary and storm sewer through the school site to other property he owns in the area. It would be done at no cost to Menning, under his proposal.

Eventually, the city would have to vacate Park Ridge, but

Kalata Would Have Schwarzbauer on Industrial Committee

A periodic critic of the Appleton City Council's commerce-industrial development committee may wind up being a member of the group.

He is Ald. George Schwarzbauer (10th), a realtor.

Schwarzbauer in the past has posed the question as to whether the city is in competition with the real estate profession in acquiring and selling land for commercial and industrial development purposes.

Sells at Cost

And each time he has made the inquiry, committee spokesmen have repeated the explanation that the city sells land at cost — not making or losing any money on the Northeast and Southeast Industrial Parks.

Ald. Walter Kalata (2nd), committee vice chairman, has in the past inferred that Schwarzbauer's repetitious questioning is nothing more than sniping at the committee and city's policy with regard to encouraging developments that enhance the tax base.

At the last council meeting, Kalata submitted a resolution calling for Schwarzbauer to be seated as a member of the committee, "existing rules of the council notwithstanding."

It will be considered by the committee this week and then referred back to the council with a favorable or unfavorable recommendation.

Ald. John Steidl (18th) is committee chairman. Other members include: Kalata, Ald. Robert Roemer (8th), Al Stoegbauer (4th) and Dorothy Draheim (14th).

Soldiers Square Critic Good and Bad News to Parking Commission

Good and bad news awaits members of the Appleton Parking Commission when they meet a week from now.

Collections from municipal parking facilities totaled $18,469 during May; but, a frequent critic of the city's parking program is asking for more changes to the Soldiers Square ramp.

In his monthly report, Treasurer Ray Feuerstein says revenue from metered streets was $8,916. Other money sources were: parking lots, $3,146; East Ramp, $2,388; West Ramp, $2,216; Soldiers Square Ramp, $1,577; Conway Hotel parking rentals, $210, and parking decals, $15.

Use Disappointing

Revenue from the Soldiers Square facility, constructed more than a year ago at a cost exceeding $1 million, is increasing. However, use of the facility has been disappointing to city officials and interested downtown businessmen.

As a result, W. A. Close, a College Avenue merchant and former parking commission member, wrote the last week that the blame for state of the ramp could be attributed to city officials, the press, parking commission and downtown merchants.

Close recommended some physical changes to the Soldiers Square facility, which has had cashier parking on a trial basis for several months. The period for trying out cashier parking will expire the end of the month.

It will then be up to the parking commission and city council to make a decision whether to retain cashier parking or install meters for which the ramp was originally designed.

Changes aunt

The critical letter from Close prompted Mayor George Buckley to grin and comment, "City hall is not responsible for the Soldiers Square ramp situation."

Buckley claimed the problems could be traced to a group of businessmen, including Close, who insisted on changes being made to the ramp during the time it was under construction.

"Perhaps this is starting to haunt some people," Buckley added. He is chairman of the parking commission.

At the suggestion of downtown merchants, the city recently reduced parking fees in the ramp.

Surpluses Increase 1970 Wheat Program May Restrict Acreage

AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department is still struggling to shape its 1970 wheat program, but one official hinted for the record Friday an acreage cut is expected.

Assistant secretary Clarence D. Palmby said in a speech at Norfolk, Va., that "it is apparent now that, even with the reduced allotment that has been in effect for 1969," a larger buildup of surplus is ahead.

"It seems likely that we will need to seek a reduction in next year's wheat crop," Palmby said. "We expect, in the very near future to make an announcement of the wheat allotment for 1970."

Carryover Supplies

Carryover wheat supplies on July 1 are expected to be at least 800 million bushels, compared with 539 million last year.

Palmby also took a swipe at the International Grains Arrangement, the European Common Market, protectionism and cut-rate marketing in general.

The IGA is a trade treaty which fixes prices for various kinds of wheat in world trade. Since it went into effect almost a year ago, many exporting countries—including the United States on occasion—have undercut the price minimums specified by the agreement.

Thus the IGA has been under fire here and abroad as unrealistic and inhibiting to wheat trade.

The treaty's key governing body — The International Wheat Council — is scheduled to meet in London next week to consider some of the problems. Palmby said large world supplies have caused world prices to drop slightly below those specified in the IGA.

"The result was that there was very little flexibility from the beginning," Palmby said.

Program Result

"Very little could be done to adjust prices under the grains arrangement."

Not long ago, he said the Common Market sold 17 million bushels of French feed wheat to Taiwan for 99 cents a bushel, which was about $17 a ton less than the delivered price of corn.

To accomplish this, the EEC paid an export subsidy much larger than the price of grain itself at French ports," Palmby said.

This action "directly undercuts" U.S. and Thailand corn exports in a market "that we had cultivated and developed," Palmby said. "It represents unfair trade and irresponsible pricing."

Palmby also defended the department's decision earlier this year to cut price supports on the 1969 crop soybeans by at least 25 cents a bushel, explaining that they had been set too high, thus pricing the oilseed out of the market.

"The decision was to lower the soybean price support just enough to bring it into a realistic relationship with market prices — and to encourage growth in demand," Palmby said.

Soybean Crop

About 85 per cent of the 1968 soybean crop is expected to be used by the end of the current market year on Aug. 31, Palmby said, and the outlook for the 1969 crop is for more than 97 per cent utilization.

"And if we assume no change in price support for soybeans next year," Palmby added, "over 100 per cent of the 1970 crop should disappear in the subsequent 12-month period."

Association, Engineers Still Bargaining Meeting in Madison Tuesday on Strike Now 11 Months Old

Another attempt will be made at Madison Tuesday to settle the long strike of Operating Engineers Local 139 against the Valley Contractor Material Suppliers Association.

The walkout, which started July 29, 1967 will be 11 months old this week.

Recently, the association arrived at terms with Teamsters Local 563 of Appleton, which struck last July.

Teamsters Work

The Teamsters are back at work on area construction projects and the U.S. 41-W. College Avenue project is no longer being picketed.

However, in recent days the weather has slowed overpass construction being done by Courtney and Plummer, Inc. Neenah, the general contractor for the state project.

Operating Engineers are no longer picketing the jobsite after a National Labor Relations Board decision held both unions had engaged in illegal secondary picketing against Kremer Brothers, a sub-contractor on the job.

No Hint

There has been no hint by the Operating Engineers or Association whether they are near agreement on a new three-year pact.

The Operating Engineers and Association have some problems that were not connected with the Teamsters' walkout.

"We want the same contract provisions that other Operating Engineers contracts in the state have," a union spokesman said this morning.

Bankers Seminar

MANAWA — The Waupaca County Bankers Association will hold a truth-in-lending seminar at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at Farmers State Bank.

Stockbridge Plans Course In Business

STOCKBRIDGE — The Board of Education Thursday approved the addition of a federal Capstone business education course in the high school for the coming year.

The course will cost approximately $15,000.

About 50 per cent will be paid by the federal government and the balance by the school district.

The board also received the signed contract of Leon Wolfe, industrial arts and agricultural instructor.

In other business the board —

- Approved a bid of Grogan Oil Company for fuel for the year at 12 1/2 cents per gallon
- Scheduled a budget meeting on July 16 to review changes which will be presented to the general school district at 8 p.m. July 28 during the annual meeting

VTE-15 Splits Wittenberg Area

WITTENBERG — Half of the school district here will be located in the Vocational Technical Adult Educational district 15 after July 1.

The decision was made Wednesday by the State VTE board.

The district board had been on record favoring inclusion with the North Central Technical Institute of District 15 in Marathon County.

Wittenberg was originally held back from admission, until July 1, 1970. But with its consolidation with the Barnardwood district earlier this year, the shift was moved ahead.

Our Military Commitments Need Review

A subcommittee headed by Senator Stuart Symington, onetime Air Force Secretary and now a stern critic of some of our defense policies, is going to hold hearings on the origins and extensions of American military commitments.

There have been warnings from both former Secretary of State Dean Rusk and President Nixon that the United States must not slip back into isolationism and that we must continue to be a leader in the free world. We concur. But our military commitments have grown like Topsy and it is past time for a review of exactly what they mean.

We now have 429 major and almost 3000 minor overseas bases staffed by Americans in addition to the military units attached to embassies and consulates. These bases range all the way from immense installations such as that on Okinawa and the submarine base at Holy Loch, Scotland, to small communications units on the Azores and a special purpose base in Iceland. Some are for monitoring missile experiments, others are supply depots or bomb practice areas. More than four thousand square miles of land is involved. 250,000 foreigners are employed and more than two million American servicemen are stationed overseas. The cost is between four and five billion a year.

Many of these overseas bases are direct results of the eight major treaties which we have with a number of countries and with their various requirements. The North Atlantic Treaty Organization is the most binding, requiring each of the fifteen member nations to consider an attack on any member as an attack upon itself. The Rio treaty with twenty other nations provides for consultation in case of attack as does the South East Asia Treaty Organization with seven other nations, none of which agreed with the United States stand that SEATO was reason enough for foreign troops in South Vietnam.

A Good Man Retires

One of the regrettable notes in the news from Madison lately was the disclosure that Harry Harder, one of the veterans among the ranking officers of the State Department of Revenue, intends to retire voluntarily, several years before he would be obliged to do so under the state civil service retirement law.

Since the first experiments of mankind in organizing government at the dawn of history, the tax gatherer has been one of the indispensable men of the public community, whether a kingdom, a republic, a confederation, or any of its members, down to the smallest units of local government. His efficiency, and more important his integrity, have been vital to the government he serves, and to the loyalty and happiness of the rank and file of citizens.

Wisconsin has been fortunate in the quality of its state tax administration. It has been without partisanship, for the most part. We cannot remember any scandal or even mildly embarrassing incidents in its history during our adult lifetime. Its efficiency can be judged by the thousands of Wisconsin persons who have dealt with it so often, as in the administration of the income tax, the sales taxes, the excise taxes, and the many others.

During most of his own professional life Mr Harder has been a ranking admin-

Then there is the ANZUS treaty which would involve any of the three members in a war if one of the others became involved. We have a treaty with the Republic of China on Taiwan, with the Republic of South Korea, with the Philippines and with Japan which are somewhat different but basically extend our nuclear umbrella over those countries. We have a treaty with Liberia and we are pledged to cooperate for mutual defense with members of CENTRO although we are not members. All the treaties permit termination but only after a year's notice.

The treaties are really aimed as deterrents to aggression, particularly from Communist nations and, until Vietnam, they were successful. In the years after World War II, they clearly gave many relatively weak nations the opportunity to recover and develop economically without the danger of outside attack. This was especially true when Stalin was consolidating Eastern Europe and looking toward the West and after the Nationalist Chinese fled to Taiwan.

But this is a different decade. From a purely financial standpoint many such nations should now be able to take over more responsibility for their own defense. Air mobility means that American troops could be rushed to threatened areas easily. And there continues to be the danger — which has existed all along — of how we would be able to cope with the situation if we were called to abide by treaty pledges in several areas at the same time. There are also the antagonisms which develop when the troops of one nation are stationed in another. It sometimes seems that some of our allies despise us more than our alleged enemies.

istrator of the state tax department earlier as head of the income tax division, for several terms as commissioner of what was then called the department of taxation and now as deputy secretary under Secretary James Morgan, who is another example of the utterly nonpolitical administrator of this huge and powerful revenue collection machine. We would venture that nowhere on the record is there any evidence of Mr. Harder's own partisan leanings, if any. He has been a diligent, loyal and keenly responsible public official in one of the most sensitive positions that could be named, in the finest traditions of the professional civil service.

Mr. Harder, we are informed, will retire to a home he will build within the new residential development in Menominee County sponsored by Menominee Enterprises, Inc. Since the creation of the county that once was the federal reservation for the Menominee Indians, Mr. Harder has been one of the most creative and helpful members of the state Menominee Indian Commission formed to monitor the problems of the fledgling county. As one of its residents in the future, he will be in a position to continue his generous advisory service, which will be the more valuable because of his rich experiences in public affairs during a fruitful life in state government.

Vatican Bans Missionary School

In the time of Galileo the new knowledge of the 16th Century came into conflict with the scientific assumptions of the Roman Catholic Church, and the resulting red face which the Vatican has had since that incident is one which it just as soon would cover.

Vatican Council II has brought many changes to the Church, but change take a long time, especially in an institution as steeped in tradition of centuries as the papal see. That, unfortunately, has become evident in the banning of the Center for Intercultural Documentation, a school for Latin American studies in Cuernavaca, Mexico.

The controversial institution is known for an intensive Spanish language course taken by many Protestant and former Catholic missionaries to South America, as well as almost 70 courses on contemporary Latin America. Its founder is Ivan Illich, a monsignor who resigned from the priesthood in March after a secret Vatican hearing about his institute. Illich has disturbed conservatives in the Church because he wrote that missionary men and money sent south of the border carried a mentality harmful to Latin Americans. He said missionary help was not helping the poor, but reinforcing the power of the wealthy minority.

Such ideas might be reason in the Vatican's mind for not allowing priests and nuns to study at the institute. But if an organization's position is right, it should not be afraid to allow its workers to be exposed to contrary opinions. The Vatican has banned the institute "because it encourages independent thinking." That smacks more of the 16th Century and banning Galileo's the openness of Vatican II.

Notations on Appleton Wages

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for June 26, 1869.

We understand that on July 1 next Mr. J. E. Harriman is to supersede Mr. Theo. W. Briggs as Express Agent in this place.

It is also said that the cause of the change is that the Company proposed a slight reduction in salary to which Mr. Briggs would not submit. The position was urged upon Mr. Harriman, who is familiar with the routine of the office.

We understand that the workmen on the side-track — and a few only have been employed as yet — struck on two different days for higher wages. We also are informed that better prices are paid here than at Oshkosh or Fond du Lac. The work will nevertheless progress right along.

A Word Edgewise

Other Side of Coin on College Riots; Cabbie Can't Go to School

BY JOHN P. ROCHE

WASHINGTON — Several years ago Congress agreed to establish the Federal City College which hopefully would become C.C.N.Y. of Washington, the place where poor, able students could get their tickets of admission to the Ameritocracy. From the outset, Federal City has been dogged by bad luck, but at the moment the chances are good that Congress will simply strangle the infant institution in its cradle. It has become a zoo: a battleground for activists of the New Left who have formally insisted, by faculty vote, that the school's mission is "revolution." Congress thinks that fomenting revolution is a power not delegated to the national legislature by Article II of the Constitution.

Although the Bill of Rights nowhere provides that the United States must carry revolutionary on the tab, Congress' quite understandable attitude has been denounced far and wide as old-style (Joe) McCarthyism. Yet the notion of revolution on a federal credit card is preposterous. Academic freedom demands only that Congress (or a state legislature or a private board of trustees) keep hands off the academic life of an institution. But if a woman's college votes to become a bordello, or a military academy starts organizing a coup d'etat, academic freedom is no longer the relevant consideration.

IT'S TRAGIC DISRUPTION
The tragic dimension of the disruption at Federal City College has hardly been touched upon in the press. It was brought home to me in a taxicab which moved from the Capitol into the grandmother of all traffic jams on Independence Ave. As we sat there in the steam bath waiting for the police to settle a dispute between a truck and a Volkswagen, the negro cab driver and I got to talking. It turned out he had been with the Third Marine Amphibious up in I Corps and on discharge had returned to his wife and three children in Washington, intending to go to college. The G.I. Bill could provide the financial foundation, but he would have to drive a cab to make ends meet: "Federal City," he said, "would have been my bag."

Then in the unprintable language which soldiers use as a matter of habit (without even noticing it) and which suburban children adopt as an absurd, meaningless posture, he let go: "I'm going over there with some friends and we're going to kill us a few of the — — —"

The category was open-ended. I didn't want to push too hard. It was hot, he looked awful tough, and if he had "honkies" in mind, I am a very light pink. But as it turned out he was no racist. The group he and his friends had in mind for the abattoir was thoroughly desegregated;

it was the coalition of "Black militants" and New Left whites that was keeping him out of college. "—," he observed, "those — — would sell us into slavery to get on the — television."

He did differentiate on descending levels of contempt, between the black and white activists at Federal City. The Negroes were being used by the whites, "but if there is a real bust, the white boys will be sitting in the bleachers with their lawyers watching the black boys get the — kicked out of them — and cheering them all the way to the jug."

'NOTHING PERSONAL'

"Nothing personal," he concluded as we finally got in motion, "but your people rubbed our noses in — for three hundred years. If we listen to those little —s, we'll end up right where we started. Like Cassius Clay said, when some guy asked him on TV what he thought of getting guns, that would be almost as stupid as if the guy who asked the question took a poke at Cassius. Anybody who wants to fight, he can join the Marines. Me, I want to go to college."

What struck me later, as I meditated on this earthy message, was that to date this precinct has been unreported. Only a handful of white and Negro leaders (Roy Wilkins and Bayard Rustin most notably) have acted as though it even existed. Yet, only a racist would assume that Negroes are stupid enough to think they can seize power in the United States, or even bring greater equality by force of arms and intimidation.

CCHE Needs Man of Strict Objectivity, And Needs Him Soon

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — The circumstances surrounding the withdrawal of Donald Percy, a junior University of Wisconsin administrator, as the nominee for the key position of executive director of the Coordinating Council for Higher Education were unfortunate.

The recommendation of a nominating committee leaked out before the full CCHE membership had the opportunity to act. The result was a flash of political criticism. The candidate immediately withdrew and declared that he would retain his present job as one of the associate administrators on the Madison campus of the largest institution under the jurisdiction of the council.

While one may feel a certain regret at the circumstances surrounding the incident, it may also be supposed that Percy is realist enough at least in a hindsight view, to recognize the awkwardness of

The CCHE task is to plan the development of curriculum and plant and budget of the immense and rapidly growing higher educational program of Wisconsin. It can perform this task only if it is led by a captain of unquestioned independence of mind and devoid of any preference, or even latent loyalty, to any one of the systems under the rule of the gency.

Mr. Percy may very well have been that man. But the question is whether the public, and notably the sister systems, would have believed that a man who owed his swift rise in professional education to the University of Wisconsin administration could be entirely objective about that administration in his new task.

Surely as a loyal University of Wisconsin officer, he would have some private reservations if the nominee for the CCHE staff command had come from the ranks of the state university system bureaucracy, or from the vocational and adult school system, or if he had been a man of conservative bias with respect to higher education spending.

TIME OF ESSENCE

The ideal candidate would be one with some experience in educational administration, a man accustomed to leadership and command, with sufficient professional prestige to knock heads together when institutional jealousies and rivalries require, and who can step into the job of the departing Angus Rothwell very soon.

Can he be found? At the moment the outlook is not good. Reliable candidates have it that other candidates who have any familiarity with the Wisconsin system have not especially impressed the search committee.

If the CCHE is required to recruit from outside the state, as is entirely possible, it will very likely result in a period of immobility for the organization which ought to be energetically at work at a dynamic period in the development of higher education in the state.

It would require a brilliant man, indeed, to become sufficiently acquainted with this extensive empire during a period of a few months, and Rothwell has indicated that he intends to vacate his office in September. He has personal reasons for desiring to live elsewhere, and he gave his employers ample notice of his intention to leave.

Strictly Personal

What Really Is Realism in Art?

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Not long ago I heard a charming story about Picasso. An American sailor was introduced to the painter at a reception in Paris, and the sailor bluntly remarked to him, "I don't care for modern paintings, because they're not realistic."

Picasso said nothing in reply, but a little later the sailor showed him a snapshot of his girl friend back home. "She's very pretty," exclaimed Picasso, "but she is really as tiny as all that?"

The lay mind has a curious idea of what "reality" consists of. It never occurs to us that if we are to carry around a "realistic" photo of a wife or sweetheart, it should be life-size, three-dimensional, have a tactile surface resembling skin, and give off feminine odors.

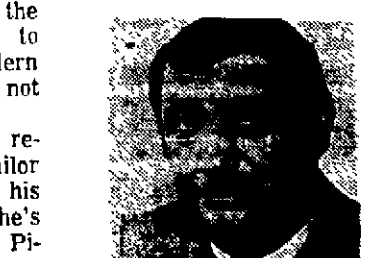

A snapshot is as much a "symbol" or "abstraction" of a person as one of Picasso's multi-faceted paintings. It merely symbolizes the person in a way we have become used to — but the Picasso painting may reveal more about the essential "reality" of the person than any photograph.

Modern science confirms modern art. A "realistic" rendition of a chair would show a whirling arrangement of electrons and neutrons, rather than the coarse object that presents itself to our sense perceptions. The chair we see is by no means the "chair-in-itself."

It is strange how people today will readily accept the fantastic theorems of science, yet reject the same theorems when applied to art. Subatomic physics — which delves into the basic "stuff" of existence — is all a matter of energy and movement and process, where the idea of "substance" disappears almost entirely.

Yet when a work of art attempts to depict the world in the same fluid and uncommon-sensible way, we ridicule it for "not showing the world the way it really is." If science had stayed with its old concept of "hard matter," it would have made no basic discoveries in the 20th Century. But we ask art to stay exactly where it was centuries ago.

Actually, modern art has foreshadowed modern science, and the painter intuitively grasped the structure of "inner" reality before the physicist confirmed it. A recent annual report of the Bell & Howell Company placed "abstract" paintings side by side with electronic photos of nuclear events, and it was impossible to tell one from the other, so closely did the paintings correspond to this "reality."

Obviously, much modern painting is bad, or banal, or fraudulent; but this is because its perpetrators are bad or banal or fraudulent painters, not because what they are trying to do is absurd. Their "unrealism," like subatomic physics or the psychology of the unconscious, may turn out to be the dominating realism of the 21st Century.

Summer Prime Time People on the Move Can Lighten Task by Planning in Advance

Summer has arrived and with it the prime moving time for the estimated 8 million Americans who will move interstate in 1969. If your family will be among them, there are several things you should know so your move can be carried out with a minimum of confusion and chaos.

One of the first things moving consultants suggest to keep down the cost of moving is to get rid of things you no longer need, things like old furniture, toys, bicycles, clothing, dad's accumulation of workshop parts and pieces, newspapers and magazines, paint cans, and other items that have outlived their usefulness. This would be a good time to do a general house cleaning.

Also, select a mover and agree upon a moving date well in advance. Living in such a mobile population, moving schedules are tight, especially during the summer, so make arrangements early.

Understand Estimates

One of the chief sources of disappointment for families on the move stems from a misunderstanding about estimates.

When trying to decide on a mover, call in a reputable company for an estimate on the cost. Remember that an estimate is not a binding contract, it is only an educated guess of what the final moving charges will be. The final charges on interstate long-distance moves are based on weight of shipment, mileage, and additional services performed.

All major long-distance movers currently are operating on the same tariff, so the final cost will be about the same, no matter which of these major carriers you employ. Unusually low estimates may be bait used by disreputable firms. You must, in the end, pay whatever is charged and not just what is estimated.

The mover's responsibility for loss or damage on an interstate move is limited to a flat rate of 60 cents per pound per article. It is probably wise to purchase additional coverage because many articles are worth more to replace than 60 cents per pound.

Pack in Advance

If you intend to do all of your own packing or some of it, start packing well in advance of the moving date. Don't wait until the last week or the day. This is the surest way to turn moving into a nightmare of confusion.

Packing dishes and fragile articles is one thing that requires the utmost care. Here's where professionals can help. Major movers today use corrugated materials instead of the old-fashioned shredded paper and excelsior. This is a safer and cleaner method of packing fragile items.

When packing, make sure you remove all jewelry, money and valuable papers from desk and bureau drawers. Don't load heavy objects into furniture drawers because this might damage furniture.

No Flammables

Don't pack matches, flammables or paint thinners. Keep things like soap, detergents, medicines

Advances in Standards Of Living Have More Impact Than Inflation

Luxuries Take 60 Per Cent of Recent Increase in Expenditures

Special to The Post-Crescent

If families in the four-county Fox Valley area, comprised of Outagamie, Winnebago, Calumet and Waupaca, were to total their living expenditures for the past year and discover, as is probable, that they were more than twice as great as 15 years ago, their immediate conclusion would undoubtedly be "inflation."

But, according to a recent study by the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago, they would be wrong.

It appears, from the bank's figures and a U. S. Commerce Department survey, that most of the increase is attributable to an advance in living standards. The findings show that about 60 per cent of the rise in family budgets in the 15-year period has been due to higher living and only 40 per cent to higher prices.

Upgrade Living Standard

Without realizing it, people in the Fox Valley as well as elsewhere in the nation have been upgrading their expenditures for goods and services with the result that the average family is living better than ever before — despite bigger taxes and inflation.

The change is especially discernible in the Fox Valley, where home ownership is at a high level, where more people have cars and where more is spent on luxuries than in former years.

An indication of this trend to better living is revealed in a special Commerce Department report that follows a nationwide sampling survey, covering the period since 1960, on the number of major household accessories in the average home.

In all four area counties, the number of families having two or more cars as increased as follows: Outagamie County, 26.7 per cent now compared to 17.6 per cent in 1960; Winnebago, 29.4 per cent now, 20.3 per cent in 1960; Calumet, 30.9 per cent now, 21.8 per cent in 1960; and Waupaca, 32.3 per cent now, 21.8 per cent in 1960.

More Clothes Dryers

The proportion of homes in the Fox Valley equipped with clothes dryers has increased 15 per cent in each of the four counties since 1960.

Television sets also are more numerous, with 98 per cent of the families in Outagamie and Winnebago now owning one or more sets compared with 96.1 per cent in Outagamie in 1960 and 94.7 per cent in Winnebago. A total of 96 per cent of Calumet and Waupaca families are now in this category in comparison to 91.6 per cent in Calumet and 92 per cent in Waupaca in 1960.

Also reported for the area were marked increases in air conditioners, dishwashers and stereophonic equipment.

All of this has been made possible by rising incomes, sufficient to provide these extras after absorbing the increase in prices, according to survey conclusions.

Milwaukeean Hurt After Stepping on Gas Instead of Brake Pedal

OSHKOSH — A 48-year-old Milwaukee woman sustained cuts to her legs and eyebrow at about 1:15 p.m. Saturday when the car she was driving hit the left shoulder of the road at the intersection of U.S. 41 and Winnebago County Trunk PP.

Mrs. Ethel MacDonald told county sheriff's department officers she stepped on the accelerator instead of the brakes and slammed into the shoulder of the road.

The injured woman was taken to Theda Clark Hospital in a City of Neenah ambulance for treatment. She was released later in the day. Her 1962 auto was wrecked in the mishap.

house plants over long distances, so make arrangements for them too.

Cars, Boats

A major household mover also says that today a second car or boat can be transported right along with your furniture on long distance moves.

The use of computers has resulted in the more efficient, prompt service for families-on-the-move. The computers match up the cubic footage of each move with the cubic footage of the moving vans which are available.

Moving schools are operated to instruct movers to learn the proper way to load and unload furniture, how to use furniture padding, and how to get the maximum use of available van space. Movers are interested in you. So before moving, why not discuss your particular moving situation with them. They probably can give much worthwhile advice to make your moving a smooth operation.

Wrongly Blamed Federal Agency, Not PSC, Cutting Local Rail Service

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Lawmakers complaining about state agency approval of train service discontinuance throughout Wisconsin are aiming their disapproval at the wrong place, the governor's regulatory cabinet was told Monday.

Arthur Padrutt, head of the Public Service Commission, said federal powers lodged in the Interstate Commerce Commission have knocked down most of the state's role in approving the ending of train service.

His comments were not identified as such, but were an obvious response to bitter attacks from Republican Sen. Reuben LaFave of Oconto who earlier this year blasted Padrutt and the PSC for the ending of train service in northeastern Wisconsin.

LaFave personally held up senate confirmation of Padrutt's reappointment as head of the PSC for several weeks during the attacks.

Got the Message

The lawmaker later relented and allowed the confirmation to come, saying that Padrutt had received the message intended from the delay.

Padrutt said that he had had "a great degree of astonishment" at the attacks, and that he had never been given an opportunity to reply to them.

He said that he was "in no sense trying to pose as an apologist for railroads," but said that modern society has created many "unprofitable" runs.

He said that the widespread use of the automobile and airplane have cut deeply into railroad revenues and that the decrease in train service is a direct result of that development.

State Host Powers

He said that most state powers in the field had been preempted by a 1958 federal law involving train operations within a state.

In those instances, he said, a railroad has to apply to the affected state agency — the PSC — for an ending of scheduled service. But if the state agency does not act on the application within 120 days or if the railroad is turned down, it can appeal the case to the ICC.

Interstate trains are initially involved with that federal agency.

Of the 36 applications for the ending of train service in Wisconsin since the passage of that federal law, 26 have gone directly to the federal agency, said Padrutt. Of those, 22 were granted and two were denied.

Of the 11 which came to the PSC, eight were granted, but all with conditions aiding local residents affected, he said. Four of those 11 involved experimental runs which the railroads could have dropped without PSC approval.

Add Powerglide, power disc brakes and whitewalls to this Chevelle.

Subtract $69.00 from last year's price.

You've heard that general rule. To get more you pay more.

Let's break it.

Take this '69 Malibu Sport Coupe. With head restraints. Add Powerglide automatic transmission, power disc brakes and whitewall tires. (Wheel covers, too, which haven't changed in price.) Then total. When you compare it with last year's Malibu, equipped the same way, it's priced $69.00* less.

The reason? We've made head restraints standard. And, while the whitewalls went up slightly, we've cut the price on Powerglide and our advanced-design power disc brakes, substantially. Altogether, it's more Chevelle for less money. Nice.

So's this. A standard 200-hp V8 engine. Astro Ventilation and full door-glass styling. A new anti-theft locking device on the steering column helps keep your car yours. A computer-selected suspension gives you a ride so smooth it leaves bumps where they belong. On the road. And it's all on Chevelle. Priced $69.00 less.

You see. You don't have to pay more to get more. And your Chevrolet dealer's proving it right now.

Putting you first, keeps us first.

Newer Republican Senators Opposing Dirksen Leadership

Nomination of Top Health Officer Among Major Points of Discord

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican senators of the leadership policies and tactics of Everett M. Dirksen is breaking into the open and there are signs the public criticism may increase.

Last week freshman Sen. Charles E. Goodell of New York made a floor attack on the veteran GOP leader for his attempts to block nomination of Dr. John H. Knowles as the nation's top health officer.

And Massachusetts Sen. Edward W. Brooke, also serving his first term, has been eager for a showdown with Dirksen over the Knowles affair.

Growing Feeling

These moves are symptomatic of growing feeling among the newer GOP senators that Dirksen is out of step with the times.

While the critical Republicans are unlikely to dislodge Dirksen now from the party leadership, he has held for a decade, they could pose a threat should the 1970 election bring another influx of younger, more liberal GOP senators as happened in 1966 and 1968.

Two-thirds of the GOP senators elected in those two years, plus two appointees, favor greater GOP initiatives in the domestic area, an end to the Vietnam war and a lessening of emphasis on military matters.

In this they join such GOP veterans as Sens. Jacob K. Javits of New York, Clifford P. Case of New Jersey and John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky who have always stood to the left of the party's leadership.

Mood of Country

"They're closer to the mood of the country," one Democratic leadership source said privately of the GOP newcomers.

One of the new Republicans agreed.

Referring to efforts by himself and Sens. Richard Schweiker of Pennsylvania, Charles McC. Mathias of Maryland and Marlow Cook of Kentucky, Sen. William Saxbe of Ohio said "We feel certain things that people who haven't run in some time, or who run in more rural states haven't found."

Saxbe said "I'm real disturbed" by Dirksen's belated efforts to block or change a resolution now before the Senate to reassert the Senate's role in any commitment made by the executive branch to foreign countries.

"During the campaign," he said, "there was so much talk about Congress shirking its duties and giving a blank check to the President. It puts Republicans who were here and said this last year into a tight position."

Few critics, however, would go as far as Goodell who told the Senate last Wednesday that Dirksen should withdraw his objection to appointment of Dr. Knowles as assistant secretary of health, education and welfare for health and "allow the Senate to work its will."

While the New York Republican did not go as far as he had in a Canada press conference where he referred to Dirksen as an "obstructionist," he did say he believes "very deeply in the President's right to nominate whomever he wants for such a post and that "these principles, essential facets of our government, are being violated."

Brooke Eager

And Brooke, who has told the White House there are sufficient votes to confirm Knowles, is eager for Nixon to press the matter.

Brooke, meanwhile, is also trying to get a Senate vote on his resolution urging the Nixon administration to take the lead in seeking a U.S.-Soviet moratorium on testing and deployment of MIRV—ultra-warhead, independently aimed missiles which represent the next step in the arms race.

Brooke has 10 GOP senators among his 40 cosponsors, none from the party leadership, and all relative newcomers except for Case, Javits and Cooper.

Hijacker Returns Family to Cuba

MIAMI (AP) — A Spanish-speaking man holding a knife and a bottle marked "explosives" hijacked a jetliner with 89 persons aboard to Cuba. His wife and teen-aged daughter were with him.

The Newark-to-Miami Eastern Airlines DC8 returned safely to Miami Sunday after spending several hours in Havana.

The hijacker and his family, who had been issued tickets under the names of "Mr. and Mrs. David Savage" and "Miss Perez," remained in the Cuban capital.

Second Officer David Savage said a bottle labeled "Danger: Explosives" was tied to the hijacker's wrist by a string.

"It looked like pink sugar and inside this was a test tube of what looked like methiodate, with wax on top of it," he said.

"It probably was just a diversion, but you don't know what it is, of course."

Stewardess Rose Mary Evans of Atlanta said the man called to her and drew a knife.

"He couldn't speak English but he beckoned me to unlock the door," she said. "He didn't say anything."

The pilot, Capt. Bernard L. Hutain, said the incident occurred just south of Norfolk, Va., and the man in his 50s with a deeply lined face said "Havana, Havana." Hutain added, "I got the message."

"His daughter, who said she was 15, came into the cockpit and acted as interpreter. She was short but attractive, with shoulder-length black hair and brown eyes. She indicated they were from Newark and that she had been in high school," Hutain said after the plane returned to Miami Sunday night.

"The man was in the jump seat behind me and very nervous. I explained we'd have to open bags to get maps but Eastern would cooperate."

"I gathered the family was having difficulty with our language and adjusting to our cultural differences."

"He mentioned the language problem and the daughter said Cuba was their country and they wanted to go back," Hutain said. "About every 15 minutes I talked to the passengers to keep them assured."

Soviets Knew Of Plans to Seize Pueblo

Czech General Who Defected Tells of Advance Bragging

NEW YORK (AP) — A Czechoslovak general who defected to the West says a Soviet minister told him an American intelligence ship would be seized eight months before North Korea seized the spy ship Pueblo.

Gen. Jan Sejna, in an article in the current issue of Reader's Digest, said Marshal Andrei Grechko, the Soviet defense minister, told of plans to "humiliate" the United States in May 1967 at a luncheon in Prague.

Sejna said that, immediately after the seizure, on Jan. 24, 1968, Soviet Col. Gen. Aleksandr Kuschchev told a briefing in Prague that seizing the Pueblo showed up both the United States and China.

Gain Stature

"It proves to the entire socialist camp that the Soviet Union helped North Korea gain stature, while the loudmouthed Chinese could do absolutely nothing," Sejna quoted Kuschchev as saying.

He said the Czech general staff was told that documents from the Pueblo had provided a breakdown of American naval forces in the Pacific and enabled Russians to read coded American messages.

Sejna, 40, defected to the United States in March 1968 with his 22-year-old son and his son's fiancée. He fled Prague Feb. 25, 1968 after being linked to an abortive attempt to block the ouster of Antonion Novotny, a Stalinist and former Czech Communist Party leader.

Interest Rates Were Raised Reluctantly, Banker Tells Probers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chase Manhattan Bank raised its prime interest rate to 8½ percent with great reluctance but with the conviction the increase was "absolutely necessary under prevailing money market conditions," David Rockefeller said today.

Rockefeller, chairman of the board of the New York bank, prepared his testimony for the House Banking and Currency Committee.

Once other banks started to raise their rate, he said, the only alternative his bank had was to increase its rate "sufficiently to halt a mass shift of borrowing to us from other banks and credit markets."

He said the boost has "given rise to a great deal of misunderstandings and a great many loose charges."

Result of Inflation

Rockefeller said rising interest rates "are a result rather than a cause of inflation and of the nation's efforts to cope with it."

"One cannot have persistent inflation, which has now reached a rate of 6 per cent per annum, without there being an effect on interest rates," he continued.

"This inflation, in turn, has been the end result of inadequate fiscal and monetary policies in the past."

"Regrettably, the policies now required and being pursued to correct these past mistakes have a temporary upward impact on interest rates. Once inflation is brought under control, interest rates will automatically decline and present restrictive policies can be modified."

Policy of Restraint

Rockefeller said it is essential to have the current policy of monetary restraint and an extension of the income tax surcharge "if we are to put a brake on inflation."

He added: "No such brake can be imposed without some slowdown in the national economy, and such a slowdown must in the end touch all sectors of economic life. I would hope that government spending also would be included under such restraint."

"Our problem is to achieve such a slowdown on a balanced basis, while avoiding any slide into recession or any reduction in essential social programs."

But the decisions that stirred the most controversy were in recent cases greatly expanding the rights of individuals when charged with crimes. These rulings brought down the wrath of many conservatives and resulted in charges that Warren and the court were soft on crime.

Warren never publicly defended his role as chief justice, off the bench, that is. In his decisions and in the questions he asked during court hearings he often indicated his philosophy was aimed at insuring individuals were treated fairly under the spirit as well as the letter of the law.

LAKE FOREST, Ill. (AP) — The Student Conference on Revolution, which opposes campus radicals, opens a week-long series of meetings today at Lake Forest College.

A spokesman said the group, numbering about 125, is against "tyrannists who deny others the freedom of speech, thought and assembly."

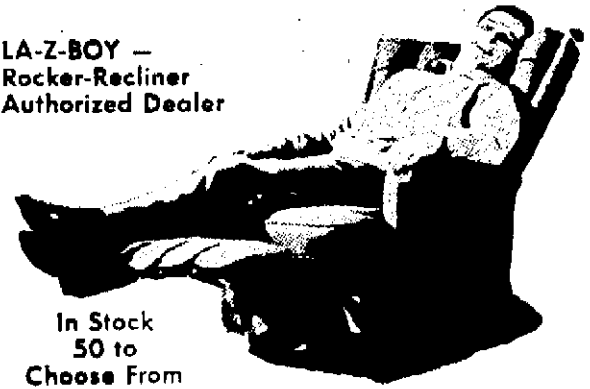

Members call themselves squares and say they are out to mobilize what they describe as the silent campus majority against militants.

Attic's 'Years Ago' Rated Success

James Parker Turns in Premier Performance in Theater Opener

BY DAVID F. WAGNER
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

There were several outstanding character portrayals in Attic Theater's ill-fated "Years Ago" Saturday night, but the premier performance was turned in by James Parker, in his first major role.

"Years Ago" is an autobiographical comedy-drama by actress Ruth Gordon (Oscar winner for "Rosemary's Baby"), who writes about home life at Wollaston, Mass., in 1913, the year she decided to become a lady of the stage. She had been known as Ruth Gordon Jones.

As her salty old father, Clinton Jones, Parker is eminently successful in delivering an image of a crusty, crude but compassionate and always-in-control father who spent most of his wonder years at sea and now must settle for memories and a $37.50-a-week factory foreman's job.

Only Experience
Prior to his current role, Parker's only Attic experience was last summer as Rev. Harper (just a few minutes on stage) in "Arsenic and Old Lace," a role which was a direct contrast with Clinton Jones. Parker seemed appropriate as Rev. Harper, which makes his coup as Clinton Jones even more praiseworthy. The cussing old sea dog, The Complete Patriarch, appears at first to be a supporting role. But before long it is obvious he carries a substantial portion of the action and Parker carries it beautifully.

One good actor does not make a play, and the success of "Years Ago" must be shared between Parker and the two women in his character's life, wife Annie and Ruth.

The latter is handled superbly by Ricky Vander Velden, a veteran of several Attic musicals. She is fortunate to have an expressive face and uses it well. Miss Vander Velden plays Miss Gordon as an impressionable teen-ager seeking a pot of gold on a theatrical stage—naïve but confident. Ricky is able to control a natural overacting written into the part, which contributes considerably to making Ruth Gordon Jones a believable youngster with real ambitions and a ton of determination; so much better than the cardboard character she could have been.

Emergency Service
As Annie Gordon, Margaret Heyn, another Attic veteran who is always a dependable asset, was pressed into emergency service less than two weeks before opening. Mrs. Heyn turned potential disaster into triumph, both for her and the company, for without a prepared Annie, "Years Ago" could not have gotten off the ground. Her performance is crisp and dialogue exchange, most often with her husband, generally well-paced.

An able supporting cast rounds out director Don E. Jones' production. Particularly effective are Marilyn Auer and Curtis Brown, who appear as Miss Glavin (a physical culture instructor) and Mr. Bagley (a man from the YMCA) in a brief but hilarious scene. Equally convincing but in a far different role is John R. Ernst as Fred Whitmarsh, a dejected, rejected suitor whose final exit is a saddening experience for an audience used to laughing.

Filling out the cast are Maureen McDonough and Mary Ann Esler as Katherine Follett and Anna Witham, friends of Ruth's, and Allen Gray as Mr. Sparrow, friend of the family and hand-man. Each is enjoyable, with Miss McDonough showing promise for larger roles in the future.

The set is in typically fine Attic fashion and technical values are professional. The only complaint is a credibility gap in clothing. While most costumes are appropriately 1913-ish, suits worn by Parker and Ernst are far too modern, particularly a cuffless, slim-cut outfit in which Ernst debuts in act one.

As a play, "Years Ago" is occasionally wordy, but generally worthy.

It will be repeated Tuesday through Sunday and again July 1-3. It is a guaranteed audience pleaser. As Fred Whitmarsh might say, the opening night crowd was just dippy about it.

Kaukauna Official to Attend School Program

KAUKAUNA — Superintendent of Schools, Julian Bichler, was selected by the Institute for Development of Educational Activities to participate in the fourth annual Fellows Program for School Administrators.

Bichler will attend a one-week session dealing with the problem of student activism and curriculum relevancy at Mills College, Oakland, Calif.

Indians Okay Settlement

Winnebagos Get $4.6 Million for Loss of Tribal Land

BLACK RIVER FALLS (AP) — The Winnebago, who once owned three million acres of land in Wisconsin, have agreed to a $4.6 million settlement with the government concerning the loss of their tribal land.

The Indians ended a five-hour debate Saturday by voting 80-27 for the settlement, on which Congress is expected to act this year. Winnebagos in Nebraska voted last week to settle with the government.

About 2,000 Winnebago live in Wisconsin, and approximately an equal number in Nebraska.

In 1829, the government paid $600,000 for half the Wisconsin land owned by the tribe. After subsequent treaties, the only land left to the Winnebago is a reservation in Nebraska.

Indian spokesmen told Saturday's meeting that lawyers' fees and expenses may consume about $500,000 of a settlement. The balance is to be held by the government at 4 per cent interest until it can be determined how the money would be divided. A decision, they said, take two years.

Should the money be divided evenly, each Winnebago might realize $11,500.

About 170 Indians attended Saturday's meeting. Approximately 60 did not vote because of ineligibility, or because they felt they knew too little about the settlement proposal.

Interstate Highway System

No Stop Lights for 1,800 Miles

Special to The Post-Crescent

WASHINGTON — Long-distance motorists now can travel 1,800 miles across the United States without seeing a red light.

Progress on the Interstate Highway System permits a vacationer to drive non-stop — except for toll booths and gasoline refills — between Boston, Massachusetts, and Chamberlain, South Dakota, in about 30 hours.

Almost 66 per cent of the planned 42,500-mile super-road network has been completed, the National Geographic Society says.

Largest public works program in history, the system will link virtually every locality of 50,000 or more people with high-speed, limited-access roads that will carry 20 per cent of the Nation's traffic.

Faster and Safer
Besides speeding travelers on their way, the system saves lives, officials say. They estimate that interstate travel is 25 per cent faster and two-and-a-half times safer than old primary routes.

More than 2,000 miles have been opened to traffic since motorists set out on vacation in the summer of 1968.

The Department of Transportation's Bureau of Public Roads reports the system's status, as of March 31: Completed mileage — 27,975 (66 per cent); under construction — 5,050 (12 per cent); in preliminary stages — 9,474 (22 per cent).

Motorists who anticipate transcontinental signal-free driving may have to wait until the entire system is finished. The project bears a completion date of 1974, but officials — confronted with route controversies in several cities and other delays — doubt the deadline can be met.

Some experts predict the system may be completed about 1979 unless it is further expanded. Fifteen hundred miles were added to the program in 1968.

The expense has been tremendous — $34.2 billion so far. The final cost is expected to exceed $60 billion, an average of more than $1,400,000 a mile. The federal government pays 90 per cent of the expense through the Highway Trust Fund. The states pay the rest.

With more than 3,000 interstate miles planned, Texas ranks first in the system. California is second with more than 2,100 miles. Delaware, with about 40 miles, will have the shortest network. Alaska plans no interstate roads.

The ambitious program has produced a remarkable side benefit. Bulldozers have unearthed important paleontological finds.

Near Cleveland, where Interstate 71 has slashed through a fossil-rich section of shale, the city's National Science Museum has recovered thousands of fossil fish that swam in a sea there 350 million years ago.

"Before we're finished," museum director William E. Scheele told National Geographic writer Robert Paul Jordan, "we expect to turn up 50,000 to 100,000 new specimens for scientific research."

Public Hearing on Kaukauna Sewer, Paving Scheduled

KAUKAUNA — The board of public works has set assessment rates for concrete paving and sanitary sewer installation projects to be carried out this summer. A public hearing on proposed assessments will be held at 6:30 p.m. June 30.

Assessment for paving will be $7.50 per front foot. Streets scheduled for paving include W. Twelfth and W. Fifteenth from Sullivan Avenue to Kenneth Avenue; Main Avenue from Tenth to Eleventh Streets; Kenneth Avenue from County Trunk K to W. Thirteenth Street and Seventeenth Street from Crooks Avenue to Hendricks Avenue.

An assessment rate of $6.20 per front foot has been set for sanitary sewer on Armstrong Lane from Ducharme Street to a point approximately 500 feet northwesterly. A rate of $5.55 per front foot has been set for sanitary sewer on August Street from Plank Road to a point 400 feet easterly, on Grandview Lane from Claribel Street to a point 300 feet southwesterly and on High Street from Fern Lane to a point 500 feet northwesterly.

The common council has already received objection, signed by nine residents of W. Twelfth Street, to the proposed concrete surfacing project in front of their homes. They felt present street conditions were adequate as very little traffic was generated on that street.

The health committee had suggested an ordinance which would prohibit all burning, with the exception of leaves, but the legislative committee members felt such an ordinance would be overly restrictive.

Real Estate Broker Requirements Vetoed

MADISON (AP)—A bill which would have set up prerequisites for an applicant taking the real estate broker's examination was vetoed Friday by Gov. Warren P. Knowles.

The bill provides an applicant must satisfy one of four requirements: three years as a salesman with 60 per cent of that time being given to real estate; completion of a 30-hour real estate study course; a college degree with related business courses or completion of a two-year vocational school real estate course.

Car Hits, Kills 6 Cows On Roadway

Six cows were killed, a youth was injured, and 1968 auto was demolished in an accident about 8:45 p.m. Sunday on Grand View Road, two miles south of Stephenville.

Outagamie County police said Duane Baumann, 19, route 2, Appleton, was west-bound on Grand View Road and had just come over a hill when he saw the herd of cows being driven down the roadway.

Baumann said he applied his brakes but the auto skidded on the wet pavement. His car struck and killed six Holsteins owned by Arnold Draheim, route 1, Hortonville.

Baumann's brother, Ronald, 16, also of route 2, Appleton, was taken to New London Community Hospital by Hortonville police for treatment of a cut ear. He was released after treatment Sunday night.

Scare Talk Could Hurt Coming Census Work

BY SYLVIA PORTER

"The upcoming 1970 census forms will contain more than 120 questions," a recent editorial in a Southern newspaper warned erroneously. "If you fail to tell who uses your bathroom you can be imprisoned," the editorial continued — also falsely.

Porter

"Your answers," warned a terrifying (and utterly inaccurate) recorded telephone message publicized in 200 U.S. cities a few weeks ago, "had better jibe with what you put on your tax return or you will be subject to criminal prosecution . . . by the Internal Revenue Service for possible income tax evasion."

"Shall we become a nation," asked the respected Wall Street Journal a while ago, "where the government can jail anyone who declines to discuss the condition of his plumbing?"

This type of scare talk is, at this moment, threatening to hamstring the 1970 census — a nosecount projected to cost the U.S. taxpayer roughly $200 million. A startling 140 U.S. representatives are now backing and publicizing a variety of bills which would strictly limit the number and type of census question and even place the census on a largely voluntary basis.

Could Be Costly

"If they succeed," remarked Dr. Conrad Taeuber, the census bureau's top demographer and census-planner, in an interview, "the census will be delayed by at least a year, the $200 million expenditure will be largely wasted — and most of the statistical results will be next to nothing."

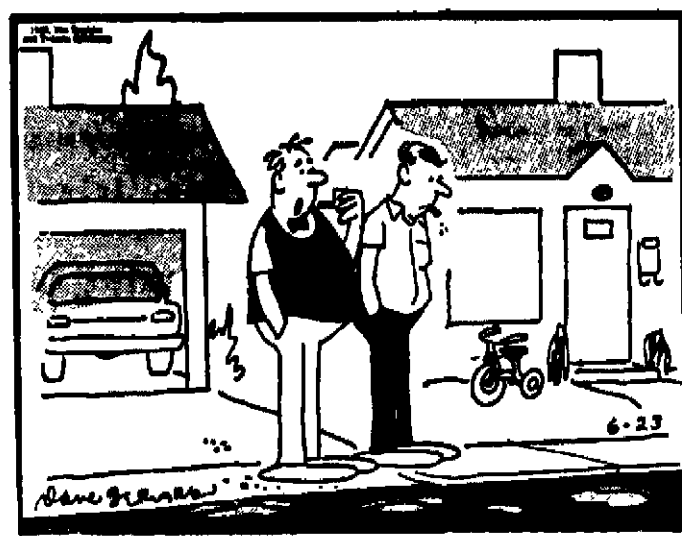

Yet, the anti-census movement actually could succeed. If it did, it would be an enormous blow to government agencies apportioning tens of millions of taxpayer dollars each year to the nation's neediest areas, to corporations staking more billions of stockholders dollars on expansion and marketing strategies, to cities, states and towns plotting future growth patterns and rates, to school systems, road builders, airport planners, civil rights organizations, to manpower development planners, on and on.

Let me make it abundantly clear that I detest "Big Brother" and I am as sensitive to the threat of an invasion of my precious privacy as any of you. But let's get the record straight.

The 1970 census will not ask with whom you share a shower, a bathroom or a kitchen, but rather whether your kitchen and bathroom facilities are used by other families. Sharing of such facilities is a crucially important indicator of overcrowding. The census bureau is prohibited by law from disclosing the specific answers by any individual to anybody — including Internal Revenue Service, Social Security or any other agency.

Comparatively Short

The 1970 Census will not be substantially longer than previous censuses. Out of every five households, four will be asked to answer only a brief, 23-question form; one in seven households will be asked to answer an additional 43 questions; one in 20 households will get slightly longer questionnaires. The absolute maximum number of questions will be 86 — hardly an unconscionable burden.

Only nine new questions are planned for 1970.

Technically, the penalty for failing to answer census questions is 60 days in jail and a $100 fine — but only two individuals have ever been penalized and they received fines only.

By contrast, in 1880, there were a total of 470 questions, and most families had to answer 120 against 23 on the 1970

Health Department Plans to Fight Lice

HONOLULU (AP) — The Hawaiian Health Department is about to embark on a nit-picking project—a lice eradication program in public schools.

The $20,000 program was approved by the legislature after a survey by University of Hawaii graduate students. They found, for example, that pupils at Kaele Elementary School here were absent 497 days because of lice infestation of the scalp and hair.

census. And in 1880 and 1890, individuals were asked such questions as whether they often had to be restrained by a strait-jacket; the head size of any "idiot" in the family; whether the respondent was "habitually intemperate," a "tramp," "syphilitic," or a "habitual drunkard."

Now that was nosy!

Military Keeps Strong Hold Over Greeks

Junta Sees No Need for Free Elections, Watches Areas Where Trouble Could Erupt

BY ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

ATHENS — The Greek military dictatorship, after two years of bland assurances to Washington about restoring democracy, intends to retain power indefinitely without free elections — posing immense danger to long-range stability in the strategic Eastern Mediterranean.

If the colonels who seized power April 21, 1967, on the pretext of preventing Communism here ever intended any partial return to representative government, that intention is dead. Even the few politicians who have tried to cooperate with the colonels now concede that Col. George Papadopoulos, the prime minister, envisions an institutionalized tyranny modeled after Salazar's 37-year dictatorship in Portugal.

Would Lose Election

Unlike our last visit there two years ago when the freshly installed junta pledged an early return to constitutional forms, the regime now regards itself as permanent. Brig. Gen. Stylianos Pattakos, deputy prime minister and the junta's No. 2 man, bristled when we asked about popular elections. "That is an internal matter that you cannot inquire about," he said. "Go ask the people on the street. Nobody wants elections."

Indeed, all objective sources here agree the military regime would lose badly in free elections. The colonels' "revolution," attempting by edict to transform the Greeks into work-oriented puritans, has depleted what popularity the regime enjoyed in 1967. Although past Greek governments have had excellent success in rigging elections, the military regime's popular base is so low — perhaps 10 per cent — that calling elections would be equivalent to surrendering power.

Evans

Unwilling to surrender power, the colonels have turned Greece into a huge political pressure-cooker with the true feelings of the Greeks suppressed by the local gendarmerie's watchful eye. An election today probably would show a sharp leftward swing. More ominously, after two or three additional years, the pressure-cooker may explode into insurrection with Communists in leading roles.

These ominous prospects have their source in perhaps the tightest police state this side of Moscow. Violating the colonels' own new constitution, non-Communist potential foes of the regime — mainly army officers and intellectuals — are imprisoned without indictment or trial. Reports of torture are impossible to verify in detail, but maltreatment and brutalization of low-level political prisoners continue.

Mail, Phones Monitored

Former political leaders are watched constantly. They cannot speak their view, are denied passports to travel abroad, have their mail and telephone calls monitored. One former Prime Minister cannot move without a car full of police agents following him. All former Cabinet members are tailed when they visit their old constituencies.

The regime's iron vise is even tighter on the academic world. So many teachers have been purged that the educational system is crippled. Distinguished professors are subject to humiliating interrogation by Col. John Ladas, hard-line secretary general of the interior ministry. University students, solidly against the regime, are intimidated by police agents attending their very classes. A further deterrent is formed by severe prison sentences given six young teaching assistants (two of whom later were tortured) for distributing anti-junta propaganda.

The first armed resistance against this tyranny has come from the right: clandestine supporters of exiled King Constantine. Infrequently reported in the controlled Greek press are daily bombing incidents in the heart of Athens (forcing the government court martial to change buildings). There have been unconfirmed reports that the royalist resistance was responsible for the recent deaths of three pro-junta officers.

Officers Arrested

Thus, 16 retired officers arrested recently are all royalists with anti-Communist records (two of them with service in the Korean war). The regime's contention that the arrested officers participated in a left-wing army plot is only a propaganda smokescreen.

Harassing though it may be, however, the royalist resistance is incapable of overthrowing a regime so vigilant against potential opposition. Remembering the existence of the anti-Nazi resistance in World War II, Greeks fear that the Communists — better organized than ever — will dominate it and when the resistance assumes major proportions.

That day remains relatively distant. Greek Communists, badly fragmented into rival segments, are passive. The Soviet ambassador here is circumspect, declining to discuss Greek internal affairs during a recent two-hour luncheon with an anti-junta politician. The Communists know the time is not ripe for insurrection.

This summer, more than ever, you need a big refrigerator-freezer

It's a fact! Most favorite summertime taste treats are stored either in your refrigerator-freezer or need ice from it. Some items — like watermelon — require lots of room. Others demand freezing temperatures — like popsicles. One thing's certain — you'll enjoy more summertime treats if you have a big-capacity refrigerator-freezer. New models are plenty big inside but compact in outside dimensions. And with many models, you never have to defrost.

Emotions May React To Low Blood Sugar

BY GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.
(Part in a series of three articles)
Dear Dr. Thosteson: Could low blood sugar affect one emotionally or mentally? I was told by a doctor that I have this condition and low thyroid, but he said it makes a person tired and sleepy. I get the most awful feelings and sensations. — Mrs. L.D.

"Awful feelings and sensations" is a little too vague for me to try to give a yes or no answer.

This I can say, though: low blood sugar (hypoglycemia) most decidedly can affect the emotions and thinking processes, among the other things it can do.

In your case, you have two problems, the low blood sugar and the low thyroid activity. It is not at all uncommon for the two conditions to be present in the same person — although either can, of course, be present without the other.

Low thyroid activity — which usually can be corrected quite readily — can make a person tired and sleepy.

Low blood sugar has a different type of reaction.

I have written about this quite a few times in this column, but from the number of inquiries which still come in (in fact, the number is increasing sharply), I am of the opinion that I still have not written enough about it. It bothers a great many people.

Low blood sugar is different from many problems in that it is not ordinarily a continuous condition. It comes in spurts, and it fluctuates. It is dynamic, not static.

To understand it, keep in mind the source of the body's energy. The "fuel" is blood sugar, in the form of glucose, carried by the bloodstream.

The amount rises after we have eaten, then declines gradually as we use up our sugar. If we reach a point at which the sugar level is too low — and especially if we reach this point too abruptly — we can have "symptoms of low blood sugar."

These include such things as hunger, weakness and an "all-gone" feeling, trembling, headache, visual disturbances. Since the brain gets all of its energy from blood sugar, paucity of sugar can affect both thinking and emotions. Some folks become unaccountably crabby or neurotic, and in some instances there may be blackouts or (more likely) a feeling as though you were going to faint but do not actually black out. There can be mental confusion.

With such a range of troubles that can arise from these dips in the blood sugar level, it is no wonder that much attention is now being aimed at overcoming the trouble. I have, in fact, just completed a booklet on the topic, "Help for Hypoglycemia — Low Blood Sugar." For anyone interested, the booklet is ready for distribution and will be sent in return for 25 cents to cover printing and handling, and a long self-addressed, stamped envelope. Send requests to Dr. Thosteson, care of The Post-Crescent.

Meantime, tomorrow I will discuss what can be done to prevent trouble from low blood sugar.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is there any harm in eating the rind of an orange? — M.M.

No. In fact, the rind is rich in a vitamin that may be beneficial in some bleeding problems. I know of some eye specialists who, treating bleeding in the eyes, recommend putting a whole orange, rind and all, into a blender, grinding and mixing it ready to drink.

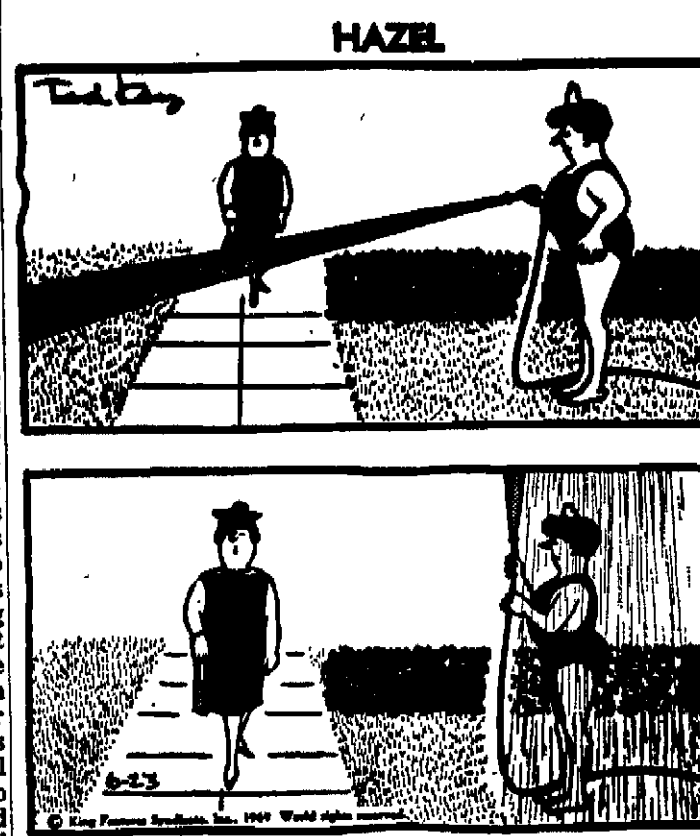

Note to "D.V. and 18 others": The one general rule for using a douche is to do so only when prescribed by your doctor for medical reasons. It is not necessary for general hygiene, and can be harmful to some extent.

Dr. Thosteson is interested in all his readers' questions, and whenever possible uses their questions in his column, because of the great number received daily, he regrets that he cannot answer individual letters.

Proxmire Blames Pentagon for Spending Waste

WASHINGTON (AP) — "The Pentagon is directly responsible for the waste and inefficiency that has been exposed in the area of military procurement," Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., charged Friday.

'25 Beans' Game Is Fun for Two Players and a Referee

BY CAPPY DICK

The game of "25 Beans" is for two players, although a third person must act as the referee.

Each player must be supplied with 25 dried beans and a glass jar or tumbler to use as a shaker. The beans are to be placed in the jars.

The referee gives the instructions for each play. As shown in Figure 3, she tells the players how many beans are to be shaken from their jars. Figures 1 and 2 show how the players do this.

A player will either shake the correct number of beans from his jar, or will shake out too many. If one or the other shakes out an incorrect number, the excess number of beans must be surrendered to his opponent, then a new command is given by the referee. As in-ments the Air Force supplied the subcommittee Friday.

"Briefly it appears that a number of highly placed officials, both military and civilian, responsible for costly weapons procurement, have seriously neglected costs of these programs," Proxmire said in a statement.

"Many Pentagon officials seem to believe that the only concern is to get a weapons system to perform, not to control costs," he said.

Shake Out Beans

figure 3, one of the players — Ethel — shook out seven beans instead of five so she must give two of them to Bill, her opponent. If both players shake out an incorrect number the beans must be returned to the jars.

The game continues for 15 minutes, unless one player or the other runs out of beans before that time, thus losing the game. At the end of 15 minutes the player who has the most beans is the winner.

The referee may command that any number of beans be chosen are to be shaken from the jars.
